It Cost Him $2.

One of the clerks in a store in the Centre had his little joke Monday, which cost him just $2. It seems that Mr. Buck, the junk dealer, was at the store when the clerk approached him and asked what price he paid for lager beer bottles. Mr. Buck informed the young man who said he had a lot at his house which he wanted Mr. Buck to go down and get. The young man wrote the name McCarthy, South street, on a piece of paper and Mr. Buck departed for the bottles.

As was expected, Mr. Buck could find no would make it $2. KANAUNEE HEIGHTS.

The Yankees halted in yonder glen, A ragged column of ragged men! Just where the brook leaps, babbling shrill, Down from the heights of Kanaunee hill: And camp lights gleamed.

Were soldier veteran and soldier lad, Fainting with hunger and sore oppressed. They flung themselves on the ground to rest Till daylight beamed

And dreamed of death. Down and up, while the tired camp Silent lay in the dusk and damp, Save now and then a dreamer smiled And called on mother or wife or child With bated breath.

Up and down through Kanaunee lawn, Up and down till the morning dawn, Then swift sprang the soldiers, gaunt and gray, To greet the sun and the battle fray With souls of steel!

Souls of steel and muscles of might, Strong are they who fight for the right, "For God, for home, for America! Cheer!" cried the general; "Hurrah, hurrah! The foe shall reel!"

And reel they did! In a crimson flood The broad sun bathed that night—in blood! The British staggered, for God's own hand Took up the sword of an outraged land And sheathed it then.

Sheathed it in many a noble breast, E'er sunk the sun down Kanaunee s crest. Though brave be foeman and strong of limb. What shall avail when God copes with him?

And the pale moon grew more pale and gray That night as she gazed where the sleepers The sleepers that slept so strangely still On the crimson grass of Kanaunee hill— And never stirred!

And now and then a dreamer smiled.

And called on mother or wife or child.

The pale moon heard. -Bee Evelyn Phinney in Youth's Companion.

"I approached the first group of about 200 frenzied men. A captain was just leaving them, pursued by taunts and jeers. He was an insignificant man, with a repulsive face; naturally pompous in bearing, but now thoroughly cowed. Yet as he saw me he assumed a certain uneasy bravado.

THE PRESIDENT'S SYMPATHY May Bring Relief to Irish Americans

Confined in British Prisons. WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 .- The secretary of state has recently sent an important in-struction to the United States legation in London, respecting Dr. Thomas Gallagher, John Curtin Kent and other Irish-American citizens, now serving life senences of imprisonment in Great Britain. Numerous representations have been made to this government in their behalf, and President Harrison's sympathy has een so aroused that he has directed that the legation in London bring the matter to the attentive consideration of the British government with a view to securing such modification of the sentence of the court as will bring about their release.

Gallagher is reported to be in greatly mpaired health and the legation has been instructed to have a visit made to his prison and procure such alleviation of his confinement as humanity may suggest, pending the consideration of the case as newly presented. Strong confidence is felt at the state department that, in view of the president's deep interest in the matter of long confinement, which the prisoners have already suffered, and of their certified good character in the United States, the present Gladstone government will listen favorably to the appeal of the government of the United States and grant them liberty to return to the country of their

BOTH SIDES ARE MAKING BIG CLAIMS.

Leaders Summing Up the Probable to do anything of the kind. Arrange-Vote of New York.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—At the national yesterday was devoted to figuring on the arrests during the next two or three days results of the election in this state, and on the basis of the registration the result was 20,000 majority. This majority, of course, shall be fair and the count honest, and the Democrats state, can only be obtained | they will resort to the externest of meas by a full polling of the vote.

At the Republican headquarters the scene was one of great activity. There were innumerable callers, most of whom exact state of affairs in their respective

The big chiefs at the headquarters of both the Democratic and Republican par-ties were more accessible than ever yesterday. The Democratic national committee, it is said, has tried to induce Mr. Cleveland to speak in several of the close states, notably Connecticut. As a result of a long conference, it was decided that the efforts of the Democratic managers gree of reason, hope to accomplish." must be doubled in Indiana and Connecticut. It was agreed that everything possible had been done in New York, but it was decided to reinforce the besieging forces in some of the states. It was de clared that if Cleveland would consent to speak outside of the state it would be a great gain, but Mr. Cleveland has a great objection to stumping, and it was announced that the only speech he would make outside of New York would be in New Jersey. The time and place will be decided by the New Jersey state commit-

The rumors current for the past few days that prominent political manipulators were to be arrested were revived yesterday. Dave Martin's name was nentioned among others, but that party was at Republican headquarters as usual. At the Democratic national headquar-ters a dispatch was received from Chicago saying that the Democrats of Illionois had no longer any doubt of Carrying the State for Cleveland and that they were offering even even money on the success of the Democratic electoral ticket.

John Stetson of Boston, the well-known theatrical manager, is at the Hoffman House. He informed a reporter that he was so confident of the Democrats carrying Massachusetts that he had left $30,000 at the Tremont House before he came away, to be wagered that Governor Russell would be re-elected. He also predicted that Cleveland would carry New York, New Jersey and Indiana. He declared that he was Republicans chose to cover that Cleveland would be elected.

The Indiana Fight. Indiana was the word most frequently heard yesterday wherever politicians gathered. The indications now point to a ig Republican campaign fund in Indiana his week. It was learned from good au-hority that a large amount of money, which had been laid aside for use in New York state on election day, has been turned over to the Indiana account. The evident dissatisfaction about money matters at the state headquarters in the Fifth Avenue Hotel seems to confirm this story. Chairman Hackett is besieged daily by a arge lot of Republican leaders from the ountry districts, who are clamoring for oney. After their interviews with Mr. Hackett they go away with a gloomy expression. Their disappointment is all the greater because, relying on the big sums they received for registration work as a basis for subsequent calculations, they expected to carry home with them very eavy wallets for election day.

The Republican national committee gave out the following analysis of the registry lists of the city of New York:

Republican Figures. "There are many significant facts about the registration in New York city, all pointing, in the judgment of the Repubican national committee, to a victory for Harrison and Reid. One of the most mportant facts is that the registration for 1892, below Fortieth street, or in that portion of the city where the Democrats are especially strong, is 3301 less than it was in 1888. Above Fortieth street, the registration this year stands 149,363, against 122,274, an increase of 27,049, or "The entire increase in registration, therefore, is above Fortieth street. Comparing the registration by assembly disricts as at present constituted, with the otal vote cast in 1891 in these districts, he fact appears that in the districts casting heavy Democratic majorities the in-crease of the registration over the vote cast is about 25 per cent., while the increase in districts giving a small Demo-crat or Republican plurality is about 37 per cent. The first ten assembly districts of this city are heavily Democratic, their majorities ranging on the vote cast in 1891 from 2000 to 5000. In those districts the percentage of increase of registration this year over the vote cast in is only 22.96 per cent. cent. The Twenty-third district is a Republican district. There the increase is 51 per cent. The Twenty-seventh district is slightly Democratic, but it contains an normous Republican vote. There the in-crease is 41 per cent. The Twenty-eighth

tion is low, showing a small increase over a conservative estimate. It allowed for a started the bribery of voters to help their listrict is also slightly Democratic, but there, too, the Republican vote is heavy. The increase there is 37 per cent. The A Republican Bolt. sum and substance of all this is that in those parts of the city where the Republicans are strong registration is very heany, showing large increases over the total vote cast last year, while in the heavy Democratic districts the registragress in this district, and putting in his place the names of Frank G. Clarke of

be on the registry lists of this city 342,000 names, but there are not 342,000 nor 330, lies in the Democratic districts. In those districts, however, there has been an enormous amount of false and illegal reg istration. Undoubtedly as many as 1500 Democratic repeaters have been registered, and these men expect to operate at ments are now being made by which every scoundrel of them will be followed and arrested the moment he undertakes to perform an illegal act. The number these fellows available for nefarious work headquarters of the Democrats, most of on election day will be greatly reduced by Indictments are now being prepared and warrants issued for a host of these charthe basis of the registration the result was reached that Cleveland ought to have acters. The Republican leaders are determined that the election in this city ures known to the law to assure that re

> "The Republicans county committee, by omparing their canvass of the city with the registry lists, have ascertained that substantially the whole Republican vote of this city is on the rolls. About 115,000 Republican votes will be cast, as compared with 103,000 in 1888. The full vote of the city will not be many more than 291,000. If the Democrats obtain 58.5 per cent. of the total estimated, they will be doing uncommonly well on the situation as it stands today. This will give them a vote of 170,000, and a plurality of 55,000

HARTFORD, Nov. 2.-Damaging state nents against the New York and New England railroad were made before Judge Prentice in the superior court, affecting the road's claim to register $2,000,000 of the proposed issue of $25,000,000 bonds. The suit is to restrain the road from issuing the $2,000,000 of bonds for registration. The hearing was on a motion to compe the road to produce its books in court.

James H Webb of New Haven, of counse for plaintiffs, Nathan F. Goldsmith and Edward F. Knowlton of Boston, testified that he passed the greater part of five weeks in taking the deposition of Secretary Perkins. Mr. Webb said he examine fourteen sets of books of various railroad rganizations, which at one time or an other had contributed to the organization of the New England railroad. All the books shower

November, 1892, promises to be anything no one can fortell when the long-drawnout drought will break, this special kind of Electors of President and Vice-President dryness may continue for thirty days to come; but, otherwise, the month will be ively enough. The weather may lack wetness, but there isn't likely to be anyhing dry about the news.

Today the hunters will shoulder their guns and make for the forests where game bounds. But the great time for hunting will fall upon November 8.

The snow storm of ballots on the 8th st. will reach from Maine on the East to regon in the West-from Florida in the southeast to Texas and California in the outhwest-and the deluge will last all day ng. At night the skies will burn with red fire and, since a few curses will fly around in more quarters than one, it i likely that what the scientific gentlemen call the "atmospheric air" will smell a little of brimstone.

Nevertheless, in spite of the pyrotechnics of the evening of the 8th, the true lisplay of the month will occur on the nights of the 13th, 14th and 15th, when the earth will pass through the grand zone of the November meteors. Which ticket Dame Nature will vote this year is not easy to tell, but one thing certain, a great many people in this land of liberty will assume that Christopher Columbus is up there aloft in the constellation; Leo chucking down stars in honor of the elec ion of President Blank Blank.

Then the mid-November week wil probably pass quietly, some sixty millions of us getting our mouths in shape for roast turkey and cranberry sauce. Should Jersey fail to go both ways on the Sth. mebody will be sure to pucker their lips at the tartness of the aforesaid cranberry

But as the month grows older it doubt ess will grow in grace and with politica and meteoric excitements pasts and done usiness will boom and all will go as nerry as marriage bell.—Ex.

THE BOSTON PARADE.

Battalions from Quincy in Seventh Di vision, E. W. Adams Commanding. The grand Republican torchlight demonstration will take place in Boston tomorrow evening. From the circular giving details the following information is gleaned: All battalions from South End, Roxbury, Dorchester and South Boston, Providence, Boston and Albany, Old Colony, Revere Beach and New England Railroad Depots, will approach by the nut of one of its wheels Tuesday in the way of Boylston street. square and street car travel was delayed The right of all division will rest on Dartmouth street. At 7.45 P. M. three guns will be fired, when all organizations will relight torches and come to "Attention."

At 8 P. M. a second signal of one gun will be fired, when the column will move. The column will move from Dartmouth and Boylston streets, via Boylston street, Berkley street, Columbus avenue, West Chester park, Tremont street, Worcester street, Washington street, Dover street, Tremont street, School street, Washington Tuesday evening, caused considerable street and be dismissed at Adams square (foot of Cornhill).

The seventh division, Evart W. Adams of Quincy commanding, will form on Newbury street, extending from Dartmouth street to Arlington street, and will consist of the following organizations: South Boston Ward 14 Republican Club Band, 150 men.

McCall Light Guards, Cambridge, 150 men. McCall Light Guards, Somerville, Infantry, 140, mounted, 40, Drum Corps 20-200 men. Dorchester Battalion, composed of Dorches ter, Mattapan, Quincy, Neponset, Milton Drum Corps 450 men. Ward 9 Republican Club, Drum Corps, 75 men. Ward 10 Republican Club, Drum Corps, 100 men.

A Bit of Bangor Property. There is one piece of real estate in Maine which is entailed so far as such property can be in this country. It is known as Dundee, and is situated in the town of Limington. In 1668 Francis Small bought it with other lands from the Indians, the original deed being yet preserved in the family. Having descended from father to son for several generations, Humphrey Small purchased small section of his father's land. which he named Dundee, and he stoutly affirmed that Dundee should remain in the ownership of the Smalls forever, and that it should be allowed to become a forest again. Twice he was offered more than double its value, but although hard pressed for money be remained true to his declaration.

On the 28th of November this property will have been in possession of the family 224 years, and to commemorate this and also to celebrate the centennial of Limington, which was organized in 1792, the family had a reunion and pica larger gathering, to include all of the Small family that can be gathered together. -Bangor Whig and Courier.

Architecture at the Fair.

The architectural standards of the average man are the best buildings he has seen. To show him the possibilities of beautiful construction is to enlarge without getting so effective an architectural lesson as he will get at Chicago. He will not only see admirable buildings there, but he will also see some pretty bad ones, and having the good and the bad side by side he will have so much the better chance of learning which is which, and wherein consists the excellence or inferiority of either. The fair buildings have cost a great sum of money, and most of them are fortunate in securing Mr. Galbraith as superintendent, as he is well fitted for the position.

TORCHLIGHT PARADE,

Committee Chosen to Arrange for a Grand Republican Demonstration.

A meeting was held at Republican headuarters Tuesday evening to arrange for a grand torchlight parade in Quincy. It was decided by a vote that the parade should take place Monday evening November 7. A committee consisting of Messrs, Benson and Bent of the Graham Guards; Messrs. Wadsworth and Keating of the Merrill Mounted Men: Messrs. Newcomb and Rideout of the Republican club; and the two first officers of the Scandinavian and Atlantic battalions were appointed to have entire charge of the arrangements. This committee subsequently held a meeting and voted to invite all battalions in this senatorial district and battalions from South Boston and Dorchester to participate. An invitation is also extended to all Republican voters to participate in the parade and to wear a tall hat and carry a torch. A committee was appointed to select a

WILL VOTE FOR CLEVELAND. Judge Gresham Settles All Doubts b

Writing a Letter. NEW YORK, Nov. 2 .- Major Wilson, who was solicitor of the treasury during the administration of President Grant, has sent to the Democratic national committee and the latter has made public the following letter, dated Oct. 27, sent to Major Wilson by Judge Gresham:

Dear Major—I have your letter of the 21st inst. I did tell you at Springfield that, after mature reflection, I had determined to vote for Mr. Cleveland this fall, because I agree in the main with his views on the tariff, and did not believe in the principles embodied in the McKinley bill. I adhere to that determi-nation, and have said nothing indicating a change of purpose. It is not true that, with my knowledge or consent, the president was asked to appoint me to any office. It is not true that I requested anyone to do anything to obtain the Republican nomination this year. It is not true that I voted for Mr. Cleveland in 1888. I voted the Republican ticket at every presidential election since the party was organized, except in 1864, when I was not able to go to the polls.

The Republicans were pledged to a reduction of the war tariff long before 1888, and during the campaign of that year the pledge was renewed with emphasis again and again. Instead of Keeping that promise the McKinley bill was passed, imposing still higher duties. It was passed in the interest of favored classes and not for the benefit of the whole people It neither enhanced the price of farm product creeks are drying up. C. PATCH & SON.

Quincy, Jan. 19.

[FRANK S. PATCH.]

Offered to Corbett and Mitchell and Hall and Fitzsimmons NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—The Coney Island Athletic club has decided to offer a purse of $26,000 for Hall and Fitzsimmons, and one of $30,000 for Corbett and Mitchell The club will also offer Hall and Mitchell $1000 each for expenses, the latter to be payable in America.

President Noel of the Crescent City Athletic club, who is in the city, says that Mitchell will post a deposit of $5000 to meet Corbett at New Orleans for the $25, 000 purse offered by that organization. He also states that Hall is willing to post a forfeit of $2500 to fight Fitzsimmons for the $15,000 purse offered by the Crescents. Judge Newton of the Coney Island club says that a match is not made until the articles are signed, and that therefore the men must fight for the largest purses offered, which are those hung up by the Coney Island Athletic club.

A MYSTERIOUS DEATH

Which Will Be Inquired Into by the Police of Brockton.

BROCKTON, Mass., Nov. 3.-John Ganley, who resided with his brother, Patrick Ganey, at 40 Foster street, died yesterday in onvulsions. Last Monday evening Ganley is said to have spent the evening with a friend, Matthew C. Cleary, and others, at card playing. The next noon his brother's attention was for the first time called to a contusion over the left emple and a discoloration of the eye.

At midnight he arose from his bed com-plaining of the cold. After sitting by the stove awhile and securing a drink of water, he again retired. Later his brother heard him thrashing about, and upon entering his room found him in convulsions. Dr. Whittemore was called, but in two hours he was dead. The police are at work on the case.

LAKE STEAMER LOST.

Eighteen Men Are Supposed to Have Gone Down with Her.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 3. -J. C. Gilchrist, one of the principal owners of the steamer W. H. Gilcher, which is supposed to have gone down in Lake Michigan, has given the boat up as lost. There were eighteen on board, with Captain L. O. Weeks in mmand. The Gilcher was an iron boat, built by the Cleveland Shipbuilding com-pany and put into service a year ago last She was valued at $200,000 and was insured for $180,000. She had a cargo of 3020 tons of coal and was bound from Buffalo to Milwaukee. She was last heard from when she passed Mackinaw on Friday. It is the general supposition here that she must have struck upon the South Fox Reef during the storm of Friday CARD FROM THE PRESIDENT the Democratic workers in every election district of the state has nipped in the bud the gigantic Republican colonization scheme. Well informed Democrats say that Cleveland will have 8000 majority in New Jersey.

I have never at any time since, when occasion offered, failed to express my opinion of him in this regard, or to defend him from the charge of being an enemy of the Union soldier. I have felt keenly the injustice of that that any intelligent soldier should believe it. There is no issue in this campaign on the the Democratic workers in every election

Congressman Cummings, who has just returned from Indiana, says that state is safe for Cleveland and Stevenson by 6000 plurality. The congressional delegation there will probably stand ten Democrats and three Republicans.

Third—That the Republicans cannot do so well in the country as in 1888. even money on the general result. That right way, as she always has done. But I is the regular thing, but bets have been made at larger odds. M. F. Dwyer has bet $20,000 to $12,000 that Cleveland would in Europe have more than ever satisfied carry New York state, and E. S. Stokes bet $1000 to $600 the same way.

From a Republican Standpoint. The following was issued from Republican national headquarters last night:
Confidence reigns supreme at Republican national headquarters, and the managers of the campaign will no longer admit of a doubt of the election of Harrison and Reid. The encouraging reports that come to the committee from every quarter are now fully backed up by the betting market, in which it is almost impossible any longer to get even monagainst Harrison. But this hopeful condition of affairs will not induce the committee to r lax a single effort that might be put forth be tween now and election day. Money is stil being waged at odds in favor of Cleveland success in New York. Most of this money imit of Democratic possibilities in this city from public meetings, from political clubs and committees of all parties, and, indeed, from all our people, have been so tender and so full of respect and love for Mrs. Harrison, that I reluctantly abandon the purpose of making acknowledgment of each. >

> The Republican vote in 1888 was 106,000. It is bound to be, in this election, at least 115,000. Certainly as many as 10,000 votes will be cast for the Socialist, Prohibition and other candidates, and will go into the "scattering" column. This will leave Cleveland 166,000 votes, or a plurality of 51,000. Supposing that the Democrats do their best in Kings county, their plurality, can by no possible means expensive. their plurality can by no possible means ex-ceed 18,000. Their best results from Long Island will be 1500,and in Richmond county 1200. This will give them below the Harlem river a plurality of 72,500, as against 71,031 votes in

Harrison's majority above the Harlem river in 1888 was 85,404. This year it will be at the very least calculation 10,000 greater. And yet, the Democrats are giving odds on the state, while tens of thousands of dollars are being offered on the general result by Repub licans without a Democratic taker. The Re-publican leaders undertand perfectly well what this means. Great schemes of outrage and wrong are being concocted by the Demo-oratic leaders. They intend to cheat and bull-doze their way to a Democratic majority. The Republican national committee does not in-tend that those wicked schemes shall succeed. As to What the Results Will Amount on Nov. 8. CONCORD, N. There is not the slightest probability of a larger vote being newed assault upon the tariff would be a winning game; so they made their plat form of 1892, which is more deadly for the Democracy than Cleveland's message of

"It is, however, not merely a theory with me that the Chicago platform will defeat Cleveland, but one evidence seems to be strong, if not overwhelming, that it will beat him. From all over the country we hear of Democrats who will not vote to declare that any measure of protection in the tariff is contrary to the constitution of the United States. "As near as I can judge the campaign, Harrison will carry New York state. I am hopeful, but do not feel sure of Indiana, but am quite confident that Con-necticut will vote Republican. The west ern fusions will send Democrats enough to Harrison to make the west safely Republican. I think that the chances that Harrison will be elected are greater than they were four years ago.

Details of the selling out of the Third Party Prohibitionists to the Democrats have been made public here, and has caused a great political sensation. The Democrats paid $3500 to the chairman of the state central committe. This money has been used to boom the Third party, the object being to draw as many votes from the Republican ticket as possible. The "go-between" was a newspaper man named John Pope. He first approached F. M. Hubbell, a millionaire Democrat, but he refused to have anything to do with the scheme. Afterwards, when the Democratic national committeeman, J. J. Richardson, returned from New York with the money, the deal was consummated. The Prohibitionists, who have been sincere, are very much stirred up compelling the election commissioners to and many of them are openly repudiating the Third party leadership.

Of Anarchist Flavor.

The Boot and Shoe Recorder of the present week has some sharp editorial comments on the utterances of Mr. William B. Rice of Quincy the well known shoe manucratic nominee has seen fit to indulge in, the Recorder says:

"We can find no fault with Mr. Rice for advocating any policy in which he believes, and personally would be pleased with his success as a candidate, but talk of this kind can hardly be called fair discussion. It has too much of the Anarchist flavor, for if the statements were true the situation would justify the appeal to force, as advocated by the Anarchists. "Let us briefly examine some of the statements. If we are under the control of combinations and are the slaves of monoply, who are the monopolist or masters, and how did they obtain their power? Mr. Rice himself as head of the firm of Rice & Hutchins, controls the product of five dif-OUINCY. ferent shoe factories. To this extent he is a monopolist. But how did he get this Barns. nonopoly? An Appropriate Hymn.

A good old time member of the Methodist church, whose keen appreciation characteristics, relates with rare gusto the following story: For a meeting of the congregation a certain subject was announced for discussion. The members were invited and expected to participate in the debate or consultation. When the hour for adjournment was al most reached a male client of the creed arose. He was notoriously long winded. When delivering an address or opinion he treated the possibility of eternity with contempt. In this case the audience could not escape. He held it there some time over an hour, and finally sat down.

to the great relief of the people. The pastor glanced at the programme for the evening. Unfortunately for him, perhaps, the preacher had designated on the written slip only the number of the hymn to be sung. B. F. Thomas, Charles F. Cummings, A. A Poser for Biologists.

The members of the medical profession in Hamilton are greatly interested took place in the west end of the city about a week ago. It is said that the case is in some of its features so curious as to be unprecedented.

A little girl, three years of age, was troubled with what appeared to be a tumor rapidly growing out of the small of her back. The growth was soft, and had all the characteristics of a fatty tumor, excepting that there was a well defined bone of triangular shape embedded in it. The supposed tumor was the shape of a sugar loaf, with an indentation at the crown. It was about six inches in diameter, and stood out from the back fully five inches. It was decided to have it removed. Seven city doctors were present at the operation It was not successful; the child died thirty-six hours afterward.

The dissection of the mysterious growth and the postmortem held on the child's body revealed some remarkable facts. A portion of the spinal column was wanting, and from the cavity the growth proceeded. There was in the supposed tumor evidence of the be ginning of another and independent life, rudimentary organs having already been formed. If no operation had be performed this independent life would have continued to grow until, no dou it would have developed into a mo trosity and ultimately caused death. Hamilton Spectator.

Notorious Safe Breaker is Likely to Have His Sentence Lengthened.

He came back in the custody of Deputy Warden Robert Huckins, who has been to New York quite frequently on errands of the same nature. Huckins says his prisoner behaved himself remarkably well enroute and gave him no bother whatsoby Gotham officers the first of the week.

As soon as the captured man arrived at the prison, shortly after 6 o'clock, he was taken to the guard room, where his clothes who spoke of the bill as the corner stone were changed for those of the regulation of American independence, the guarantee of an honest ballot. He said: the cell formerly occupied by him prior to bill is sectional and it is the men being incarcerated in Fort Rus sel when recaptured, but Warden Lovering says that the court will undoubtedly inflict the punishment for his "breaking jail,"and he does not believe in punishing a man twice for the same offense.

REPUBLICANS RATIFY THE TICKET

And Listen to an Address by Candidate Whitelaw Reid.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Tammany Hall vet brought to light. held another mass meeting last night to ratify the nominations of Cleveland and Stevenson. An immense throng gathered near the wigwam in Fourteenth street.

The scenes witnessed at Tammany's meeting last week were repeated, and, if when it was estimated that 100,000 persons had assembled.

Long before the speaking began, the block from Third to Fourth avenue, and that from Fourteenth to Fifteenth street were blocked with people. The streets were ablaze with lights. The explosion of bombs and the screaming of rockets, the blare of brass bands, the marching of uniformed clubs and the cheering of the multitude made an unparalleled scene.

The large meeting room in the wigwam was early filled with Democrats, who ocupied every seat and almost every foot of standing room. In the hall in the base-ment was another throng, mainly composed of Germans, who were addressed by speakers of their own nationality.

On either side of the main entrance t he building were erected stands from which speakers poured floods of oratory. On the south side of Fourteenth street thoroughly dry from age. In order to insure our trade rom Third to Fourth avenue were four the best to be obtained, we have placed orders as more stands, each well supplied with speakers, and in Irving place were two more stands, where listeners could imbibe Democratic doctrine. Practically there were ten meetings going on at once. At 8 o'clock Senator Roesch, escorting

Joseph J. O'Donohue and followed by nost of the thirty Tammany leaders, sev eral well-known Tammany men and United States Senators Eustis and Carisle, filed on to the platform in the main hall of the wigwam and took their seats, while a band struck up triumphal music and the audience wildly applauded. Senator Roesch called the meeting to order and Joseph J. O'Donohue was chosen that for nearly fifty years he had been a faithful member of Tammany Hall. He thought the vast outpouring of Democrats both within and without the hall gave certainty that Cleveland and Steven-son would be elected. He declared that Tammany Hall would be in Washington & WHITE LION. Tammany Hall would be in Washington on March 4, helping to inaugurate Grover Cleveland.

A letter of regret from United States ator Eustis was introduced. Mr. Eustis said that the Democratic masses are determined to win this fight. tirely satisfactory and price lowest to be obtained in The question presented is whether a few persons who have acquired great wealth or the great body of the American people shall control this country. He called Grover Cleveland the great tribune of the people. He denounced the McKinley act n scathing terms. Speaking of the "force bill," Senator Eustis said it was impossi-ble to describe the alarm and excitement t created in the south.

The next speaker was senator Carlisle. He said the only question that now confronted us was whether the presidency was to be purchased; whether the people were to be bribed with their own money.

The Republican Meeting. NEW YORK, Nov. 4.-Carnegie Music hall was crowded to the doors last night, the occasion being a mass meeting to strength, and those looking for the best in this line ratify the Minneapolis nominations under the auspices of the Business Men's Republican club. The hall was decorated with American flags, and banners of the diferent organizations stood around. At 8 o'clock, the audience sang several campaign songs. Then John Claffin was introduced as chairman of the evening, and, after a few remarks, presented Frederick Taylor, who discussed the issues of the campaign. Chairman Claffin then introduced Whitelaw Reid.

Mr. Reid spoke laudingly of the preceding speaker's remarks. The Republican party, he said, has had the making of the country for the past thirty years, and is responsible for its present prosperous con-Although rather early in the season for these dition. Upon the proposed abolition of the na-tional banks by the Democratic party by the withdrawal of the government support, he left it to the people to choose whether they wanted the old state banks with their "shin plasters" and the uncertain value of money, or did they want things to remain as they were. Mr. Reid said that he had just returned from an extended tour through the western part of state, and he made bold to say that above the Harlem the state is all right for the Our stock of general goods and assortment is so Republican party, and that if the Republicans of this city would only do as good as in 1888 he would guarantee that the erate in this space, but can assure the public of state would be Republican by double the News from National Headquarters. NEW YORK, Nov. 4.-Both the national committees of the two great parties are claiming Connecticut's electoral vote, but Don M. Dickinson is convinced that the Democratic claim is based on solid facts. "We were alarmed about Connecticut," he said, "and our advices from there were unsatisfactory. But we went to work, and now all that is changed. The reports since Saturday have all been reassuring. We have been over every acre of the state cans have effected a combination with the Republicans to support the Third party candidate for congress.

A long telegram was received from the Democratic headquarters in Chicago, the substance of which was that the Republi-Hundred Thousand Men Attend cans were much discouraged over the outlook in Illnois, while the situation was daily getting brighter for the Democrats. Activity on the surface, at least, eems to lessen as the campaign draws to t close.

The Democratic national committee claims to have come into possession of wo letters from Montgomery, Ala., signed by the sccretary of the Republican state committee and the treasurer of the Republican campaign committee, and addressed to an employe in the postoffice at Washington, which, they assert, are the worst violation of the anti-assessment law

Illegal Resistration.

John L. Davenport had three men up before United States Commissioner Duell, charged with being paupers and having no legal right to vote. They were committed to jail. The United States grand anything, the outpouring of people was against James Divver, son of Police Justice Divver, on a charge of procuring a man to falsely register. Subsequently the grand jury sent in a batch of indictments to Judge Benedict, fifty-eight in all, charging as many patients of the institutions on Randalls island with false registration, they being unable to give any residence legally entitling them to vote. A number of deputy marshals went to Randalls island last evening and arrested twenty-seven of the inmates of the pauper institution there for illegal registration. The deputies had warrants for fifty-eight men, but failed to find the others. The prisoners were brought to this city and locked up in Ludlow street

TARIFF AND IMMIGRATION

Discussed Before an Indiana Audience by Postmaster General Wanamaker. Indianapolis, Nov. 4. - Postmaster General Wanamaker spoke to a crowd of about 8000 people at Bluffton last night, the speech being preceded by a street demonstration. In the course of his speech he gave these ideas of his own in regard to some of the leading issues:

I admit that there may be things in our party that we do not like, but we should not go outside of it and sit upon the fence and throw stones at it. Let us stay inside and at-tack the things we do not like, and improve the things that are not perfect. I do not think the tariff bill is perfect. I favor the establishment of a permanent tariff commis-sion, composed of the most intelligent busi-ness men of the country, who shall hunt for inequalities in bills and adjust the tariff to ever varying interests of the country in the light of new discoveries and new machinery, and make constant reports to congress. The Mr. O'Donohoe, on taking the chair, said hat for nearly fifty years he had been a progress and aims to study the great question of improving the public service in every di-rection, and not only aims to do it, but does it There is today a wide discussion of the subject of immigration, and I look forward to the time when there will be a new system of introducing foreigners to our country, some method whereby it will be known whether the man who comes to this country has sufficient education to qualify him to vote. I think we should find a better way to avoid strikes, by having some board of arbitration to act in disputes between labor and capital.

Boston's Big Torchlight Parade. BOSTON, Nov. 4.-The big Republican torchlight parade last night was the center of attraction for every one whose time for an hour and a half could be donated to reviewing the demonstration. Probably 300,000 persons lined the streets over which the procession passed. The line moved promply at 8 o'clock under the leadership of Chief Marshal Briggs and a staff of 250 men. The 12,000 men marched third edition. through mud and filth, shouting for Harrison and Reid, and receiving an ovation at nearly every street corner. All along the line private houses and business blocks were decorated with the national colors' and lanterns. The Harvard boys were there, a thousand strong, dressed in cap and gown of crimson and white, each carrying a flaming torch. They made one of the best displays in the procession.

The Arlington Mills Cadets of Lawrence, in sailor costumes, were liberally applauded. The Apsley Guards of South Framingham, 100 men, made a fine showing. Among the other out-of-town organizations which were conspicuous were the Scandinavian Republican club, the Hyde Park Republican club, an organization from Woonsocket, R.I., the Sawyer Guards of Lynn, the Hopedale Cadets and the Draper Guards of Hopedale, United States Watch company of Waltham, the Lodge Cadets of Lynn, company C of Attleboro and others. In the line were many tally-ho coaches and wagons, from which fireworks were continuously displayed. At Adams square the procession was reviewed by the chief marshal and How It Looks in Massachusetts. Boston, Nov. 4.—While the Republicans are feeling cheerful at the outcome of the changed his mind when William Lynch campaign, the Democrats on their side say they have nothing to fear. The election of Harrison electors is practically conceded, save by a few enthusiasts, but the Democrats profess confidence in the success of Russell. The Republicans, on the contrary, claim Mr. Haile's election, and the lieutenant governor himself feels sure of it. Both sides are claiming to be fully satisfied with the registration, and therefore everybody is, or should be, perfectly happy. The Associated Press has given out that the gubernatorial contest is close, with the chances slightly in favor of Governor Russell.

No Trouble Anticipated.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 4.-Attorney General Miller was asked about the circular issued by Mr. Sheerin of the Democratic national committee relative to United States marshals at the polls on election day. The attorney general said that United States marshals were peace officers and expected only to perform their duty, which is to enforce the law. The matter rested in the hands of the acting attorney general at Washington, who would see that the law was obeyed and order pre-served. Mr. Miller contemplated no

IN WEAVERS' AND SPINNERS' PAY

Operators Are Likely to Demand a Further Increase.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Nov. 4.—The muchtalked-of manufacturers' meeting was held yesterday The weavers' rate of wages has been advanced to 21 cents per cut, which is virtually a fraction short of 7 per cent., thus, together with 31-2 allowed previously, making in all 10 per cent. The prices to be paid are about the same as in 1884. The spinners will be advanced proportionately.

The action of the operatives is now awaited with much interest. Secretary Whitehead of the Weavers' association aid that the regular meeting of the weavers would be held on Monday night, and he did not deem it advisable to call a special meeting before that time. When as sembled, however, they

The only opposition to such a move would be a lack of co-operation from the other operatives, but there is no fear of this latter as the other organizations are all of the sai idea-that is for the operatives to set the figures and not the employers. Secretary Howard says substantially what has already been published—that the spinners

The circulation of the first edition of the catalogue began Dec. 5, 1891. Requests for it came from nearly every state in the Union, and within two months the entire edition was exhausted. The circulation of the second edition of 1500 copies of the catalogue began Feb. 1, 1892. Nine nev descriptions were included in this edition making a total of 339. Requests for the catalogue were received from time to time until by the middle of September the edition became exhausted.

Efforts made to ascertain the results of this work have resulted in returns being received concerning 221 of the 339 farms owners wish description continued in the

It is noticed that a large majority of the purchasers of the farms sold are native American parentage. Twenty-five of the purchasers were residents of Massa chusetts at the time of purchasing, one of Nova Scotia, one of Illinois, one of Florida; while the residence of eighteen has not been obtained. Seventeen of the farms sold were reported as sold for farming purposes, two for farming and poultry raising, three for poultry raising, one for poultry raising and market gardening, one for sheep raising, two for summer residences, three for homes, one for the timber on it, one for an investment, while the intentions of fifteen purchasers have not been obtained.

Waltham Man Badly Poisoned by Drinking from a Strange Bottle.

WALTHAM, Mass., Nov. 4.-Corneliu Ryan lies in a precarious condition at his ome on Sharon street, as a result of drinking a mixture containing bellayoung man named William Lynch. Ryan was taken suddenly ill about 11 o'clock and a doctor called. The physician pro called at his office and said he had given Ryan a drink out of a bottle that he had found in his yard.

Lynch also complained of not feeling well, and, after giving him some medicine, the doctor went immediately to Mr Ryan's house, and, with the assistance of another doctor, made a closer examination, and the two came to the conclusion that the man was suffering from belladonna poisoning. Chief of Police McKenna was notified of the matter and he had Lynch brought to the station. Lynch says he found the bottle in his yard early in the morning and thinking it was wine, took it into the shop with him. He drank some of the stuff and gave some to Ryan. He felt mean all forenoon, and when Ryan was taken sick he went to the physician and told him what had occurred. He said he did not know there was anything of a poisonous nature in the bottle, and the police are inclined to believe his story.

IN MEMORY OF LESTER JAGGER.

We looked upon thy calm, sweet sleep And said: Ah, wherefore should we weep? Why mourn because thy work is done, The crown by thee so early won?

Thy life was brave and true and fair; Thou hadst not learned the word despair; For thee was love in every breast; Thy life, and e'en thy death, was blest. O soul so full of music sweet,

What harmonies thy coming greet; For us the sound of sobs and tears, For thee the songs and welcome cheers.

But ye, within your home today, Whence all that's bright was borne away. What can I say to give relief, Or help you in your bitter grief? Your heart's wild anguish well I know, You reel beneath the heavy blow; And words to help you all are vain, They seem a mockery to your pain.

I saw a look which seemed to say, "A stronger arm is round me thrown.

I bravely bear, but not alone." Ah, mother, with your love so true, An, mother, with your love so true,
No power is mine to comfort you,
For, as our pastor said today,
"Man cannot help you; let us pray!"
-V. J. Ruppert in Rochester Post-Express.

THE ANGEL'S VISIT.

LESSON VI, FOURTH QUARTER, IN TERNATIONAL SERIES, NOV. 6.

Text of the Lesson, Acts xii, 1-17-Memory Verses, 5-8-Golden Text, Ps. xxxiv, 7-Commentary by the Rev. D. M.

1. "Now about that time Herod, the eral windows were smashed, but the gen d'armes dispersed the crowds, and for tain of the church." Herod represents the world, and the world is always at enmity with God and the people of God. If the people of God are not found suffering more or less persecution from the world it must be because they are greatly conformed to it. See Jas. iv, 4; Rom. xii, 1, 2; II Tim. iii, 12; John xv, 18-20.2. "And he killed James, the brother of ohn, with the sword." James was one of the first to follow Jesus, and with Peter and John had been his special companion on several occasions, as on the Mount of Transfiguration and in the Garden of Gethsemane, and now he is first to see his Lord in glory—the first of the twelve. Jesus had taught them to be ready for this (Math. x, 28; John xvi, 2). 3. "And because He saw it pleased the Jews, He proceeded further to take Peter Being passover time city would be full of people, and Herod by pleasing them would have opportunity to make himself popular. He did not know that it is God hat putteth down one and setteth up another (Ps. lxxv, 6, 7). Like Pilate, he saw only the people or Cæsar.

4. Peter in prison and guarded by sixteen oldiers, four on duty at a time, is surely in safe keeping, humanly speaking; but when men take counsel against God He that sitteth in the heavens shall laugh (Ps. xxxiii, 10, 11; ii, 4). Peter to be slain, as He did John the Baptist and Stephen and James, but if He

5. Peter remains in prison, but the be lievers cease not to pray for him. According to the margin, "Instant and earnest prayer was made for him." Not knowing whether it might be the will of God to spare him or not, while he lived they could arnestly ask that if it could be for the glory of God he might be delivered. Com-

6. The saying that man's extremity is God's opportunity is often illustrated. The last night of Peter's life seemed to have come, for on the morrow Herod would bring him forth to be slain. There seems dier on either side, and all doors and gates securely guarded—but ah, Lord God, there is nothing too hard for thee (Jer. xxxii, 17). 7. Read Ps. ciii, 20, and behold here one of those servants of God to whom storm and tempest, fire and flood, walls and bars re as nothing. The soldiers sleep on while Peter's chains fall off and he arises at the er shut the lions' mouths, and another found Paul in the storm on the sea (Isa. Milwaukee's relief fund has reached xxxvii, 36; Dan. vi, 22; Acts xxvii, 23). 8. Without unnecessary haste and yet Recent storms damaged lake shipping | quickly, Peter at the word of the angel girds himself, puts on his sandals and also his outer garments and prepares to follow his deliverer. word of the angel. Read how just such a nessenger smote 185,000 men, while anothmorning it shall be seen that not a hair of our heads has perished (Luke xxi, 18).

9. Thus far it was all like a dream to Peter. He had already seen wondrous things in a vision (chapter x, 10, 11) and supposed he was now enjoying another revelation from heaven. It was as when the captives returned from Babylon and

(Ps. cxxvi, 1).
10. Safely through the wards, and by the guards, and through the outer iron gate that opened of its own accord, and along through one street, and then the angel left him, and Peter finds himself alone-a few noments before in an inner prison securely chained, but now a free man by the mighty power of God. The same power sets free he sinner from satan's bondage and will soon bring forth the body of every saint from the prison house of the grave.

11. How Peter convinced himself that it was no vision, but a waking reality, we are not told. We can imagine him in various ways proving to himself that he is really awake, and as he walks about he finds no chains, no soldiers and no prison walls; it dawns upon him that again he nas had an angel's visit. See chapter v

18, 19, 12. Finding it all gloriously real, he at ace turns his steps to where he knew he would find some fellow believers. This Mary seems to have been a sister to Barnabas (Col. iv, 10) and her home a headquarters for the saints. Blessed are the homes where the saints are welcome to meet for 13, 14. As Peter knocks Rhoda comes to answer (R. V.) and is so overcome with gladness that she forgets to let him in, and ran back to tell that Peter was at the gate. Great joy does make some people act strangely; sorrow and trial humble them and bring them near to God, while prosgether at Geneva. Both will be expelled from the army. been after Peter they would have got him while she was saying he was there. But while she was saying he was there. But God was caring for him.

15. "And they said unto her, Thou art mad. But she constantly affirmed that it was even so. Then said they, It is His ingel." The prayer meeting gives place to a discussion, while the answer to their prayers is kept waiting outside the door. Is it not possible that answers to prayer are still kept outside while discussion instead of thanksgiving is going on in the church? Consider the following texts in eference to people who are accounted mad: Isa. lix, 15, margin; Hos. ix, 7; John x, 20; Acts xxvi, 24. How slow we are to expect or acknowledge answers to prayer!

16. "But Peter continued knocking, and Edward Hennessey, a saloon keeper and concrete walk contractor, is missing from his home at Ansonia, Conn., and his family suspects foul play.

Rev. W. A. V. V. Mahon, D. D., profestory of the project of the contract of th often come, not as we expected, but in some unlooked for form and way. Let us pray that we may recognize the answers when they come and quickly acknowledge when they come and quickly acknowledge them.

17. "Noisily they chattered, but by his hand he stilled them and then told how the Lord had brought him out of prison."

Why do we not hear more testimony as to what the Lord has done for His people (Ps. lxvi, 16), or is He not doing much these days because of our unbelief? Having given his testimony he would have them pass it on to James (son of Alpheus, Math. x, 3) and the brethren. All good tidings of the grace of God are to be passed on to others as fast as possible. He departed and went to another place, so that when Herod sought for him in the morning he could not be found. There is a morning coming when believers shall not be found, but the enemies of the Lord shall be found and slain (verses 19-23; compare Heb. xi, 5; II Thess. i, 7-10). state another whose position had been

The Republican Side. The following was issued last evening by the Republican national committee: The instructions of acting Attorney General Aldrich to United States marshals and the citations from the law governing their employment at the polls, together with the penalties prescribed for interference with them while in the performance of their duties, have brought consternation to the camp of Tam-many. It is the belief that with the proper precautions, which will be taken, a fair elec-tion can be held in this city.

There has come to the Republican national committee from various sources information that the reserve crop of campaign lies for is-suing the day before election is very prolific, suing the day before election is very profine, and unusually sensational articles are to be published, presenting what purports to be the facts from all the western states, for publication in the east, and the reverse for publication in the west, when too late to be contradicted. Tammany Asks for Protection. The committee of lawyers appointed by Tammany to protect voters have sent a letter to Chief of Elections Davenport which is in part as follows:

We understand that it is contemplated !

von to make certain arrests of electors of th county for alleged illegal registration. It has frequently happened that you have withhel making arrests for illegal registration until election day, and, as we are informed, have held the person so arrested until the election was over, thereby causing the elector to los his vote, even though entitled to cast it. As you can just as well execute your war-rants for illegal registration now as on elec-ion day, we have to request that you will forth-

If there is any delay in arresting him where he could have been arrested before that day it must be presumed to be for the purpose of pre-venting him from voting, and consequently publicans Have Been Broken. JERSEY CITY, Nov. 5.—Mr. Cleveland had a magnificent reception by the citizens of his native state last night. His speech was a review of the alleged shortcomings of the Republican party, and closed by predicting victory, in which the voice of every Democrat in new Jersey would be heard amid the din of triumph. Mr. Cleveland spoke substantially as follows:

Two contradictions have had much to do with my acceptance of the kind invitation to be with you tonight. I did not feel quite like allowing the campaign to close without visiting my native state, and I desire to meet again face to face a representation of the Democracy of New Jersey—one of the bravest and most steadfast divisions in the grand army of na-

Eight years ago when another presidential Eight years ago when another presidential campaign had advanced nearly to the precise stage the present one has reached, I came to your state and declared it to be my understanding of the Democratic creed that all taxation should be limited to the require-

Then it was that the concession was made by them that our tariff laws ought to be amended and readjusted. Of course, this involved the pretence that the Republican party not only comprised the friends of the tariff but also comprised the friends of the tariff, but also the friends of the people. Thus pledged, they gained ascendency in every branch of the gov-

The tariff has been amended, if not by its friends, evidently by the friends of those who rriends, evidently by the friends of those who grow rich under its unjust opportunities. Certainly it is not the handiwork of the friends of the people. Has the party which promised to be their friend lightened the burden of life in the homes of our land? Do you and your wives and your children enjoy the comforts and advantages your labor should supply? Where are the increased wages of our workingmen which they were assured would follow the amendment of the tariff by its friends? low the amendment of the tariff by its friends?
You know that broken promises and violated pledges are scattered all along the path of the Republican party since, four years ago, they came to the people with fair words.

The evils of the present tariff are greater than those you condemned eight years ago. You have now absolute proof of the falsity of

You have now absolute proof of the falsity of Republican promises, which four years ago you refused to believe. These conditions and your Democratic traditions, still in the keeping of brave and sturdy men, and the steadfastness of your state in the cause of Democracy maintained in many a band fought hat racy, maintained in many a hard fought battle, forbids your faltering now.

The national Democracy rests its hopes for success upon the people's intelligence and patriotism, and upon the confident trust that the principles of our voters will not be bartered away. The campaign is nearly over. There is little left to do besides getting out the full Demo cratic vote. No Democrat should let over confidence dissuade him from the full performance of his duty. At this time I feel safe in saying that we will carry New York, and that the majority for Mr. Cleveland will be at least 20,000. I think the election is a sure thing.'

Fighting Harder Than Ever. NEWBURGH, N. Y., Nov. 5.-Judge C. F. Brown has ordered the names of thirteen paupers of the Newburgh almshouse stricken from the registry rolls of the Seventh district of this city. An application to have 125 soldiers cut off the Third district books of Highland Falls was also argued. About twenty names were cut off. The entire Republican bar of the city were interested in keeping the names on the rolls. This is a case that comes up year after year, but never before was from a Convent by Strategy.

PARIS, Nov. 5. -As soon as the tribunal of the Seine delivered its decision dismissing Mrs. Deacon's suit for divorce and ordering that the eldest child, then in a convent, be delivered up to Mr. Deacon Mrs. Deacon hastened secretly to the con vent of Our Lady of the Assumption in the department of Marne, bent upon car rying off the child, and thus both defying the authority of the French court and baffling Mr. Deacon.

When Mrs. Deacon arrived the news of the court's decision was unknown at the convent, and Mrs. Deacon was admitted as usual. She asked and obtained leave to take the elder of the children to ride, and after kissing the younger tenderly, she walked with the former to the carriage. At first she drove slowly, but increased her speed as the convent and the adjoining group of houses disappeared from view. Mr. Deacon drove up to the convent shortly after his wife had gone. He was amazed and maddened when he learned the situation, but no more amazed than the lady superior when she learned the strategy of the good Mrs. Deacon.

Mr. Deacon at once appealed to the police, who readily joined him in attempt ing to overtake his wife. It seems im possible that she could escape from France. as the police everywhere have been warned to be on the lookout, and to arrest her and the child wherever found. Deacon is determined to get possession of the child.

Brockton, Mass., Nov. 5.—A peculiar story is told by the mother of Henry N. Chase, the young man who died Thursday evening as a result of wounds received while out gunning one day this week in the woods of West Bridgewater. Notwithstanding the rally was advertised to commence at the early hour of quarter past seven, the hall was crowded with ladies and gentlemen to hear the addresses of Councilman Sherman, Mr. Theophilus King, Mr. Henry Ballard of Burlington, Vt., and Mr. David Hall Rice of Brookline.

The hall was elaborately draped with red, white and blue bunting, and presented a marked contrast to its usual cold look. After a few selections by the Wollaston orchestra, Councilman Sherman, the chairman of the Ward Five Republican Committee, called the meeting o order and introduced in a few fitting words Mayor Fairbanks as the presiding officer of the evening. Mayor Fairbanks, before introducing the speakers of the eve ning, referred in a brief way to the remarkable prosperity of the country under the Republican administration. The speeches which followed were re ceived with tremendous applause as the speakers scored the Democratic party.

Boston, Nov. 5.—Archibald A. McLeod, president of the Boston and Maine and the Philadelphia and Reading railroads, is in Boston. He visits Boston to look over Boston and Maine property and other interests with which he has lately become identified. Most of his time on this visit will be devoted to an inspection of the northern and Eastern depots, the new terminal acquisitions of the Boston and Maine railroad system and the situation generally in that direction. It is proba-ble, however, that he will find an oppor-tunity to look over the offices, depot, yards and terminals of the New York and New England railroad, before he leaves Boston. To a reporter last evening he talked quite freely, and impressed the interviewer with his frankness and evident sincerity. "What is there new in the situation?" asked the newspaper man.

"Nothing. I am simply here to get acquainted with the properties in which we have lately become interested."

"What changes do you contemplate?" "That question is too early to answer. I shall first become acquainted with these properties and with the subordinate offi-cers who have served their company long Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: Even in the last week before a presidential election, business has continued very active; indeed the volume is far beyond any president the volume is far beyond any president. "Reading interests, believing in the great value of the Boston and Maine railroad system, and of its advantages as a New England connection, have purchased argely of the stock of that company and have received recognition in the management of that corporation.

"Both companies will naturally hold intimate relations with each other, and each will in turn be of mutual benefit to the other. Business which today the Reading is unable to secure by reason of an absence of proper eastern connections and terminals, is now possible; the Boston and Maine in return securing a large volume of new traffic and

"How does the New York and New England railroad stand as regards the Philadelphia and Reading and Boston and Maine systems?" "The New York and New England can be made a connecting link between the two great companies, and as such would be valuable.' "This statement has been made, Mr. McLeod, that under the management of the

"Another report, Mr. McLeod, which has received extensive circulation, is that the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad com-pany is to guarantee the fixed charges and dividend on the preferred stock of the New York and New England company. How is that?"

"The alliance does not contemplate the guarantee by one road to the other of any-thing except the general direction of the affairs of each, which we believe will bring to all, under their separate organizations, better results than have heretofore been

The expectations of the Farmers' Alliance, if they are well founded, place the seats of several other senators in jeopardy, and the complexion of the next senate may undergo a considerable change as a result of Tuesday's election. The Republicans look to retaining the senate, what ever the presidential result may be, as a bulwark against tariff legislation. The Democrats are planning to increase their representation in the upper house, and the Farmers' Alliance are scheming to secure

The Balance of Power. The Democrats claim that they will elect legislatures which will return Demand the Farmers' Alliance expect to capture senatorships in Nevada, Nebraska

This would seem a loss to the Republicans of seven United States senators, and would make the upper house stand: Democrats, 43; Republicans, 40; Farmers' Alli-

This would practically give the Farmers' Alliance the balance of power in the senate, as they could, by voting with the Democrats, give them a working majority, or by voting with the Republicans give them a majority of 1. The Republican leaders, however, do not concede the loss of any of the seven senatorships. They admit that these states will be close, so far as the legislative vote is concerned, Prices Low so far as the legislative vote is concerned, but claim their chances of winning in these claim their chances of winning in these states is better than that of the Democrats. In West Virginia Stephen B. Elkins has made a personal canvass, upon which he predicts the election of a Republican legslature, as well as the Harrison electors. This would result in a Republican stepping into the shoes of Senator Faulkner, The Republicans are confident of gaining a senatorship in Indiana. In New York the redistricting of the state by the Democrats has resulted in an advantage which may give them the choice of Senator Hiscock's successor, even if the state is carried for Harrison.

The Republicans admit that the Farmers' Alliance will gain the Nevada senatorship, but say they are chasing rainbows when they claim Nebraska, Washington, Wyoming and Montana. Taken altogether there will be some lively figuring on the status of the three parties in the senate when the votes are counted on Concerning the House.

The national house of representatives at present consists of 234 Democrats, 86 Republicans and 8 Farmers' Alliance men There is one vacancy in the California delegation (Rep.) occasioned by the resignation of Joseph McKenna; one in that of Maryland (Dem.) occasioned by the election of Representative Gibson to be United States senator, and three others (Dems.) caused by deaths. This overwhelming Democratic majority overyon expects to see reduced by the results of the election Tuesday next; to what extent the managers are just as widely divergent in their views as in respect of the vote to be cast in the electoral college for presi-and that is that the Farmers' Alliance, or Third party, will send about a score of representatives to the Fifty-third congress. Democrats expect them to comfrom the northwest and far western states; Republicans assert that the larger part of them will come from the south Republicans concede that the Farmers' Alliance representatives will hold the balance of power in the house; Democrats, on the other hand, maintain that they will control the house by a Democratic majority ranging from thirty to thirty-

At the Democratic headquarters yesterday the total number of Democratic representatives whose election was claimed a sure was 183, or only 4 more than a majority of the next house, whose membership wi number 356. This statement included 6 from Alabama, 3 from Connecticut, 2 from Massachusetts, 6 from Michigan, 5 from New Jersey, 21 from New York, 6 from North Carolina, 7 from Pennsylvania, 13 from Texas, 8 from Virginia, 2 from West Virginia and 6 from Wisconsin. There were conceded to the Republicans 129, the remainder being classed as ional managers are not so definite as those of their opponents. The Republican congressional campaign committee say they are certain of only 142 Republican representatives and 138 Democrats, leaving, after deducting 24 Farmers' Alliance districts, 52 districts in the doubtful column. This claim includes 15 congressmen from New York,15 from Ohio,13 from Heinrom New Tork, o Tom Cho, o Hom Hlinois, 3 from Indiana, 7 from Kansas, 2 from Kentucky, 1 from Louisiana, 10 from Massachusetts, 6 from Michigan, 1 from Massachusetts, 6 from Michigan, 1 from now as those were then.

Taking all these figures into consideration if the Farmers' Alliance send as many representatives to congress as both the old parties are willing to concede, the probabilities are that the balance of power n the next house will lie with that party Should these concessions prove to be too liberal the Democrats will retain control by a greatly reduced majority. That the Republicans will regain control is appar ently out of the question.

In 1888 George Willetts died. The father had from the first a singular affection for his daughter-in-law, and in 1890 they were married in London. Since then Mrs. Willetts' reminiscences of her childhood have led to investigations, which, apparently, disclose that Mr. Willetts' first wife, seven years after deserting him, married a John Wright, and brought her little girl up under the name of Wright.

FATALLY BURNED.

A Kerosene Lamp Explodes in the Hands of a Boston Woman.

Boston, Nov. 7.—The occupants of the brick block at 113 Beach street were startled last evening about 8:30 o'clock by a loud explosion, followed shortly after by a terrible scream. The noise came from the first floor. Shortly after. Mrs. Flynn, completely enveloped in flames, rushed out. In attempting to put out the fire, Miss Maggie Crosby and Hugh Cleary, both living in the same house, were severely burned. The flames were at last conquered, but not before Mrs. Flynn was fatally injured and burned almost beyond recognition.

Mrs. Flynn told how she had put her three children to bed, and had returned with the light. She had a shawl on her shoulders. On returning she went into the kitchen and was about to put up the lamp when suddenly it exploded, and the next thing she remembered was seeing her shawl afire, and then before anything could be done all her upper clothing was burning. After that everything was a blank. On examination at the hospital the woman was found to be terribly charred on the upper part of her body and is expected to live but a few hours at the

THE EMPIRE STATE Classed as Doubtful with the Democrats

Slightly in Favor. NEW YORK, Nov. 7 .- The Republicans at state headquarters have gone carefully over this state by counties, and have figured the result down so fine that Chairman Hack the district of 12 200 man Hackett predicts a plurality of 18,300 for Harrison. On the other hand a tabulated statement of the estimated result in the sixty counties, prepared by Democratic statisticians, gives Cleveland a plurality of 25,350. Between these two estimates the truth lies. Claims and Counter-Claims in the Southern and Western States.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 7.-Both sides claim the state and also the legislature, which will elect a successor to Senator Faulkner. Chairman Chilton of the Democratic committee says West Virginia will go Democratic by from 3000 to 6000 majority, that the legislature will be Democratic, and all four Democratic congressmen will be elected. Chairman Dawson of the Republican committee says that a fair vote means certain Republican success, the legislature by a small majority, and three Republican congressmen, if

The Situation in Indiana. INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 7.—There is no sign of a break in the confidence of either Republicans or Democrats at state head-quarters. Both sides declare themselves satisfied with the outlook. Chairman Taggart says the Democrats will win by 10,000 plurality. Chairman Gowdy says 10,000. Both claim their ability to win on the state ticket and control the next legislature, which has the selection of a United States senator, and both claim that they will have a majority of thirteen congress men. The Democrats say that Judge Gresham has changed enough votes to give them the victory. They claim that the conditions on state issues are about the same as in 1890, when they carried the state by 19,500 for secretary of state. The gubernatorial contest will be close. The Populists claim that they have a fair chance of electing enough members of the state legislature to give them the balance of power and enable them to dictate who shall succeed Senator Turpie. All Guesswork in Michigan. She is about 45 years old, a widow, and has three small children. They were uncampaign in the history of this state is practically closed. All parties admit that the result will be a mixed one. The Miner law, providing for the selection of of presidential electors by congressional districts, makes the situation unique, and, as congressmen and a state legislature which will have the naming of a United States senator are to be elected, the result will be all the more interesting. The total vote will be close to 500,000. Of this about 25,000 will go to the Prohibitionists and between 20,000 and 30,000 to the People's party, the remainder will be divided more or less closely between Republicans and Democrats. Of the two electors at large the Republicans have the advantage in the western half of the state and the Democrats in the eastern half. On the whole, the Republicans concede four electors to the Democrats and claim them; the Democrats concede six to the Republicans and one to the People's party, reserving seven for themselves, found other than certificates based upon de-The congressional delegation will be divided in about the same proportion as

What Chris Magee Has Done. BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 7 .- Conservative estimates give the state to Cleveland, near Birmingham. Two rounds were fought and the fight was then awarded to carried by the Kolb fusionists, with a elected in the Fourth district. The Democratic managers say that the visit of

Chris Magee has simply solidified the white Republicans and Third partyites (People's party). It has caused a number of influential Kolbites to come back to the Democratic party, and it has stirred up the negro element to fight hard against the Mosley faction of the Republicans. In short, they say Mr. Magee ac complished pratically nothing in Alabama, except to distribute more than 500,000 fusion tickets all over the state. Reuben Kolb, Jr., is said to have been one of the chief distributers of these tick-

Fusion a Failure. SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Nov. 7.-Fusion between the Democrats and Populists in South Dakota has tailed. The Democratic state central committee sent out thousands of circulars requesting Democrats to vote for the Weaver electors, and withdrawing the Cleveland electors from the field. This will undoubtedly make the result close between Harrison and Weaver, with the chances in favor of the former. The secretary of state, who is a Republican, has thrown out the Prohibiion nominations on a technicality, and the Prohibitionist leaders have issued a manifesto in favor of the Weaver electors and the Independent state ticket.

Close in Virginia. RICHMOND, Nov. 7 .- The Republicans claim that their endorsement of the Populist congressmen will give them the Third Party vote on presidential electors. As they needed only 1500 votes to win in 1888 they are confident of success. The Demo crats say that the Republicans did not wake up early enough in the campaign, and the deal will not help them gain the state on the national ticket, but may give the Third Party one or two congressi There is no indication that the state will leave the solid south this year, but the result will be very close.

Nebraska is Doubtful.

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 7.—Complications resulting from the fusion of the Democrats and Independents make this a doubtful state. The Republican plurality in 1888 of 27,873 will be nearly, if not entirely, wiped out, and there is a chance of the Independent ticket winning on governor and legislature. The congressmen will probably be three Republicans, one free silver Democrat and two Populists. Governor Boyd has sent out an appeal to Democrats to vote for Weaver electors in order to keep the state from Harrison, and if they obey his request the result will be very close

Weaver May Carry Nevada. VIRGINIA CITY, Nev., Nov. 7.—It is pretty generally conceded by the leaders of the old parties that Nevada will cast her three electoral votes for Weaver this year. The Australian ballot will be tested for the first time here, and the vote will exceed but little that of 1888, when Harrison had a plurality of 1912, out of a total of 12,605 votes. The Weaver men count upon a plurality of between 2000 and 4000, and expect to capture the next legislature. This will give the selection of a United States senator in place of Senator Stewart.

How It Looks in Colorado. DENVER, Nov. 7 .- Owing to the fusion of Democrats and Populists on presdential electors and congressmen the outlook here is decidedly hazy. The Democrats split and one wing joined the Populists while the straight Democrats had a full ticket before the people until a few days ago, when orders were received from th Democratic national committee and the Democratic electors were withdrawn. There is every indication that the Harr son electors will win. The gubernatorial fight will be close

New Jersey's Vote. TRENTON, Nov. 7.—New Jersey will probably go Democratic, although the Republicans class it among the doubtful states. The Republican candidate for governor, John Kean, Jr., is a very popular man, and with the coal combine ques tion against the Democrats, he may run very close to winning. The legislature will probably be Democratic by a reduced majority, and six of the eight congressme will probably be Democrats.

Bitterness Among Tarheels. RALEIGH, Nov. 7 .- Notwithstanding the Republican and Third Party fusion, it is claimed that the Cleveland electors will carry the state by 10,000 majority. The feeling is growing very bitter, as is evidenced by the arrest and counter-arres of State Registrar Reid by Chief United States Supervisor Shaffer and of Supervisor Shaffer by State Registrar Reid. Brown, the Third Party candidate, has withdrawn in the Ninth district.

Figures from Iowa. BURLINGTON, Ia., Nov. 7 .- Chairman Fullen of the Democratic state committe claims that Cleveland will have a ma jority in the state of 10,000. Conservative Republicans estimate Harrison's majority at 15,000. The Democrats expect to elect 10,000 plurality. Chairman Gowdy says the state is Republican by from 7000 to the number they now have. The Republi cans concede four and claim seven.

Claims Without Backing. BISMARCK, N. D., Nov. 7.—The fusion of Democrats and Populists in this state and the first trial of the Australian ballot system, makes it impossible to predict what the result will be. Both sides claim the state, but can give no figures to back their claim.

Narrow Margin for Democrats. WILMINGTON, Del., Nov. 7.-The Republicans have made a lively canvass of this state, but the indications are that the Democratic plurality will not be less than 1000, and John W. Causey, Democratic nominee for congress, will have a safe

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—One of the quietest and yet most remarkable campaigns in American history has come to an end, and today the forty-four states of the Union are balloting for 444 presidential electors and 356 members of congress. Twenty-one states are electing governors and other states officers, and twenty-nine states are Against Opening the World's Fair on the Sabbath.

THE "SLUMS AGAINST THE SAINTS."

Rev. Joseph Cook Gives a Rap at Sunday Newspapers.

Boston, Nov. 7 .- A big meeting was held in the People's church yesterday afternoon to protest against the agitation in favor of the Sunday opening of the World's fair. Rev. Reuben] Thomas, vice president of the Massachusetts Sunday Protective League, presided.

Dr. Thomas read a letter from General Joseph B. Hawley, in which he expressed his surprise at the rumor that the fair would be opened on Sunday. Dr. Thomas said that it would be a great national calamity if the fair was opened Sunday. Ward Four has got the best polling At the Paris exposition he was told that covered their goods on Sundays. It was not so much a question of religion as of patriotism, and he insisted as an American that the Sabbath should be held sacred. Rev. L. McLean, secretary of the American Sabbath union for Illinois and of the Columbian Sunday association of Chicago, said he was glad to testify as to The Facts in Chicago. The question was settled there. All the leading churches had declared in favor of closing the fair on Sunday. He believed if all the centers throughout the country spoke out, that congress would not go back on its record. It was not true that the churches and the saloon keeper were working for the closing of the fair on Sunday. Petitions to open the fair on Sun-days were lying in all the Chicago saloons for signatures. Sunday had been en-tirely ignored in the building of wagon loads of liquor are driven into Jackson park. Many lives have been lost and nearly all of them through reckless ness, caused by dissipation. Sparring on Boston Common.

Two black boys not more than thirteen years old were the center of interest for all who chanced to pass this noon: along the Common, near the Park street gate. They were equipped with a set of boxing gloves, and having taken up a position on the lawn where the grass was longest they proceeded to show how skillful they were on the attack and defence. After a brief bit of sparring, a ring of interested spectators was formed. and the bout rapidly became more excit ing. The good nature of the combatants was never ruffled, for whether it was a sharp blow on the nose or a smart cut under the ear, the victim always recovered instantly and stepped up again with smile that showed his glistening ivories from ear to ear. ADLAI E. STEVENSON. The World claims New York, Indiana, Illinois, Connecticut, New Jersey and eight votes in Michigan for Cleveland. The World bulletins also claim North Dakota has gone Democratic.

Dickinson Speaks. Don M. Dickinson, chairman of the Democratic campaign committee, said this morning. "We do not desire to boast of the result. The grand result speaks for itself. It shows that the producers of the country have determined that they shall be no longer burdened by excessive taxation for the benefit of great monopolies and we are determined to uphold local rights against the abuse of centralized power. In Michigan we achieved great success in electing a governor and seven presidential electors "The uprising in the northwest is the most significent sign of the times, but in view of the splendid performance of New York, New Jersey and Connecticut there is nothing sectional about the victory, which is a success for sound political and economic principles everywhere."

Republican Claims. Mr. Carter, chairman of the Republican ational committee said: "The abnormal Democratic majorities in New York city and Brooklyn will be difficult to over-come by Republican gains throughout the state. Our Democratic friends seem to have understood their party needs in the state of New York when they enacted the present ballot law.

"Fortunately the national committee re lied upon three distinct combinations, and two of them yet remain intact, even if the loss of New York is conceded. With Indiana the election of Harrison is assured, and Republican victory in that state is certain. I am in receipt of a telegram from a reliable and thoroughly posted citizen of Indiana, who says: Full Republican vote has been polled throughout the state, and returns indicate Republican gains, and the committee is confident the state has been carried for the Republican

"The vote of Indiana, added to other Republican votes in the electoral college, insures the re-election of President Harrison. Eliminating entirely from consider tion the state of New York, the Republicans can still elect, with the vote of Connecticut, West Virginia and Delaware without the vote of Indiana, but having the vote of Indiana assured, we are not driven to our third line.

"Benjamin Harrison will be the next president of the United States by virtue of the fact that he will receive a majority of the votes cast in the electoral college in obedience to the decision of a majority of the people.

WISCONSIN. G. aan Lutherans Help Swell the Vote for Cleveland and Peck.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 9 .- Governor Peck says that German Lutherans voted for him, as they did two years ago, and that Cleveland got the German Lutheran vote also. The returns are coming in with wonderful increase for Cleveland, both in the cities and in the county. Governor Peck claims that he is elected.

One of Her Leading Newspapers Claims the State for Republicans. DES MOINES, Nov. 9.-The Iowa State

Register claims Iowa for the Republicans by a plurality of at least 10,000. DES MOINES, Nov. 9.—The Register and September election. eader says it is impossible to tell how the state has gone, the returns being insufficient to justify election estimates. RHODE ISLAND.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 9.—Indications point o no election of congressmen in this state. The state, with a dozen towns to hear | The Republicans do not give up. from, goes Republican by about 2500. The vote of the city of Providence is, Cleveland, 10,232; Harrison, 9929.

The State Claimed by Both Parties-No Definite Returns. CHEYENNE, Wyo., Nov. 9 .- Returns will be late. Both parties claim the state.

MASSACHUSETTS,

Harrison Carries the State by About 20,-000-Russell Probably Wins. Boston, Nov. 9.—The returns indicate that Harrison will carry Massachusetts by about 20,000, and that Governor Russell will be re-elected by a small plurality. The vote of Boston was a surprise to the Democrats, as it was expected that Gov-ernor Russell would receive a plurality in the neighborhood of 18,000.

The greatly increased registration served to justify such a prediction, but the result shows that the Democratic campaign in this city was not so well managed as the Republican, or that causes were at work to reduce the governor's vote which were not apparent on the surface.
Governor Russell's plurality will not

WILLIAM E. RUSSELL In the state, outside of Boston, his strength is not relatively diminished in comparison with last year's vote.

In the congressional districts Lodge, Cogswell, Draper, O'Neil, Walker and Gillett are elected beyond question. There is little doubt of the election of McEttrick in the quadrangular contest in the Tenth district, and Andrew's friends are claiming his election in the Eighth. The friends of McCall do not concede the latter's success

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

A Majority of 2000 for Harrison and Probably No Election for Governor. CONCORD, N. H., Nov. 9.-Less than forty towns have been heard from, and upon the returns of these no figures can e given that are of significance or value, beyond showing that the state has been carried by Harrison by a plurality, claimed Democrats, of something like 2000. It is also apparent that there has been o election of governor by the people. The indications strongly point to the election of a Republican majority in the lower branch of the legislature.

In the towns heard from there is already a net gain of 10 for that party, and, if thi ratio of increase is maintained in the towns yet to be heard from, the majority will be very largely increased over that of two years ago. The status of the senate is uncertain, but probably Republican.

In the congressional districts the vote falls off somewhat from the governor vote, and no reliable estimate in either case can be given. The Republicans and pratically concede the defeat of Baker in the Second

On the other hand the Democrats stoutly insist that they have elected both their candidates, Stone in the First, and Parker in the Second. The general tendency of the returns seems to give a fair basis for the Democratic claim. The Republicans have undoubtedly elected three of the five councillors, but there is nothing to indicate the political omplexion of the counties.

The actual state of the vote in 34 towns is this: Harrison, 4374; Cleveland 4362; Cleveland, 3731; Fiske and scattering, 137. Republican net loss, 123,

The returns of the governor vote in 30 towns give Smith (Rep.), 3251; Mc-Kinney (Dem.), 3060; Carr (Pro.), 108; scattering, 17. In 1890 these towns gave Tuttle (Rep.), 3245; Amsden (Dem.), 3010; Carr (Pro.), and scattering, 90; Republican net

In Manchester Mayor Knowlton (Dem.) is re-elected by a substantial majority. Senator Chandler regarded the returns s too meagre to base estimates upon be ond the fact that the state has given Harrison a plurality of 2000; that there is no election of governor by the people, and that the Republicans have carried the legislature by an increased majority.

VERMONT.

Harrison's Majority in the Green Moun tain State is Greatly Reduced.

WHITE RIVER JUNCTION, Vt., Nov. 9.-Returns from 150 towns give Harrison 29,491; Cleveland, 12,731; Bidwell, 1114; scattering, 38. The same towns in 1888 gave Harrison, 34,680; Cleveland, 13,107; Fiske, 1144.

The vote shows a Republican loss of 5189, or 15 per cent.; Democratic loss, 376, or 2 9-10 per cent. Prohibition loss, 20, or 18-10 per cent. The Republican majority is 15,608.

The same towns in 1888 gave 20,439 majority for Harrison. If the remaing in 93 towns in the state give a propor tionate vote, Harrison's majority will b 20,710. This is nearly 3000 more than the Republican majority for governor at th

CONNECTICUT.

Gains for Cleveland Are Reported, but Republicans Do Not Give Up. HARTFORD, Nov. 9 .- In all the cities Cleveland, and Morris for governor, are making heavy gains, and the Democratic state committee claim the state by 5000. Through the Unexpected but Timely Visit of a Deputy Sheriff.

GARDINER, Me., Nov. 9.—The mystery surrounding the three women who have been living in so peculiar a manner in Pittston bids fair to be solved at an early day, and the solution will show one of the most sad affairs which has occurred in this vicinity for many years.

Deputy Sheriff Connor of Randolph made an investigation, disclosing a condition of affairs pitiable in the extreme. As he approached the house ore of the women had just left to draw a pail of water, and stepping quickly to the door he succeeded in forcing an entrance, although the aged woman, with a strength born of fear, made violent efforts to exclude him from the house.

Mr. Connor finally gained admission to to cover her form.

Slowly the head moved and the eyes opened, but they were the eyes of an imbecile, vacant, expressionless. She raised herself partly from the bed, mumbling unintelligibly, ending with a driveling idiotic laugh which told painfully of the absolute lack of reason. Mr. Connor made a tour of the rooms and found a rude bench, a cracked stove, two old tin pails and a barrel with a few handfuls of flour in the bottom, the only articles of furniture. Not a scrap of any food could be found in the house.

The old woman, when asked what the matter was with the girl, said she had been run over in Boston and was a cripple, but Mr. Connor state that she was in Little by little Mr. Connor learned that the starving woman's name was Conley and that she, with her husband and little girl, had been inmates of the Worcester (Mass.) insane asylum. She had been through a hard life, if the story of the woman was true. Both of the young women in the house are daughters of the old woman, Mrs. Kingsbury. The second girl is also married, And an Idiot, but the old woman refuses to give her name. She reiterates the story of their connection with the insane asylum, and states that after they made their escape they lived at Dedham, Mass., and later at their cousin's in Boston. It has been learned that they are from the town of ing a supply of eatables, and sent some wood there to keep the poor, unfortunate women from freezing and starving to death. The town will care for them now, and it is probable that they may be taken back to Massachusetts in a few days.

MAINE.

The State Carried by Harrison by a Greatly Reduced Plurality. AUGUSTA, Me., Nov. 9.-Returns in Maine show that the state gives Harrison a plurality of about 14,000, against a Republican plurality of 12,521 at the September election for governor, and a plurality of 23,258 for Harrison in 1888.

There is a falling off in the vote of both parties. The Augusta Democrats are ubilating over the national victory achieved by their party.

MICHIGAN.

Meyeland Will Get Five Electoral Votes

JUDGE ALLEN B. MORSE. Detroit, Nov. 9.—It is estimated that Michigan will give from 5 to 7 electoral votes to Cleveland. Chipman will probably be elected from the First district by 2000. State returns show a gain for Demo-cratic candidate for governor, and the election of more seems assured.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Philadelphia Press Claims the State cor Harrison by a Majority of 70,000.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—The Philadelphia Press this morning says: Pennsylvania has gone for Harrison and Reid. The returns indicate that the majority will not be less than 70,000, and more cor plete returns may carry it to a figure somewhat larger. The Republican state ticket, including John Dean for justice of the supreme court, and William Lilly and Alexander McDowell for congressmen-atlarge, has received about the same majority, although there are sections where Judge Dean has run considerably ahead of REEN & PRESCOTT, Republican Candidates Lead for Nine Offices and Democrats for the Remaining Seven.

> The following summary affords an interesting study of the pluralities in Quincy, both for the city at large and for each ward.

> The Democrats obtained pluralities for their candidates for President, Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Councillor, District Attorney, Sheriff, one of the Commissioners of Insolvency, varying from 32 to 1,338, the latter figure being for Sheriff where there was no Republican opposition.

> The Republicans obtained pluralities for Secretary of State, Treasurer, Auditor, Attorney General, Congressman, County Commissioner, two Special Commissioners, two of the three Representatives and two of the three Commissioners of Insolvency. Ward Four gave all its pluralities to the Democratic candidates, and Wards One and Five (if the Sheriff be excepted) to the Republican candidates. Wards Two and Three were mostly Democratic and Ward Six pretty equally

Each Log Seven Cars Long.

The special train bearing the ten big logs destined for the flagpoles for the Washington World's fair building at Chicago will be run in three sections of fourteen cars each. Each of the logs equals the length of seven flat cars, though they are loaded in such a manner that the weight is carried by two of the cars. With the exception of the two largest, the logs are placed two together on the cars, but it was impossible to load the two largest in that manner, owing to their enormous weight.

The two end cars of the sections will support the load on a raised block working on a pivot. The other cars will be empty, and the loss will extend over empty, and the logs will extend over them above the car floors. This arrange ment is necessary owing to the curves in the road. A Young Colored Poet.

The poetic taste and ability of a young the attention of members of the Western Association of Writers at its last meeting there, and Dr. James Newton Matthews, of Mason, Ills., writes concerning him in the following appreciative vein:

A month or two ago, while in Dayton, O., I attended a meeting of the western authors. About half way down the informal programme the presiding officer announced the reading of a poem by Paul Dunbar. Just the name for a poet, thought I. Great was the surprise of the audience to see stepping lightly down the aisle, between the rows of fluttering fans and the assembled beauty and wit of Dayton, a slender negro lad, as black as the core of Cheops' pyramid. He ascended the rostrum with the coolness and dignity of a cultured entertainer, and delivered a poem in a tone "as musical as is Apollo's lute." He was applauded to the echo between the stanzas, and heartily encored at the conclusion. He then disappeared from the hall as suddenly as he had entered it, and many were the whispered con jectures as to the personality of the none believing it possible that one of his age and color could produce a thing of such evident merit. After repeated inquiries I succeeded in locating the rising laureate of the colored race, and called upon him. He was an elevator boy in one of the down town business blocks. I found him seated in a chair on the lower landing, hastily glancing at the July Century and jotting down notes on a handy pencil tablet. Not having time to converse with me there, he invited me into the both slaves—his father having escaped into Canada from the south. His mother is living in Dayton, and he is supporting her and himself on the pitiful sum of four dollars per week. He is nineteen rears of age. In reply to a question, he

FIGURES ARE STILL POURING IN.

Leading Republicans Hold the Tariff Responsible for Defeat.

As the returns become more complete, the sweeping Democratic victory stands in clearer and larger figures. Mr. Cleveland's majority in the electoral college is

The Republican strength in the senate is thus reduced to 42, leaving to Senators Peffer, Kyle and Stewart (who will succeed himself from Nevada) the power to control the organization by alliance with either of the parties. The expectation is that they will operate with the Democrats in this matter. The result in congressional districts in New Hamp-shire, Ohio, Michigan, Minnesota, Ne-braska, Kansas and California is unsettled, the figures not having been fully re-

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Chairman Carter of the Republican national committee has sent the following telegram to President

feated by a pronounced majority. The defeat can only be attributed to a reaction against the protective policies of the Republican THOMAS H. CARTER, Chairman. Harrity's Thanks.

Chairman Harrity left for Philadelphia last evening, to be gone several days. Don Dickinson has also gone out of town. Before going Mr. Harrity said: "I feel that I ought not to leave New York without ness and consideration with which I have been treated while here. My stay has been a very pleasant one indeed, and that 20 districts to hear from. The Democrats fact contributed very much to the satisfaction I feel over the outcome.

"I ought to add that we feel grateful to the representatives of the press of the country, especially to those representing the New York papers, for the very generous treatment accorded to the members of the Democratic national committee. To the Democratic and independent newspapers of the country much of the great result which has been achieved is due, and they should be awarded full

The Latest from Ohio.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 11.—A special to The Post from Columbus says: For some reason no response comes to the telegrams sent by the state Democratic committee to the missing counties—Geuga, Monroe and Vinton—asking for full returns. These telegrams have been sent to nearly every telegrams have been sent to nearly every son no response comes to the telegrams sent telegrams have been sent to nearly every Democrat in the county, but they are probably waiting for some back township, not knowing that much depends upon the returns, after summing the known county results and estimating those yet out. Ex-Governor Campbell said: "Well, it shows that we are pretty sure of the state by 1200."

S. M. Taylor, Republican candidate for secretary of state, is running slightly behind the electoral ticket everywhere, so he is probably defeated, if the Demo-cratic figures on the national ticket are correct. At the Republican headquarters they are only figuring on the vote for S. M. Taylor. They figure out a plurality for him of 1470 and claim that the electoral ticket will have about the same plurality. Allen, the supreme court clerk, runs ahead of his ticket and may be elected, although the rest of the Republican ticket is defeated. Poorman is defeated for congress by 151 votes.

Anthony, the Republican candidate for congressman-at-large, leads his ticket, and is undoubtedly elected. Democrats and Populists claim the election by from 8000 to 10,000, but their claims are based largely on estimates with seven doubtful districts to hear from. The Republicans have a majority of the legislature on joint ballot of four-three in the house and one in the senate. Jerry Simpson's majority is 2000. All People's party congressmen are elected by greatly reduced majorities.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 11.-Returns from all over the state are coming in very slow. The unofficial returns from 55 counties show a steady Democratic gain over the vote of 1888. ## SAVED BY SCIENCE.

Successful "Hatching" of a Bahy with an Incubator.

ONE OF DAME NATURE'S MISTAKES

Corrected by an Interesting Experiment in a Boston Nursery.

Boston, Nov. 11.-In a certain Back Bay nursery there is an incubator, and in the queer, darkened box, swathed in cotton wool, lies a tiny bit of humanity, born prematurely, nearly two months ago. The baby is the second child and only son of Mr. and Mrs. Putnam of the Charlesgate Hotel, who have been receiving hearty congratulations from their friends on the little fellow's successful struggle for life against big odds.

It is an every-day matter for babies to be born, but for a baby to be hatched is a novel matter, and the success of the experiment is of interest to the general and scientific world, beside the large circle of Nearly two months ago the baby was born—Dame Nature had made a mistake of eight weeks, and the little stranger came into the world with imperfect lungs chance for life.

Dr. Rotch of Commonwealth avenue whose incubator inventions have created such wide comment, undertook, at the parents' request, to Make Up with Science for nature's deficiencies.

So baby was wrapped in cotton wool and laid in the padded nest of the incubator, the cover was closed to keep out the light, the temperature was kept at 87 degrees, and at stated intervals the child was fed by bottle with a light milk nourishment specially prepared at the laboratory. Day by day, like a little seeding underground or a baby chicken in its shell, the child has grown until now it is almost ready to blossom out or to "chip the shell" and come forth into the nursery world to be clothed and cooed at like other babies.

In fact it has been so far advanced that the cover of the incubator is left open a bit to admit light and air, the child is taken out of its nest, bathed and put back again each day, and has developed sufficient lung power to cry in the most aggressive infantile fashion

Cautious Dr. Rotch will have not a word to say about the case, but the friends of the Putnams believe there is every reason to consider

The Experiment a Success. In regard to his incubator Dr. Rotch said yesterday: "It is a very imperfect one, incomplete and faulty in many ways, but I hope in two or three months to put Boston, Nov. 11.—Results of the election forth a new invention, on new principles in Massachusetts are no longer in doubt. and then, as a matter of scientific interest Reid presidential electors by a plurality I shall be very glad to tell you all about

On the Trail of Bad Indians.

DEMING, N. M., Nov. 11 .- A despatch has been received from Lieutenant Brown stating that he came upon the camp of "the Kid" and his band of renegade Indians in Doubtful canon, Arizona, about 100 miles to the west of this point, early yesterday morning. The Indians escaped, leaving their camp utensils behind them. The troops are in hot pursuit.

Going Back to Carnegie's Mill. HOMESTEAD, Pa., Nov. 11.—The Huns have been sizing up the situation and they are returning to work in the steel mills by two and threes. No general break is expected among the strikers, but it is thought that the men will gradually return to their old positions in the mill.

Successful Launching of the New Wa Vessel, the Cincinnati.

BROOKLYN, Nov. 11.-Amid the cheer of 3000 people, Uncle Sam's new cruiser the Cincinnati, slid from the ways into the water of the East river, where she was welcomed by the guns of the Atlanta, Miantonomoh and Philadelphia. It was 2 o'clock when the props an blocks had been knocked from under the hull. Then the saws cut through the sole pieces, but she did not move. The hydraulic rams were then manned. Suddedly the great steel hull began to move.

Miss Stella Mosby of Cincinnati raised a ribbon covered bottle in her hand and shattered it on the bow of the vessel. She said: "I christen thee Cincinnati."

It was just 2:12 p. m. as the great ship, with Ohio wine dripping from her prow, moved from the spot where she had been built, and took the water with a graceful dip and rode majestically out toward cheers from the crowd. Half a dozen tugs surrounded her and towed her to the navy yard dock, where the work on her will be

The Cincinnati is the second of the new warships built at the Brooklyn navy yard. She is a protected cruiser of 3182 tons displacement, 300 ft. in length, 45 ft. beam, and with a mean draught of 18 ft. She will have twin screws and vertical triple expansion engines of 10,000 horse power, with a steam pressure of 100 pounds.

She will be one of the fastest vessels in the navy, as her average speed will be 19 knots. Her armament will consist of a main battery of ten five-inch rapid fire guns and one six-inch breech loading rifle; a secondary battery of eight sixpounders, four one-pounders and two gatlings. She will have four torpedo tubes. Her keel was laid in January 1890, She will cost about $1,642,915, including armament.

Whee, wheet! Whee, wheet! It was such a whistle as the Pied Piper of Hamlin may have given when he called the rats from the famous old city

The twenty-three cats were for a moment irresolute. Then they blinked their eyes as if to wipe away the tears, and turned about and went with drooping tails and bent heads into the shanty whence they came. The watchman followed, leading the reporter to the shed, which was built in the corner of the coal yard. It was not more than a dozen feet square and as many high, and was built of old boards. It stood at the entrance to the yard. At the street end was a door, in the bottom of which was cut a hole about three inches square. "It is very rare to see a person nowadays, whether a man or a woman, visibly disfigured by the absence of teeth. Anybody whose grinders fall out will in nearly every case go to a dental surgeon and procure artificial ones. They don't cost much. You can get a complete double set from sixteen dollars to seventy-five dollars. Probably a fashionable dentist will charge you the latter price. His margin of profit is considerable, inasmuch as the teeth themselves cost only from fifteen to eighteen cents apiece. They are made of porcelain, of kaolin usually, baked in an oven.

Economics of the Poor.

And by LEDGER Newsboys.

A cheerful creature, who deserves more credit for her courage than many heroes who have died on the field of battle, gave a detailed list of her "economics" to a reporter a few weeks ago "Shoes are the greatest expense," she said; "they cost fifty cents, and my boy has to have a new pair every week." It is pitiful, when one reflects that for two dollars the boy might have a pair of shoes which would last him four months! These are the economics of the very poor. They buy worthless things, and are obliged to do so often, for the simple fact that they have not enough ready money to buy good ones.

They cannot lay in quantities of pro visions nor buy healthful ones for the same reason, and are consequently kept poor and poorly clad and nourished be cause they cannot afford an outlay. A Stone Image Sixty Feet Under Ground. Years ago, probably as early as 1881, when workmen were excavating a cut on the Humeston and Shenandoah railway, they found a stone image about eight inches in height imbedded in the clay at a depth of about sixty feet be neath the surface. In general attitude the image may be said to be in a squatting or sitting posture, the right elbow resting upon the bent knee. Two horns, each about an inch in length, adorned the head. The mouth, and in fact the whole face, was very large for the size of the image. The main question is, How long has it been since that image was an object of worship?—St. Louis Re-

LESSON VII, FOURTH QUARTER, IN-TERNATIONAL SERIES, NOV. 13.

Text of the Lesson, Acts xiii, 1-13-Memory Verses, 2-4-Golden Text, Luke xxiv, 47-Commentary by the Rev. D. M.

1. "Now there were in the church that was at Antioch certain-prophets and teachers." Barnabas and Saul having continued a whole year at Antioch teaching much people, were afterward sent to Jerusalem with the offering for the needy brethren of Judea (chapter xi, 26-30). In due time they returned, having fulfilled their mission, and brought with them John Mark, son of Mary, Barnabas' sister, at whose house the prayer meeting had been held on behalf of Peter (chapter xii, gently serving the Lord and living this consecrated life, but the Holy Spirit has a special work for them to which He now calls them (Eph. ii, 10).

3. "And when they had fasted and prayed and laid their hands on them they sent them away." 4. "So they, being sent forth by the Holy Ghost, departed unto Selencia, and from thence they sailed to Cyprus." They are right in going forth on this tour, for they are sent by the Spirit of God, and he canthe fine residences of Dr. Allen and Dr. Samnel Tibbetts, the Bay View House and the buildings on the eastern side of us. To begin at home, or with those dear-Dynamite was successfully used to stop est to us, seems to be a Scriptural principle (Luke viii, 39; xxiv, 47).

5. "And when they were at Salamis they preached the word of God in the synagogue of the Jews, and they had also John to be their minister." Salamis was the eastern or nearest part of Cyprus to Selencia while Paphos of the next verse was at the extreme west of the island. "To the Jew first" was the regular custom of the apostles wherever they went (Rom. i, 16; Acts iii, 26; xiii, 46). The preaching was never a sermon or essay to show their own skill, but always an exposition of the Word of God.

6. "And when they had gone through the isle unto Paphos they found a certain sorcerer, a false prophet, a Jew, whose name was Bar-jesus." We do not read of any success, any results of their preaching at Salamis, but we know they must have given faithful testimony, and as a brother in the ministry once said to me, "Faithfulness is success." If we are faithful God will see to the results. Consider Luke xii, 42; xix, 17; Rev. ii, 10. We do not read of any followers of Jesus on the whole island, but we do find a false prophet.

7. "Which was with the deputy of the country, Sergius Paulus, a prudent man; who called for Barnabas and Saul, and desired to hear the word of God." The false his servant's success. There have been many false prophets who have had much success, and there will be many more. 8. "But Elymas, the sorcerer, withstood them, seeking to turn away the deputy from the faith." There is direct opposi-tion and antagonism between Christ and antichrist, the true and the false, and when preachers of truth find no one resisting them it is clear that the devil does not care a fig for their preaching and fears no harm to his kingdom from their milk and water, namby pamby, goody goody kind of talk. If the preaching is God's own truth the devil will hate it and soon show it.

9. "Then Saul (who is also called Paul), filled with the Holy Ghost, set his eyes on him." This is the first time that Saul is called Paul, and it is interesting to notice that the deputy's name is Paulus. Here is a face to face encounter between a serv Boston, Nov. 11.-Judge Holmes in the ant of Christ and a servant of satan in the presence of the deputy, reminding us of the magicians who withstood Moses and Aaron, and taking us back even to the > enemy of all righteousness, wilt thou not cease to pervert the right ways of the Lord?" So Peter was enabled by the Spirit to read the hearts of Ananias and Sapphira (chapter v, 3, 9). Thus plainly Jesus spoke to the self righteous Jews, telling them that they were of their father, the devil (John viii, 44). How much re-ligiousness there is today which is only a perversion of the truth of God, and there fore of the devil, God only knows, but it will all be overthrown in due time under the name of Babylon (Rev. xviii, 21-24). Contrast the true and the false in Jer. xxiii, 28, 36,

11. "And now behold the hand of the Lord is upon thee, and thou shalt be blind. not seeing the sun for a season. And immediately there fell on him a mist and a darkness; and he went about seeking some to lead him by the hand." With enemy (Ezra viii, 22; Ex. xv, 6). The hand of God by His servant when laid with the Spirit (Acts ix, 17, 18), but now the same hand of God gives blindness and trouble. Everything depends upon our relation to God; obedience brings blessing, and disobedience brings cursing.

12. "Then the deputy, when he saw what was done, believed, being astonished at the doctrine of the Lord." The sorcerer had probably surprised him by some wonderful things, but he had never seen anything like this. If we would commend Christ to others it must be by such manifestation of His power in us as will make it clear that He is greater than Satan, that His joys are greater than those the world can give and that a life with Him is truly excellent. 13. Will Be Necessary to Settle the Contest in Ohio.

Latest Returns Make Changes in the Electoral College Vote.

The latest election returns leave Ohio so close that probably nothing but the official count can determine for whom the state's electoral vote will be cast. The eight votes of the state of Nebraska have been transferred to the Harrison column, and the three votes of Wyoming, the three votes of North Dakota, and four votes of South Dakota to Weaver. California is reported very close.

The reports that a Republican legislature has been chosen in Kansas and the closeness of the vote in California make the composition of the senate after March 4 doubtful. The Democrats are sure of a plurality, and the prospects are good for a majority. A point hitherto overlooked in the estimates is the probable admission of Arizona and New Mexico to statehood soon after congress meets in December, and their probable election of four Democratic senators. The Electoral College: Whole number of votes ...

Kansas Still in Doubt. TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 12.-The latest returns show the legislature to be tied on oint ballot between the Populists and Republicans, with two Independent Republicans and one Democrat in doubt. It is asserted by Republicans that the Democrats, and at least one of the Independents, will vote with them on the election of a United States senator, but this has not been confirmed. It is probable that the fusion electoral and state tickets have carried the state by from 1200 to 2000. The new membership committee held its of Dr. E. R. John, is progressing finely, new men coming in at every class. We work is so graded that a person can join a class at any time. Also that joining a class does not put one under obligations to attend every session. Attendance is purely optional. Visitor are always welcome, and many find it a good evenings entertainment to sit in the gallery and watch the classes. The work done is equal to that of the best Boston gymnasium. The men's classes are on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evening, boy's classes on Tuesday and Saturday afternoons, and the class for business and professional men, under the direction of Secretary Colton, meets at 4.30 on Monday and Thursdays. On Tuesday evenings the gallery is reserved for the ladies. Members and others who desire reserved seats for the entertainments will still find a few good seats on sale at the rooms, at reduced rates for the remainder of the course. The entertainment on Thursday Nov. 24, Thanksgiving night, by the Ladies' Schubert Quartette, and Jesse Couthoui promises to be the best given in Quincy for many years. Fiftieth Anniversary.

On Monday evening, November 7, Mr. William Tucker and wife of Wollaston, formerly of Lexington, were pleasantly surprised at their home on Pine street, by the members of their family, the occasion being the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage. There were present four generations. The family circle has never been broken by death. A collation was served $660. and a pleasant social evening enjoyed. The gifts, including two handsome easy $1. chairs, testified to the love and esteem in which they are held by the family.

Some Bright Old Men. It is remarkable how many great men are still alive and active, though over eighty years of age. Kossuth, who has just celebrated his ninetieth year, is busy with his memoirs, besides being employed in preparing a collected edition of his works. Lesseps is hale and hearty at eighty-seven. MacMahon is a year older than Mr. Gladstone, and has also written his memoirs. Pope Leo XIII is eighty-three, and though rumors of his ill health are constantly being circu lated, he is still able to be one of the busiest statesmen in Europe. Belgium has a G.O.M. in the person of M. Frere Orban, a veteran parliamentarian, who has just entered his eighty-first year.

A WORD FROM WEAVER.

of the People's Party. DES MOINES, Nov. 14.—General Weaver, in conversation here, said that the People's party holds the balance of power in more than three-fourths of the states, and will hold the balance of power in the senate after March 4 next, besides control ing the legislatures of six or seven states. He held that this would enable his party to act as a breakwater against vicious of silver and the adoption of an American system of currency.

He said the Democratic party came into power as the result of a violent reaction of public sentiment, and not at the bid-ding of the quiet, well informed people. The reaction which threw the Democratic party out of power at the end of Cleveland's administration gave the Republican party complete control of the government. The people were disappointed with Mr Harrison's administration, and a second reaction, still more violent than the first, has displaced the Republican party and reinstated the Democratic party, but with this marked difference: It has given the Populists the balance of power in the upper house of congress General Weaver further said: "The task now before the Democratic party is imposible of solution from their standpoint. If they reduce the tariff taxes, there will be a deficit, unless they reduce it to a point that will stimulate importations, in order to keep up the revenue. In that event, labor will become dissatisfied, and the next sensation will be an explosion that will break the party into fragments. "The Republican party is as dead as the Whig party was after the Fremont campaign in 1856, and can never again seriously give battle for national supremacy. The new party is the coming factor in national politics, and it will be in power before the advent of the twentieth century. It holds the key of the political situation in America."

CABLE, VILLARD AND WHITNEY,

Are Now Down on the Slate as Possible

Members of Cleveland's Cabinet. NEW YORK, Nov. 14 .- Very little additional gossip about the formation of Mr. navy by the western Democrats.

It is still in the air that Henry Vil lard's friends will urge his appointmen as secretary of the interior. Mr. Villard's of his time to raising money with which to put forward the issues before the peo-ple. In this matter he was especially successful in the northwest, where his prom inence as a railroad manager has gained him a wide circle of acquaintances.

It is still said that Mr. Wnitney can have about anything in the shape of a portfolio he may desire, even if it be the state portfolio, but that he does not desire to enter the cabinet and that he will only do so if Mr. Cleveland insists. Any num-ber of Democrats believe that Mr. Whitney has a great future before him.

Since the election, which resulted se triumphantly in his favor, Mr. Cleveland has vanished from the public view. With the exception of the few words addressed to the throng in front of his house in the small hours of Wednesday morning, no utterance of public import has fallen from the lips of the president-elect. He has remained in the privacy of his home, closeted with his secretary and absorbed in the spondence which reaches him daily.

It was at first rumored that Cleveland was engaged in the preparation of a state.

ment which he would make public, but this is authoritatively denied by Secretary O'Brien, who said: "I don't think Mr. Cleveland will be heard from till March."
On Saturday afternoon Mr. Cleveland stirred abroad for the first time and took short drive through Central park, re turning in time for dinner, after which h retreated to his study.

Fifty Shots Fired and Many Injured

HOMESTEAD, Pa., Nov. 14.-The period in Homestead since the militia left ha died out and the pent-up feelings of the strikers broke out afresh in a riot, i which at least fifty shots were fired, but miraculously no person was killed though a score were hit by flying bullets. A party of seven colored non-union me were on their way to their boarding house about 4:45 o'clock yesterday after noon, when a man, supposed to be striker, attacked two of the negroe Charles Carroll and Fred Lewis. Lewi was knocked down. This was a signal fo a large crowd to gather at the scene o trouble. Lewis' companions came t his rescue, and a terrible riot took place the crowd, supposed to be all strikers, of

The two sides fought desperately an fired their revolvers and slashed ear others with knives at close quarters for several minutes, when the negroes made dash through the crowd for their board ing houses. They were followed by th hooting and blood thirsty crowd, which by this time, numbered at least 2000, in cluding many women and children. Th on the crowd, and how so many escaped

Thirty-six Thousand Dollars Raised for New England Cutters Missing.

A New York dispatch of Saturday says: " The Stone Cutters' Union held a stormy meeting last evening, at which it was developed that large amounts of money raised as assessments for the New England granite strikers last summer had never been turned over to the latter or otherwise account for. The amount missing is stated to be $36,000. A deal of of other rascality was also unearthed, it being openly charged that the local officers of the union had hushed up violations here of the union's scale of wages by manufacturers for sums of money received by them. The end was not reached."

Good Arguments Pro and Con—Subiect Not Well Understood.

"Is Socialism Practicable" was the subject which came up for debate at the regular meeting of the Quincy Literary and Debating Society Saturday evening. Mr. Alex. Uraig, president of the society, occupied the chair, and the attendance was deeidedly good.

This subject can hardly be called popular, but the reason of this is simply that it is harvest concert on Sunday evening, not sufficiently well understood by the There was a large number of people presmajority of the people to enable them to ent to hear the exercises. On the call of the president, Mr. George Invocation. Garden proceeded to open the debate in the Recitation and Singing, affirmative. He said : "Before going into this subject it will be necessary to give a definition of "socialism." It means in short the collective control and ownership Recitation, tion for the people and by the people. He then went on at length to show that to adopt the Socialistic idea in the state would impede individual exertion by withdrawing the stimulus of competition, and further "it has been generally admitted Driscoll, Bradley & Co., $500. that instead of being a help to social economy, the state has materially been a hindrance; that it produces dearer and worse than private enterprise, as instance the building of war ships, which have cost the government much more than they would if done by private individuals.

In concluding his paper, Mr. Kelley said: While not content with things as they are, we nevertheless fail to see the practicability of a system which

The discussion which followed showed very conclusively that this subject stands very much in need of ventilation and exposition in public. A considerable number of those who took part in it admitted that they knew very little about the matter, at all, and their remarks testified to the truth of the statement. By some Anarchy was confounded with Socialism, and many other absurd ideas were given the same designation. There were a few who believed

The news of the elopement will not cause as much surprise to the friends of young Pabst as it probably did to his family. It is the consummation of a summer resort courtship that began last June. Miss Mather occupied a cottage last summer at Lakeside, on Pewaukee lake, one of the sheets of water in the famous resort regions an hour's ride from this city. On the opposite shore of the lake is the hunting preserve of Major Lewis Auer of the Wisconsin National Guard, where the young man spent a part of the season. It was there that young Pabst met Miss Mather, and their devotion became a matter of comment.

An Odd Railway.

"One of the queerest railroads any where in the country," said the Rev. D. S. Banks, of North Ontario, "is a novel line that runs from South Ontario, in San Bernardino county, where I live. The line is seven miles long. A span of stout mules draw the car up over the the examination into the compilation of certain facts relating to the sealing instout mules draw the car up over the road. There is nothing singular about that, but it comes in on the return trip.

"The seven miles are on a tilt all the way, although the track does not look like it. So when the car starts back the mules get on and take a ride, the car booming over the whole line by gravity. The mules enjoy it too. They ride there in as self satisfied a way as any other passenger, and the view seems equally charming. North Ontario, you know, is situated at the mouth of San Antonio canyon, but there are a lot of magnificent mountains around there. One col ony-for they can scarcely be called towns—is situated on the Santa Fe road and the other on the Southern Pacific. It is the seven miles of street railway

"The way they get the mules aboard is this: There is a little truck under the car, and it is pulled out, becoming an adjunct to the regular passenger department. The moment the truck is slid out the intelligent animals make a start for it and step up and on. It is extremeway they enjoy this ride, and they are Francisco Examiner.

Against Gambling.

Antivice crusaders have recented to many startling expedients to arouse and hold public attention, but the unique, if not the most practical, movement toward the suppression of vice (this time that of gambling) made its appearance in this city on Friday.

The article further says that the discov ery has created considerable excitemen in official circles. The superintendent of census has been in conference with the president, the secretary of state and the secretary of the interior regarding his faithless employe. The Question Has Arisen, if Petroff's work has been falsified in one nstance, are not his census figures also unreliable? This is an inquiry that can only be answered after tedious and per-haps expensive investigation.

There is no law to the acuse as this, and Petroff will simply lose his government position, with the knowledge that he can never re-enter political life. Petroff is a Russian by birth. He lived in Alaska forty years. He is now 60 years of age. It was upon the recommendation of General Francis A. Walkor that he was selected to furnish the Alaskan statistics for the census just completed.

Paid by Augelo Petrillo, Who Murdered a Fellow Countryman at New Haven. New Haven, Nov. 14.—This morning, in the jail yard here, Angelo Petrillo, an Italian, paid the penalty required by law for the murder of a countryman named Dimeo, a year or more ago.

Petrillo suffered a powerful reaction from the bravado he exhibited during yesterday, while the gallows was being erected in the jail yard, but a few feet from the cell door. Rev. Father Alussi of St. Michael's church arrived, and the condemned murderer was taken to the jail chapel, where mass was celebrated. Petrillo did not appear to revive in spirits. About 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon Petrillo's wife arrived and brought with her an infant child. Petrillo appeared overjoyed to see them. He took the child from its mother's arms and fondled it, and repeatedly kissed it. His spirits at with her. He did not show much feeling at parting, but repeatedly urged his wife to take good care of his children.

Characteristics of Mr. Hoey. John Hoey was more than brave as physica John Hoey was more than brave as physical courage goes. He was absolutely fearless. As manager of a great company that was constantly exposed to the depredations of the most desperate class of criminals he was often brought into situations of great danger. It has been told how he and six detectives planned to exterminate a gang of burglars at work on the vaults of the Adams Express company at 59 Broadway, and how he watched them for six nights unknown to them and to town and took up his residence in his company at 39 Broadway, and how he watched them for six nights unknown to them and to every one else but the seven.

Mr. Hoey was the most generous of men, a natural born giver. His charity was absolutely of the Bibical type. Neither hand knew what the other hand gave away. At that time I was a fairly good looking, well to do bachelor of thirty-five. My ample leisure I devoted to antiquarian researches, literary work and the collection of "curios." I had no relatives and few friends, and I lived an almost solitary and perfectly happy life in my chambers.

Among what some people called my "craze" was an enthusiasm for ancient houses, and I had deputed John Ridgway, an artist friend of mine who lived in Surrey, to find me a genuine old country house-a dreamy, rambling placewhere I could spend the summer. Hence

The floor was stone, the walls were bare, but it was apparently inhabited, for there were a few articles of furniture-a rickety, spindle legged table, a couple of high backed, worm eaten chairs and a battered horsehair sofa. In the grate, too, burned a small fire and a couple of tall, white candles

She was tall and slender, and wore a long russet gown of an old fashioned cut, but her face was pale and sad, with sharp, clear cut features, and a mass of rough, reddish hair was carelessly twisted into a long knot at the nape of

But, though this and worn, her face was still lovely, and as I gazed I thought how lovely it would be were the hollows filled out and the deep lines smoothed away. Suddenly, with a little resolute gesture, she turned toward me and began to speak in low, rapid tones. "I brought you here because I wanted to tell you my story, and I want your help if you will give it." Then, with voice rising and falling with varying emotions, and with deep gray eyes fixed on my face, she told her sad tale. The beginning was commonplace enough-a beautiful, willful girl: a stern, unyielding father; two lovers. one brave and handsome, the other morose and unattractive; a proposed flight a sudden death; a broken heart-the last three were the tragic elements.

"And I saw them carry him by the house-dead," she said, speaking in a strange, dull way, "and for a long time I think I must have lost my senses When my father still insisted on my marriage with the wretch he had chosen for my husband I raised no protest. viewed the preparations for the wedding with indifference. I seemed turned to stone. But a week before the marriage my reason returned, and I realized the horror of the coil which was slowly tightening around me. Then it was that I determined on what was virtually a living burial. I was born in this dear old house, and I knew every nook and cranny of it. My foster mother had shown me the sliding panel in the room above that which I then occupied, and she and 1 were the only living persons who knew the secret. She was devoted to me, and I at length won her over to

I had valuable jewelry which had been my dead mother's; that has been gradually sold, and on the proceeds I have subsisted. My foster mother comes daily and brings me food-not through the house of course. There is a secret path and door of communication in the garden."

"And the ghost?" I queried. "Oh," she said, with a queer little smile, "I am the ghost! You see, I wanted to keep the house empty, so that I might wander about the rooms and grounds; but now I am tired of this unnatural existence. Life will always be sad for me! I have had a dreadful grief, and all my dear ones are dead; but, in spite of all, my youth reasserts itself, and solitude has at last lost its charm. So . wish to return to the world, and you can help me to do so. Will you?" Of course I helped her, and within a week from that time the Thorpe manor "ghost"-now laid forever-was safe under the kind wing of John Ridgway's homely little wife, and by the time the roses were blooming in my sweet scented old fashioned garden the "ghost," too, had bloomed into beauty and I, sober old bachelor, had fallen in love-quite hopelessly, I told myself for her heart was with her dead, and yet it happened that one June afternoon. as we stood alone by the sundial on the sloping shady lawn, something gave me courage. Perhaps it was that she looked so sweet in her fresh muslin gown, with the flowers in her belt, or perhaps because I caught a strange fleeting look in her shy gray eyes; anyway I know she murmured that she Could He Use a Ticket for His Own Corpse Can a live man travel on a ticket call ing for a first class passage for a corpse This novel question confronts the Santa Fe road, and the decision will be watched with interest by other lines. Some weeks ago Harry Knight, of Denver, was taken case seemed hopeless, and his sister in Denver was so informed. but difficulties met him at every point. The ticket read, "Good for the passag of one human body contained in a caske from Chicago to Denver." The "human body" referred to tendered the ticket, and the conductor did not know what to do about it. He finally decided to take the ticket and to leave the matter for settlement with the company afterward. Meantime Mr. and Miss Knight are safe at home in Denver.-Chicago Letter.

Outdoor Figs in Maine.

For about four years Mr. E. K. Whitney, whose place is about a mile from Harrison village, has successfully raised a crop of figs. The figs are when fully ripe as large as medium sized pears and mellow and delicious, not to be told in appearance and flavor from the branch. When Mr. Whitney first began their culture he would in the fall, by advice of southern growers, bury the tree in position by cutting the roots each side and bending the tree into a trench prepared for it. By experiment later he learned that the better method was to dig up the tree and transplant it to the cellar. It is quite hardy and will endure considerable cold, and is little affected by transplanting. In the spring it is easily set out again. The fruit from the tree takes root readily, and this offshoot comes in bearing during the second year.-Lewiston Journal.

Possible Indian Outbreak Discussed by Commissioner.

No Ground for Complaint Against The Government He Says.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.-In regard to the report from Guthrie, T., that there is danger of an outbreak of the Cheyenne and Araphoe Indians, who with the approach of winter, are on the verge of starvation, said to be the fault of the government on account of a reduction of the ATLANTIC-Cunningham's News Agency Indians' rations and withholding their money, Commissioner Morgan of the Indian bureau gives out the following statement: "These Indians number 3,300. Since the year 1889 there has been expended for their benefit for rations, clothing, employes, etc., the sum of $1,109,650 in fulfillment of treaty stipulations. There has also been expended in their behalf for the same purpose since 1872, the sum of $3,293,639, all of which was a gratuity given by congress to supply their necessities and promote their civilization and not called for by any treaty.

Placing of Funds.

"In October, 1890, the Cheyennes and Araphoes agreed to surrender to the United States a large part of their reservations, the price to be paid by the government being $500,000 in cash, and $1,000,-000 to be placed in the treasury to their credit to bear interest at 5 per cent per annum. In accordance with this agree-ment allotments have been made to the Cheyennes and Araphoes, 160 acres of choicest land to each man, woman and child of the tribes, and in further fulfillment of the agreement there has been paid them within the last few months $500,000 in cash, less $67,000.

"This sum was paid to attorneys who had made contracts with the Indians, and, with the consent of the Indians, was first instalment having just been sent to the agent, and the second instalment will be sent as soon as the first is paid.

Last Year's Work. "Last year when the Indian office was making up the estimates of appropriations to be made by congress, it had regard to the fact that the Cheyennes and Arapahoes would receive at an early period, in cash, about $500,000, and therefore it asked ongress to appropriate as a gratuity for the benefit of the Indians only $65,000, being $55,000 less than the amount appropriated for each of the two preceding years. Nevertheless, subsequently the Indian office stated the facts to congress, asked for an additional gift of $50,000 for food, which congress failed to give. "It can hardly be expected that the government will conside to subsist Indians out of the public treasury, who have had their lands allotted and who are receiving large cash payments. There are probably 600 children among these people of school age. The Indian office has offered to take all of these children into boarding schools, feed, clothe and educate them, free of all expense to these Indians. The change of ration issues from weekly to bi-weekly is for the convenience and benefit of the Indians.

A Weekly Issue Day.

"A weekly issue day is a hindrance to the time on the road to and from the agency to receive rations to the neglect of their farm and other civil employments. In woods on the estate contain large numbers of gray squirrels, and yesterday afternoon two young men entered the woods for the purpose of shooting squirrels. Mr. Coots met the men and ordered them out of the woods. The young men attacked him and one of them struck him over the head with his gun, inflicting a severe scalp wound, and with another blow breaking his left arm.

After assaulting Mr. Coots the young men ran away, and the victim made his way to station 9, where he reported the affair. His injuries were attended to by a physician, and he was sent to his home. Special Officers Sawyer and Gaddis were at once detailed to look into the case, and to see if they could find the young men who committed the assault. They are still searching for them.

Big Fire at McKeesport.

McKeesport, Pa., Nov. 15.—Last even-ing a fire broke out here, and in less than half an hour six houses were in flames and the fire rapidly spreading. As the city was without water, the pumps at the water works having given out early in the day and the river over five blocks aw, y, nothing could be done to check it. After ten houses had been consumed the National Tube works came to the rescue by pumping water into the city's mains from their works. thus enabling the firemen to use three lines of hose. With the assistance of citizens, a number of houses were torn down and after a hard struggle the firemen succeeded in checking the flames and soon had the flames under control. Had it not been for the assistance of the National Tube works at least three or four blocks would have been in ashes by midnight. A lamp explosion was the cause.

Men of Ali Parties Dine at Delmonico's.

DINNER BY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

Many Distinguished Citizens Gather at the Festive Board.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16. - The 124th annual dinner of the New York chamber of commerce took place last evening at Delmonico's. President-elect Grover Cleveland was the chamber's most honored guest. Mr. Cleveland was escorted from his house to the dining room by J. Edas a member of the committee of arrange-

There were 262 members and guests at the dinner. In the absence of President Charles Stewart Smith, Alexander E. Orr. the first vice president, presided.

Mr. Cleveland was introduced to the gathering and spoke as follows: Mr. Cleveland's Speech. Mr. President and Gentlemen: I am exceed-ingly gratified by the kindness and warmth of your greeting. It does not surprise me, however, for I have seen and felt on more than one occasion the cordial hospitality and heartiness of those who assemble at the anmers of our chamber of commerce. We may have noticed that many men when they seek to appear especially wise and impressive, speak of "our business in terests" as something awful and mysterious; and quite often when a proposition is under discussion, its merits are no longer apparent to those whose hair is on end at the solemn suggestion that "our business interests" are lying in wait with numerous vials of wrath in complete readiness for those who arrive at an unexpected

I am fortunate in being able to state that my relation to the chamber of commerce of the state of New York, though merely of a complimentary kind, arising from honorary membership, has so familiarized me with NEW Oi business interests" that I no longer regard hese words as meaning a bloodthirsty beast, nor do I have constantly before my mind those children in the Biblical story who were torn in pieces by bears for discussing too much at in pieces by bears for discussing too much at random the badness of an ancient prophet. It is entirely natural that my familiarity with business interests, arising from my relation to which I have referred, should be of a very pleasant sort, and free from fear and trepidation, for the only meetings I have ever attended of the chamber of commerce, have been precisely such as this, when the very best things to eat and drink have been exhaustively discussed. I am bound to say that on these occasions the dreadful beings representing business interests have been even human

I know you will not do me the very great njustice of supposing that I in the least underrate the importance of the commercial and financial interests here represented. On the ontrary, no one appreciates more fully than contrary, no one appreciates more fully than I that, while a proper adjustment of all interests should be maintained, you represent those which are utterly indispensable to our national growth and prosperity. I do not believe that any other interests should be obliged to feed from the crumbs which fall from the table of business; nor do I believe that the table should be robbed of the good things, which are honestly and fairly there, merely which are honestly and fairly there, merely because some other tables are not well pro-

Americans in common pursuit. Our purpose is, or ought to be, in our several spheres to add to the general fund of national prosperity. From this fund we are all entitled to draw, perhaps not equally, but justly, each receiving a fair portion of individual prosperity. Let us avoid trampling on each other in our anxiety to be first in the distribution of shares, shares of others.

As I close I cannot refrain from expressing my thanks for the courtesies tendered me by the organization at whose hospitable board I walk. He appeared very nervous and told conflicting stories. He was sent to have sat this evening. I beg to assure you that although I may not soon meet you again on an occasion like this, I shall remember, with peculiar pleasure, the friends made among its membership, and shall never allow myself to be heedless of the affairs you so worthily hold in your keeping.

The alarm from Box 52 at 8.06 Tuesday vening was a false alarm, when the department arrived at the box it was found to all appearances that the box had not been opened, which went to show that the party who pulled the alarm had a box and a release key. It was too bad to call out the department such a stormy night, but they expect to be called out quite often on just such alarms about this time as it is always noticed that just before city election somebody tries to monkey with the fire alarm. Should the person be caught giving a false alarm he will be made an example of.

NOTED TEMPERANCE LEADER.

The Forcible and Brilliant

David Frost.

The portrait of David Frost, the noted temperance lecturer, will be recognized far and wide. The noble work of this distinguished advocate of temperance has given him a reputation second only to that of the late John B. Gough's.

DAVID FROST. BOSTON, MASS. In a recent conversation with Mr. Frost, that gentleman said, with the convincing earnestness which characterizes his remarks: "One of the greatest evils with which the friends of temperance have to contend is the cheap whiskey decoctions and miserable rum mixtures by which the market is flooded under the guise of 'Bitters,' 'Sarsaparillas,' 'Gingers,' and other patent medicines. The enormous consumption of such miserable stuff does incalculable injury in many cases by implanting the taste for liquors where it never would exist otherwise. This most instidious form of intemperance should be put by implanting the taste for liquors where it never would exist otherwise. This most insidious form of intemperance should be put down by law.

"I do not mean to say," continued Mr. Frost, "that all proprietary medicines come under this head, and in fact I know from personal experience of one which is not only a Great Medicine, a Splendid Tonic, and Unrivalled Blood Purifier, but which is innocent of all deteriorating ingredients and Free from Harmful Effects, no matter how much or how freely it may be used. It is not my wish to appear as the exponent of any public remedy, but in this case I deem it my duty to commend that Grand Remedy of the Indian race, 'Kickapoo Indian Sagwa.'

"I speak from experience, for it has stood me in good stead. When half sick, worn out, and my most rebellious stomach refused to longer act in its normal capacity, 'Kickapoo Indian Sagwa.' has restored me to a healthy condition when nothing else would. I have taken occasion also to learn something about this medicine and its origin, and know that it is not only an old and tried remedy among the Indians, but that its Vegetable Purity and Harmless Curative Effects is still maintained, and that its manufacture is still carried on by modern methods exactly in accordance with the ways of the noble Red Man.

"Simple Roots, Barks, Leaves and Flowers from the Forest are all that enter into its composition, and the Strength which is gained from its use is not the false strength of the rum bottle but the Noble Exhilaration of Bounding Health, and the Purified Blood, cleansed of its poison, coursing through every Vein and Artery of the Human System."

This and more did Mr. Frost have to say in regard to "Kickapoo Indian Sagwa." Words fall to convey the earnest force of his remarks as expressed to the writer. Mr. Frost still pursues with unabated vigor the noble cause in which he has enlisted, and says that dious form of intemperance should be put

The assault took place on West Canton street, in front of 101, at 7:45 o'clock last evening, and the colored man was arrested a little before midnight by the police of station 5. There are conflicting stories as to the cause of the row, but the whole thing took place so quickly as not to be noticed by several persons who were in the immediate vicinity. As soon as a cry of "murder" was raised by one of the spectators the colored man dashed down a side street and no one fol-lowed, being afraid that they, too, would be cut. The wounded man was taken to the office of Dr. Whitney, where his wounds were dressed, and he was then removed to the city hospital. Officers were at once detailed upon the case and Fitz-gerald was found near midnight in hiding on the fourth police division.

THE AIR BRAKES FAILED.

Serious Railroad Accident Caused by Trains Colliding.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Nov. 16.—Yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock on the Pennsylvania railroad, near Nevada, O., a serious wreck occurred. Eastbound freight train No. 74 pulled into Nevada, but was given orders to side track for mail and express train No. 7, westbound. The freight pulled west and attempted to back upon the sid; ing before the mail train arrived. The train was heavy and hard to manage and the engine and five cars of the freight stood across the main track when No. 7 came thundering down to the switch. En gineer H. A. Durnell of the mail train saw the impending danger 300 feet from the switch. His engine was going forty miles an hour. He reversed the engine and applied the air. The air brakes failed him, and a crash followed. The two engines were hurled twenty feet into the ditch. Four express cars were wrecked and their contents ruined. Six loaded freight cars were piled in a confused mass. Engineer Durnell and his fireman leaped for life and escaped with only a few bad bruises. August Kutch, a brakeman, was fatally njured, and an unknown tramp so badly mangled that he cannot live. Engineer Tom Quinn of the freight engine and the train crew were warned by the mail train signals in time to leave their dangerou ositions and get a safe distance from the wreck. The tracks are blocked.

EXTRA SESSION TALK.

Knowing Ones Now Regard It as Inevitable.

THE CONDITION OF THE TREASURY.

Reported Large Deficiency in the Pension Department.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 .- It has never president to call an extra session of congress except in a great emergency, and these have been very rare. An extra session of congress was called by President Lincoln in 1861 to meet the necessities of the government, growing out of the secession of the southern states. Previous to the inauguration of General Grant, con. gress took the precaution against the machinations of the Johnson administration to authorize a meeting of congress on March 4, 1869, on which day General Grant took the oath of office. Claims of Party Manager

The party managers already claim that the result of the election was an emphatic repudiation of the Republican policy of protection, and that the issue should be met as speedily as possible, that a postponement action until the regular session in December, 1893, would delay legislation on this radical pledge of the Chicago platform for at least eighteen months, which would bring the issue in the midst of another congressional campaign. In the meantime industry and trade would be subject to the demoralizing influences of anticipated but uncertain legislation on economic and financial questions.

The Financial Outlook. From present indications, between now and March 4, there will be a deficiency of over $50,000,000. This may be provided for by the approaching session of congress but after March 4. President Cleveland will be contronted by a depleted treasury with liabilities to the extent of $80,000,000 above the receipts and accumulating pension indebtedness alone at the rate of $12,-000,000 a month. If an extra session should be called to legislate on the tariff, they will be met by the alarming condition of the treasury.

Those who know the actual condition of the treasury, aside from the political necessities of the Democrats, regard an extra session as inevitable. The indications of the future point to serious com-plications which will meet the new Democratic administration upon the threshold of their return to power.

PENSION DEFICIENCY.

ome of the Figures to be Presented to the Interior Department. WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.-Commissioner Raum of the pension bureau in an interview on the statement made in regard to the heavy pension roll and the large de-ficiency that would have to be met, said that the assertion that a deficiency of $36,-000,000 would have to be met was prepos terous, as the workings of the office could not elevate it to that figure. While the pension roll is on the increase now, owing to the new laws, it would, he thought, reach a maximum figure in two or three years, and then a decrease would take place. General Raum said he could not perceive that he was in any way to blame BROOKLYN, Nov. 16.-Eight cases of for the pension legislation, as he was only smallpox were discovered in one block in Brooklyn yesterday afternoon. The infected buildings were at once thoroughly on this account, as stated at the treasury fumigated and placed under strict quaran- department, will reach about $15,000,000. General Raum was not at liberty to discuss his estimates for the next fiscal year, as the figures will be a part of his annual report, which has to be submitted to the secretary of the interior before it will be FROM TREASURY DEPARTMENT.

Circular Issued Respecting the President's Recent Proclamation. WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 .- A circular has been issued from the treasury department respecting the president's proclamation in regard to the detention of ships carrying immigrants to this country, promulgated at the time of the recent outbreak of cholera in Europe. The reason for the issuance of the circular arose from the varied interpretations given to it by the customs and other officers interested at the duty carrying out its provisions. Some slight modifications in practices that have been obtained at some of the ports will be made, but they are said to be immaterial. The principal fact is that an announcement will be made that immigration is to be carefully regulated to prevent absolutely, if possible, the introduction of persons or articles infected with, or liable to infection from the germs of the plague. Assistant Secretary Spaulding in the absence of Secretary Foster will sign the circular, and it will be mailed to all the officers interested.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.-The order recently issued by the war department abandoning Fort Duchesne, Utah, a post near the White river, Ute reservation, has been suspended at the request of the interior department and the settlers in that section of the country pending an investigation to be made by an army officer as to the advisability of removing the troops from them. Governor Routt of Colorado telegraphed Commissioner Morgan of the Indian bureau that he was in receipt of information from Mekker, Col., that the White river Utes had invaded the Colorado National Park and were slaughtering game and stealing cattle. Commissioner Morgan immediately telegraphed the agent for the Ute Indians to have these Indians who are alleged to have broken out returned to their reservation. Chances Against Recovery. WASHINGTON, Nov 16.—General W. S. Rosecrans, register of the treasury, has been ill here for several weeks, and it is reported the chances are against recovery. His daughters have been summoned to his bedside. General Rosecrans was first taken down with a severe cold, but since then more alarming symptoms have appeared, and there is now a threat of paralysis. The fact that he is nearly 70 years old increase the danger.

Dissitisfied with Holman. WASHINGTON, Nov. 17. -It is said that Speaker Crisp is not altogether satisfied Trade was better than it has been for the past few weeks.

Swine—The western receipts were sent direct to the slaughter houses. The northern and eastern stock sold at 7c pr lb. Trade was active and a clearance was effected.

All Interests Are to be Represented in Its Makeup.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 .- A secret conference has just been held with Mr. Cleveland at New York by several of the most listinguished Democratic leaders, among them ex-Secretary Whitney, Senator Carlisle, ex-Postmaster General Don Dickinson and others, at which a general understanding was mapped out as to some of the main features of the line of action which will be pursued by the Democratic party on the leading issues settled in the late campaign, when they assume the reins of power on March 4 next. It was decided to adopt a conservative course, and in order that there might be no clashing of interests a few of the Democratic leaders in the present congress will be conferred with.

A Joint Tariff Commission.

It was decided that an extra session at the threshold of a new administration might be unfortunate and might prove meeting the requirements of reform legislation on the tariff without the necessity of an extra session. Several suggestions were made, but that which received the most support was that of the introduction of a joint resolution in the present house for the appointment of a joint commission for the preparation of a general tariff revision measure on the line of the Chicago platform and Democratic policy. This commission will sit during the recess and conclude its labors in time to report to congress at the session in December, 1893. To Sleep in Pigeon Holes.

It is probable that the tentative tariff neasures now in the ways and means committee will be allowed to die with the congress. The present tentative measures which passed the house and are now in the senate finance committee will also be permitted to sleep in the pigeon holes. This will relieve the interests affected from any immediate consequences of the free raw material bills and other legislaion proposed by the Democrats of the

Regarding the new prosident's cabinet, Don M. Dickinson said: It will be composed of representative men from every section. I shall not be a member of the cabinet myself. I do not think that any of the former cabinet officers will be in that body unless Mr. Whitney can be prevailed upon to take the portfolio of state.

THE MAYORALTY.

A High Endorsement of Mayor Fairbanks' Administration.

ALMOST CERTAIN TO TRIUMPH

'True Blue'' Says Chances Are in Favor of Hon. William A. Hodges,

Two communications on the Mayoralty question appear in the current issue of the land, was ordered to a second reading, Monitor. One will be of interest to our Democratic readers, while the other will of Public Works, to report to the next Democratic Nominations.

There is some talk of nominating Mr. Wm. N. Eaton for Mayer. This gentleman's friends however, claim that he is not in the field. Hon. James F. Barke is mentioned and would be a very strong candidate. Mr. James H. Slade, Mr. Fred F. Green, Capt. Edward S. Huntington and Mr. Wm. A. Hodges are all earnestly mentioned. We think that any of these would be an excellent selection, but Mr. Hodges seems to be the idol of the democracy and will probably receive the nomination. He is probably as capable as any man in Quincy of conducting the Green streets, for sidewalk in front of strike out the word "unqualified" was city business as it should be. He is highly Willard school, on acceptance of Clive successful in everything he undertakes, and his admirers think that if elected, he would give so good an administration that he would be retained in the office for years. He is very popular among the Republican and always gets a large vote from them. A REWARD of One Hundred Dollars will be paid for information before January It Mr. Hodges will consent to stand, he will have a stubborn fight, with the chances strongly in his favor.

"TRUE BLUE." Record of Mayor Fairbanks.

As our municipal year is drawing to a lose, and the choice of city officials for the coming year must be made soon, we should put aside all the petty differences of opinion, all campaign talk, the grumbling of the chronic political kickers and of a few disgruntled sore heads. The citizens of Quincy have a right to review the work of the past year with satisfaction and to fee that on the whole the interests of the city have not been neglected, but rather that fair play and cander compel the admission that the work of Mayor Fairbanks' admin istration has been highly creditable. The purchase of the Water Works is now regarded by all our citizens as a measure of THE sum of one hundred dollars will be paid by the city of Quincy to any person furnishing, within three months from this date, the undersigned, with sufficient information and evidence to lead to the arrest and secure the conviction of any person for having, since January 1, 1892, unlawfully set fire to any building in the city of Quincy, or of unlawfully aiding or abetting in the setting of any such fire.

garded by all our citizens as a measure of the greatest wisdom. We all know it was brought about principally by the active and unceasing labor of Mayor Fairbanks. He is entitled also to the full credit of almost forcing a hostile council to grant money for the extension of the pipes so that the property of the citizens in all parts of the property of the citizens in all parts of the city shall be protected against fire and their health preserved from the dangers of diseases arising from polluted wells. He likewise showed splendid qualities in the prompt manner in which he erected the new Lincoln School in Ward amount allowed by the Council. Quincy their engine house on Quarry street, in Quincy, on the evening of Sept. 29, 1892.

Chiner Sept. 30 city. The adoption of the policy of placing permanent sidewalks around School Buildings, will be appreciated by the parents of the children. The excellent condition of our streets. The widening and paving of Water street. Had the Council complied readily with the Mayor's request this street would have been completed months ago. Of course the Railroad Company opposed and delayed the work hoping to evade the expense of tearing up their tracks, laying down a new one, removing and changing their wires, posts, etc. It was only natural that they should fight. But the Mayor cannot be held accountable for this delay. He did all in his power to have the street built during the labor trouble but certain Councilmen thought he would become too popular on this account, so they joined hands with the Railroad and fought the Mayor until finally he forced them all to

The workingmen cannot forget the earnest attempts made by the Mayor to settle the labor differences. He did all in power to We guarantee prompt service and Frames of all Kinds and Styles at the get and arrange a settlement, and when unable, he wanted the Council to appropriate money to extend the Water pipes, with the purpose and full determination to put the citizens at work, so that they might not suffer during the suspension of the granite industry. Mayor Fairbanks has given an honest, faithful administration of sooner than anticipated, but under legal this popular fallacy, deserve the greatest credit; in fact, there is hardly a standard by which we can measure our the City's business and if he will accept the nomination is almost certain of triumph, "INDEPENDENT."

Councilman Federhen presented resoluions at length expressing the unqualified the municipal election of Dec. 6. disapproval of the method adopted by the administrative officers in paying bills in duties of the Council.

He moved the adoption of the resoluions, and in support said he had caused the investigation to be made because of rumors and in the interests of good government. He disclaimed any personal motive. It was only imagination of some that censure was intended. He did not desire to consure anyone. He then reviewed the methods pursued as effected by the answers to the questions he filed. NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—The annual con-erence of the arch bishops of the Roman atholic church of the United States met n this city yesterday morning. There were present eleven of the thirteen archbishops, the absentees being Archbishops Kendrick of St. Louis and Supointe of Santa Fe, N. M., the former being represented by his vicar general, and the latter by his coadjutor. Archishop Satolli from Rome was also present.

The members of the council gathered st the archepiscopal residence from their several hotels at 10:30 o'clock, and were reteived by Archbishop Corrigan of New York. The Italian prelate, Archbishop Satolli, accompanied by Archbishop Katzer of Milwaukee, came together in a carriage from the house of the Paulist fathers, where that community had enterained them at breakfast.

When the formal preliminaries had been completed, the cardinal introduced Archbishop Satolli as a pontifical representa-tive from the holy see. He delivered an address in Latin, embodying these instruc-

The Address.

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 16, 1892.
To Hon. R. E. Taubeneck, Chairman National Committee People's Party:

My DEAR SIR—I wish by this methal to briefly address, through you, the friends of reform throughout the Union. Unaided by money, our grand young party has made an enviable record and achieved surprising sucsess at the polls. We are but little behind the Republican party in the number of states caress at the polls. We are but fittle behind the lepublican party in the number of states careled. As a result of the late election, we will oubtless hold the balance of power in the mate of the United States, have doubted the endence among people of the northwest a cannot be disregarded in the future. Not ng formed on sectional lines, our party in a gle campaign has gained a large influential following in every state in the outh. This gives promise of good govern-nent in that section of the country—a thing he Republican party has failed to establish after thirty years of almost uninterrupted rule—and gives promise, too, of correcting wrongs which may exist, through the people of the respective states, instead of attempting to do so vinfluence from without.
We have awakened fraternal feelings in

The Country is to Be Congratulated pon the fact that the leaders of one of the peretofore great parties have been abandoned and overthrown by the people and their or-canization well nigh annihilated. This leaves the former adherents of that party free to allign themselves with the giant monopoly inlustrial movement. The accession of the other party to power is the result of violent reaction and not, I am sure, of the deliberate judgment of the American people. The battle leaders of the triumphant party are without any well defined policy, except that of con-temptuous disregard for either element of re-form within the ranks of their own party and among the people at large.

The new administration will ignore the three great contentions of modern times relating to land, money and transportation, and lating to land, money and transportation, and will not attempt to solve either. In fact, the whole force of the new regime will be exercised to prevent reform in these important matters. The urgent demand of the people for the free coinage of silver is to be disdainfully ignored, and new obstacles will doubtless be interposed to further restrict the use of the white metal. The Issues Pressing for Solution re simply tremendous and the situation portentious. Our party has not made its advent too soon. Its mission is to restore to our government its original and only legitimate func-tion, which has been well nigh lost by non-use—that of securing to all of its cittzens, the weak as well as the mighty, the unmolested enjoyment of their inalienable rights. This cannot be accomplished until the relations be-tween labor, and its greature capital are setween labor and its creature, capital, are so adjusted as to cause each to respect the domain of the other. These important forces are now upon a war footing, whereas under humane laws they would naturally dwell together in perfect peace. The repressive policy, now fully inaugurated in this country, will not work well in the closing years of the nineteenth century. It is the fatal blunder of weak leaders who fail to comprehend the spirit of the person of Detective Samuel Walllack,

ALL ABOUT CLEVELAND.

His Every Act and Movement Eagerly

New York, Nov. 17.—Not the least in-teresting subject discussed by leading Democrats in the confidence of Mr. Cleveland yesterday was the fact that before he went to the dinner of the chamber of com-merce on Tuesday evening, he was asked to say in his speech that he had no thought of calling an extraordinary ses-sion of congress after his inauguration on March 4th next. Mr. Cleveland took the suggestion under consideration, and finally announced that he would not commit himself publicly by his own word of mouth in any way concerning the subject. While personally he has at present not the slightest notion of calling an extraordinary session, he told his friends that he would not wish, one week after his

such a program. The announcement that Mr. Cleveland contemplates leaving town for a short vacation has precipitated the arrival of delegations of Democrats from all parts of the country. Benjamin T. Cable and others from Chicago came to town. They will call and congratulate Mr. Cleveland today. Hon. William Frank Harrity, Hon. William C. Whitney, Hon. Bradley B. Smalley and Congressman Wilson, chairman of the Chicago convention, were only a few of those who greeted Mr. Cleveland yesterday.

It can be said on the soundest authority that of all the visitors Mr. Cleveland has received at his home since election day, not one has discussed with him the formation of his cabinet or the federal patronsumber of representatives in the house of representatives, secured control of a number of tate governments, hold the balance of power at an anajority of the states in the Union, and have succeeded in arousing a spirit of political neares among people of the northwest which cannot be discretely at his disposal. Referring again to Mr. Cleveland's contemplated sojourn out of town, it was made known that every effort will be made to keep his whereabouts secret. Notwithstanding all this there is naturally any amount of gossip going on, and one statement heard in the highest circles is worth publication. It is to the effect that many leading Democrats would like to see Hon. J. Edward Simmons made secretary of the treasury.

SECOND DAY OF CATHOLIC COUNCIL.

The School Question Receives Attention of the Body.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—The second day's session of the annual conference of the archbishops of the Roman Catholic phurch in the United States began at 10 second day's didicated, the police and other authorities have been put to a great deal of trouble and expense in getting evidence concerning the family relations a day or two previous to the murders, consequently much o'clock yesterday morning at the archiepiscopal residence, Cardinal James Gibbons, archbishop of Baltimore, presiding. All the archbishops or their representatives were present, as was Archiepiscopal residence, Cardinal James density relations a day or two previous to the murders, consequently much feeling is expressed against them in police circles. The closest friends of Miss Borden, who have thought the prisoner may possibly be proven guilty by the law, have contended all along that some kind of a bishop Satolli, the papal delegate. Again the deliberations were carried on behind closed doors. The major portion of the time, it was learned, was occupied in the discussion of the question on the condemnation of certain secret societies. The debate referred chiefly to the Odd Fellows, numbering about 500,000 in the United States, and the Sons of Temperance, whose roll includes about 70,000 membership.

Archbishop Katzer of Milwaukee brought the matter to the attention of the council by presenting the petition of the German Catholic Central society of

That all other societies, though not mentioned by name, are excommunicated, if they are of the same nature as the Free Masons and Carbonari, that is, all those societies which openly or secretly plot against the church, or against the lawful government of the state. against the lawful government of the state.

That the faithful, and especially youth, are to be taught and earnestly admonished carefully to avoid all such societies, as in the judgment of the bishop of their own diocese, are in any way dangerous to faith and morals; for, as in the instruction of the Holy Roman and Universal inquisition, dated May 10, 1884, remarks, it is well to be understood that there are still other societies which though they do not clearly belong to those enumerated above, that is, to societies excommunicated or forbidden under mortal sin, are at least doubtful and dangerous. The bishops, whose chief care it must be to preseve the doctrine pure, and the morals uncorrupted, must know that it is their duty to deter and keep away their flocks from

Archbishop Katzer's Views. According to Archbishop Katzer the society of Odd Fellows has within late years gained large increase in membership from the Catholic ranks on the plea that they are not Free Masons, and, therefore, not a society forbidden by the Catholic church. The council of Baltimore has appointed the college of the archbishops of the United States as the only competent tribunal in the matter of secret societies, he arged, and it is the duty of the present conference to determine exactly the question at issue. The majority of the council coincided with the opinions expressed by ing of Oct. 21 there was found scattered on the railroad track, just above Olcott station, for a distance of nearly half a mile, the fragments of a human body, which, by a scrap of letter found, was identified to be that of James A. Cuningham of this place. At that time the general supposition was that Cunningham was on his way on foot to his home, from White River Junction, Vt., and that the midnight express had run over him.

The theory was also advanced that he was thrown from the train, but the circumstances would not permit of such an interpretation. The finding of a jug near the place where the body was found was equivalent to a solution of the case in the minds of many, but this was stoutly and indignantly denied. THE PROPOSED police ordinance promises to have a close call when it comes to its final passage. Eight votes will defeat it then, and there were seven against it at the meeting of the Council this week. Fourteen Councilmen are on record as favoring the ordinance and two did not vote. It is thought Councilman Cunningham will vote yea, which would give President Thompson the deciding vote. It would appear as if the time had come for patrol police, and that after the trial the past few months the people will be reluctant to go without protection. It is an expense which should be borne by the city rather than by the business men, who for many years supported a night watchman.

Admitting that a patrol police i necessary, should there be any argument against it being a permanent force. The results will be greater and the cost no more. As proposed by the ordinance the regular force will cost $7,656 annually, less than $22 per day, and it would be no more or less for the same force, were there no ordinance.

The caucus in this ward was as usual a larger than in past caucuses, and another thing it was run just as the younger element saw fit. Chairman Sullivan read the call and the young men immediately made themselves known by electing Timothy F. Ford as chairman of the meeting. Alexander C. Smith was wanted for secretary but he would not stand and the old stand-by George Cahill, was elected.

A committee consisting of Dennis J Ford, James E. Maxim, William Kelly, 2d, William Moodie and Andrew Howley, were appointed to receive and count ballots; and John Curtis, 2d, and W. H. Warner were chosen a committee to have their eyes on the check list.

The Park and the Plains Each Have a

New Candidate. The Ward Five Republican Caucus will e held in Perry's Hall on Saturday at 7.45. As a nomination in this ward is equivalent to an election, it is expected that there will be some lively work to secure the coveted prizes.

Councilman Bryant has announced that nder no circumstances will he be a candilate for a renomination.

There are four strong candidates in the ield,-Councilmen Sherman and Litchfield; Sylvester Brown, formerly Chairman of the School Committee, and for years one of the leaders in city affairs; and Edward L. Robbins, until recently one of the editors of the Boston Herald, and now in charge of the advertising department of the Old Colony Railroad. These last two gentlemen have been pu forward to represent the Park and the Plains, respectively. Each or these large ections of Wollaston thinks that it should have a representative in the Council as well as the "Hill," to look out for its

NOTED TEMPERANCE LEADER. The Forcible and Brilliant David Frost.

He Speaks of an Insidious Foe of Temperance and says it Demands Law-Commends in Earnest Language the Many Virtues of Kickapoo Indian Sagwa and Gives His Reasons.

Great Medicine, a Splendid Tonic, and Unrivalled Blood Purifier, but which is innocent of all deteriorating ingredients and Free from Harmful Effects, no matter how much or how freely it may be used. It is not my wish to appear as the exponent of any public remedy, but in this case I deem it my duty to commend that Grand Remedy of the Indian race, 'Kickapoo Indian Sagwa.'

"I speak from experience, for it has stood me in good stead. When half sick, worn out, and my most rebellious stomach refused to longer act in its normal enpacity, 'Kickapoo Indian Sagwa' has restored me to a healthy condition when nothing else would. I have taken occasion also to learn something about this medledne and its Origin, and know that it is not only an old and tried remedy among the Indians, but that its Vegetable Purity and Harmless Curative Effects is still maintained, and that its manufacture is still carried on by modern methods exactly in accordance with the ways of the noble Red Man.

"Simple Roots, Barks, Leaves and Flowers from the Forest are all that enter into its composition, and the Strength which is gained from its use is not the false strength of the rum bottle but the Noble Exhilaration of Bounding Health, and the Purified Blood, cleansed of its poison, coursing through every Vein and Artery of the Human System."

This am more did Mr. Frost have to say in regard to "Kickapoo Indian Sagwa." Words fail to convey the earnest force of his remarks as expressed to the writer. Mr. Frost still pursues with unabated vigor the noble cause in which he has enlisted, and says that temperance was never making such vast headway as it is today.

BAND REUNION.

A Very Enjoyable Evening to Member of the Old Quincy Band.

The reunion held by the old Quincy band at Hancock hall, on Wednesday evening, was a grand success, thanks to the untiring efforts of Mr. Joseph W. Swan. The supper was served by Caterer Wales, which was one of his best. After supper a smoke-talk was enjoyed. Letters from members regretting that they could not be present were read, among whom was Mr. H. C. Brown, their former leader, who on account of an engagement at Tremont theatre was unable to be present.

During the evening Mr. Joseph Swan, ormer secretary, read the band records from 1880 to 1884 which were not only ineresting but amusing causing many a good augh when reference was made to the 'clambake," "pass the butter" etc.

A vote was passed to have former Secretary write a letter of sympathy to the widow of the late T. E. Monroe, he being the only member who has not survived since the band disbanded. It was found that fifteen of the members still retained their instruments and if West Quincy should one of these fine nights in the near future hear an unearthly noise tell ther it is only the old band having a rehearsal Among those present were the following:

> A. Humphrey
> C. E. F. Paine
> A. T. Barstow
> Charles Esty
> A. Banister
> N. B. Soule J. W. Thayer George Weaver

> > MILTON.

The members of the Baptist church and ongregation tendered a reception to its pastor, Rev. Nathan Hunt, and his new wife Thursday evening at their residence. The affair was a very pleasant one and afforded the members of his parish an opportunit o become acquainted with Mrs. Hunt. During the evening Mr. David J. Brown, uperintendent of the Sunday School, pre French marble clock. Réfreshments were served during the evening. A man by the name of Hayes who lives Quincy created quite a little excitement ere Tuesday night. He was rather the vorse for liquor and drove into the yard of Joseph Vogel on Adams street. Here be turned about on the lawn and drove over stone wall into the street. The result of his was that Hayes and the wagon were iled in a confused mass in the street. layes was unhurt but was carried home. His wagon was smashed into kindling wood.

TILLMAN TURMOIL

Still in the Same Knotty Condition n1 Memphis.

MEMPHIS, Nov. 18.—Despite the efforts made by his friends, the Tillman letters continue to be a source of turmoil at the Alliance convention. The friends of Tillman declare in this event they will introduce a counter resolution demanding the expulsion of all the officers of the Alliance who made camaign speeches for the Third party and Republican party. Taubeneck, one of the Third party leaders, while he does not appear on the floor of the convention, is charged by the McCune faction with try-ing to throw the Alliance into his party and also trying to secure the expulsion of Tillman. Taubeneck remains in his room at the hotel and refuses admittance to all except Loucks and a few of his friends. McCune's stock for president took a sud-den rise in the morning, and now his friends seem confident of their ability to beat Loucks. All of the southern delegates except the members from Georgia are supporting him, and John H. McDowell, one of the most influential members of the Alliance, it is claimed by McCune's friends, has experienced a change of heart and will throw his strength to McCune. The northern and western People's party enthusiastically claim that if Mc-Cune is elected his association with Tillman as a member of the executive board will cause the disintegration of the order. Fraternal delegates from the grange were admitted to the convention floor.

Colored People's Protest. ALANTA, Nov. 18.—A largely attended colored convention is being held here to protest against the discriminations made against their race. The tenor of the debates may be judged from the following, taken from a circular calling them to-gether: "We believe that such laws as the separate car law which forces a citizen to pay first-class fair, and at the same time subjects him or her to a third-class ride in smoker or an apartment adjoining a smoker, is not only unjust, but we believe also that such laws are relics of ignorance, superstition and prejudice and should be buried with the ruins of slavery. MISSIONARY SERMON.

LESSON VIII, FOURTH QUARTER, IN-PITTSBURG, Nov. 18.—There is now no doubt that Gamble Weir, the late super-intendent of police of this city, was poisoned. Hugo Blanck, the chemical TERNATIONAL SERIES, NOV. 20.

Text of the Lesson, Acts xiii, 26-43. Memory Verse, 38-Golden Text, Acts xiii, 26-Commentary by the Rev. D.

26. Paul and Barnabas on their first missionary journey having arrived at Antioch in Pisidia are found in the synagogue on the Sabbath day, and being inthe deceased police superintendent. He is now preparing a a report in writing and will present it to District Attorney Burley and Administrator Harry Fehl within vited to speak Paul begins at the exodus of Israel from Egypt, and briefly reviews the nation's history up to David, and then passes at once to the seed promised to David, even Jesus, the Saviour of Israel; mentioning John the Baptist and his oreaching as the herald of Jesus. Our lesson opens by his saying that this salva-tion is specially for Israel.

27. He then testifies that the rulers at erusalem, not believing the prophets, although read in the synagogue every Sabbath day, had done just as the proph-ets had foretold, and condemned their deiverer to death. See Ps. xxii, 12-18; Isa. liii, 3, 7, and compare Acts iv, 27, 28.

28. He confirms the threefold testimony of Pilate that there was no fault in Jesus (John xviii, 38; xix, 4, 6). He knew no sin, He did no sin, He was holy, harmless, undefiled and separate from sinners (II Cor. 21; I Pet. ii, 22; Heb. vii, 26). Even Judas testified that He was an innocent man (Math. xxvii, 4). 29. All things are known to God from the beginning (Acts xv, 18), and the Holy Spirit had written beforehand in the Old Testament every detail of the sufferings. death and resurrection of Christ, all of which was literally fulfilled even to the casting lots upon His vesture and His being buried in the tomb of a rich man. 30. 32. "We declare unto you glad tidings." The Gospel is always glad tidings, whether it be the Gospel of the grace of God or the Gospel of the glory of God (Acts xx, 24; I Tim. i, 11, R. V.), and when received it invariably makes glad those who receive it. It is a high honor to be privileged to was taken in charge of by the authorities declare these glad tidings, and yet this honor is freely conferred upon every believer (Acts viii, 1, 4; Rev. xxii, 17).

33. The New Testament opens with the statement that it is about Jesus Christ, the son of David the son of Abraham, im-BEVERLY, Mass., Nov. 18.—All the shoe manufacturers of Beverly report a profitable season, and say they consider the plying that all that was promised to both David and Abraham will be made good to outlook for the spring trade most en-couraging. Many firms are either movand in Jesus Christ. All the promises of God in Him are yea, and in Him amen (II Cor. i, 20). The resurrection of Christ is the pledge of the fulfillment of every NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Nov. 18.-Moses

34. Having quoted Ps. ii, 7, as referring to the resurrection of Christ, he now quotes Isa. lv, 3, as referring to the same great event. If those who make wills could live to see them executed there would not be so much breaking of wills but the one who makes the will must first die in order to make the will of force (Heb. ix, 16, 17). Jesus died, but Jesus is alive forevermore, having all power, and will surely see to the full carrying out of every provision in his will (Rev. i, 18).

35. Yet another quotation does Paul make in this sermon, and all to prove that Jesus was the one spoken of in the prophets and in the Psalms. This time the refer ence is to Ps. xvi. 10. How much more like Bible readings rather than like the ordinary sermons of today are the discourses of Peter and Paul and Stephen. Compare with this chapters ii and vii.

36. David could not have written of himself in Ps. xvi, for his body saw corruption, and although some say that Jesus is now on David's throne in heaven, they fail to tell us where it is written that David ever had a throne in heaven, and seem to forget that it is written "David is not ascended into the heavens" (Acts ii, 34).

37. "But He, whom God raised again, saw no corruption." His life was not taken from Him, but He laid it down of His own accord and by his own power He took it again (John x, 18). This is our Redeemer, the Great Head of the church, the King of Israel and King of nations and to us who are in Him will he give imnortal, incorruptible bodies like His own I Cor. xv, 53; Phil. iii, 20, 21).

38. In order to enjoy this redemption and share His glory we must first obtain the orgiveness of sins. This is true of Jew or Gentile, individual or nation. Sin is the reat barrier between man and God (Isa. ix, 2), but Jesus has stepped in between, and the Lord hath laid on Him the iniquity of us all (Isa. liii, 6).

Edmund S. Hunt.

39. Fully has He made atonement, and reely does he offer to every believer all the benefits of that great redemption. The law cannot save, but Christ is the end of the law for righteousness to every one that believeth (Rom. viii, 3, 4; x, 4; iii, 24). Justified is more than forgiveness; it is such a destroying of the record that was against us that there is nothing left of it (Col. i. 14).

40, 41. These verses are from Isa. xxix. 6; Hab. i, 5. In connection with statements to this effect that God is of purer eyes than to behold evil and cannot look on iniquity, and that he sees the hearts of those who draw near with their mouth and honor him with their lips, while they have more respect for men than for Him. A salvation so fully provided and so freely offered must be honestly received with true penitence and humility, or it would be better for us never to have heard than to have heard it and made light of it or despised it.

42. The Gospel of the grace of God always makes people want to hear more of it. It is never old or unattractive. It is God's own good news for the soul of man and finds a response in the heart. It makes people forget the inclemency of the weather and the weariness of the body and brings them together to hear more.

43. "Continue in the grace of God." This is a summary of the advice of the apostles to the new converts, and it is the best possible advice for every believer. It sets aside all thoughts of our own goodness, and keeps as humble and grateful at the feet of Jesus. See Rom. iii, 24; v, 2; Eph ii, 8; I Tim. i, 14; I Cor. xv. 10.

An Other Inharmonious Session of the Alliance Members.

MEMPHIS, Nov. 19.-The knot in the Farmers' Alliance culminated in a bolt, and those opposed to the People's party capturing the body held a caucus and concluded to form a new association, embodying the doctrine of the Alliance, but holding aloof from politics. The Taubeneck crowd having captured the conference many of the delegates refused to attend the executive session. At 9 o'clock they got together and effected a temporary organization, and began to shape matters for the issuance of a manifesto. The correspondent of the United Press found Dr. McCune in his room and that gentleman made the following statement:

"I withdraw from the convention hall because the national committee of the People's party have come here and are at tempting to secure control of the Alliance. They have used foul means, and have gone so far as to make up a slate of officers. The lockout had reached its 144th day. Its history is known the world over. The meeting was a red hot one all the way through, and at one time it looked as if through, and at one time it looked as if the narrow and steep stairs almost upon him, and as he did not move but lay sert his official authority to prevent serious stretched at his feet, Fiander threw some water on him and called Mr. Brown, who was in the store above. As he still restreet. representatives were excluded, but the Information is reliable that those wishing to declare the mill open barely succeeded n carrying their point.

Now that the agony is over the men are not backward about expressing their ppinions of the men who posed as leaders, confidently promising a victory when they knew for a certainty that the battle was hopelessly lost. The question of declaring the mill open began to agitate the minds of certain Amalgamated men as soon as it became apparent that the mechanics inonly the rank and file, but many of the merical aid of the mechanics and laborers

Saturday's meeting was attended exclusively by Amalgamated association members, much to the chagrin and disappointment of the sympathetic mechanics, who were turned aside. They turned to their homes in silence, hopedead within them. The meeting was not a large one, nounced resignation of Chairman Crawford. When this resignation had been accepted, a striker arose and moved that the lockout be declared at an end and the men be allowed to seek employment at the Homestead mill. Discussion of this ques-& WHITE LION. tion continued until 6 p. m., when the meeting adjourned without result.

The Knockout Blow. Yesterday the same question was taken up, but those for and against such a move ere afraid to force the question to a vote, struggled hard to prevent a ballot, pleading, arguing, and predicting the dis-integration of the Amalgamated association in event of such action. These patriotic steel workers, who repeatedly have stated that they would prefer nakedness and starvation rather than acknowledge defeat, were in the minority, and they knew it. Yet they pleaded with their brethren to stand firm, if for no other reason than to show to the world that they had not forgotten the men who were lying in prison cells awaiting trial. It was of no avail. The question was put;

When Vice President Carney announce There was no demonstration such as tion. For a few minutes the men sat and stared at each other. Then followed angry denunciations. The men slowly left the hall in twos and threes. They seemed loth to leave the building, the very rafters of which have quivered with the declarations made at times that victory was theirs, if they would be only patient. The men stood in groups about the streets, discussing the plight they found themselves in. With winter on them, they see nothing now but a struggle for existence, which may assume the proportions of a famine. A Gloomy Outlook.

Assistant Superintendent Wood said: "I don't think more than 800 or 900 men can secure employment and not that many unless business brightens up so as to enable us to run our plant to its utmost capacity. Some yard improvements are also contemplated that will give temporary employment to some of the men. The company held out no inducement whatever for the men to return. The men realized that the strike was lost, had no noney and the winter upon them, and

"At no time had there been over 2600 new men in the works since the start was strike were made with the provisions that there might be trouble. We have lost nothing in contracts which were made prior to the strike, but we failed to obtain orders, which we otherwise would have secured."

THANKSGIVING ISSUE.

We have a treat in store for our readers tomorrow. It will be a Thanksgiving issue, and will contain a four-column Thanksgiving story, illustrated; a thrilling tale of a fatal Thanksgiving error told in hyme; and other reading appropriate t

THERE WILL be regrets throughout the city that Councilman Litchfield was not renominated in the Wollaston ward. The result we venture was owing more to the work of friends of the new candidates than grand record, and is a safe and valuable member, and has done good work in the committees. The Republicans will do well to nominate him at large at the coming

THERE IS sure to be a majority of new parties have together renominated but five, and should all of these be elected and five at-large there would be but ten in the body of twenty-three. It is very doubtful if even this number will be elected, for that many may not be nominated. Those already renominated are E. W. H. Bass, H. M. Federhen, Jr., Charles R. Sherman, Stephen O. Moxon and Louis Rinn. Such a radical change is not always for the best interests of the city, but the people seem to demand a change in the legislative department and have taken a lively interest in the caucuses and carried out their wishes. At the same time the Republicans are QUINCY. enthusiastic over the renomination of Mayor Fairbanks, which promises to be unanimous. They recognize that his administration has been able, honest and progressive, but that he has been hampered by the Council. We use the word collectively, but the mischief could be laid at the doors of a few.

> Thompson, of the Council, is not a candiwas elected to the first Council, and has served continuously since. During the the floor and served on important commitdent of that body and has made an able and impartial presiding officer. But for the unfortunate granite trouble the past summer, he would have been the Republican candidate for Mayor at this time. Mr. Thompson was in no way responsible for the trouble or its long durations, in fact the firm of which he is a member has been exceptionally free from labor troubles, but the fact remains that he is a granite manufacturer and a member of the association, and could not command the labor vote.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The counters of the votes of Quincy seem to be entitled to the dunce's cap.—Herald. Just what our contemporary bases the above slur upon we don't know. A recount of the gubernatorial vote changed but one vote in the entire city. In the councillor vote D. H. Rice lost six and W. B. Rice gained seven. Are these changes to be compared with the gross inaccuracies shown by the recount of Boston's vote for governor? Making allowances for the difference in size of the Table Linen, Crash, Napkins two cities, the accuracy of the election at home Wednesdays, Dec. 14 and 21, Merry officers of Quincy is far ahead of those of Mount road, Quincy. Boston, and the latter had smaller precincts to count.

The Herald has discovered its error as to which Adams was nominated and for what he was nominated. We can endorse its comments: "Charles Francis Adams, 2d, is well known for his splendid yachting record. May his muuicipal career be the beginning of a record in statesmanship worthy of his eminent ancestry.

We notice but one city official who was elected as a delegate or on the ward committee at the recent caucuses. Whether that he is a politician.

The stoves in railroad cars have been abolished, and the steam heating arrangement found to be a very comfortable and satisfactory one. Now for a substitute for those unserviceable lamps!

How much is our water work system worth?

Upon he whole the discussion of this somewhat knotty subject was carried on with much fairness, and even in quarters where it could hardly have been expected, moderaion prevailed.

Wilson-Bradford Nuptials.

The Sunday Herald had the following ociety gossip which will be of interest to Quincy people:

A very pretty home wedding took place on Wednesday evening last at the Hotel Dartmouth, Roxbury, in the apartments of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Bradford, when their daughter Maude and Mr. Walter Baxter Wilson of Quincy were united in marriage. The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock by Rev. A. C. Thompson of the Eliot Conregational Church. The rooms were beautifully decorated with plants and flowers, hrysanthemums predominated. Although the bride had a wide circle of friends, the affair was quiet and informal, and the company present was not large. Cards announce that Mr. and Mrs. Wilson will be

For the Daily Ledger: A Plea for a Larger Police Force in Quincy

Now that the time has come for the City Fathers to set aside the appropriations for the coming year, I wish, in behalf of many residents of Quincy, to urge upon the Mayor and Council the need of suitable police protection for our city. Nothing will build up a place faster than good roads, good schools and a good police force; the first mond, Nathan Ames, Joseph Walker, have not. To suppose that eight men can two we have in abundance, the last we adequately protect seventy-five miles of residences and private property is simply absurd. For one small item alone, the glass that is broken out of the street lanterns in one month would more than pay an officers wages, especially at Atlantic, Wollaston Republicans anticipate with practically without any police protection by good judges that the Wollaston caucus day unmolested in certain lonesome streets in Quincy, where no officer is ever seen from one year's end to the other.

Property owners who desire to sell land find it hard work to get customers owing to the property being wholly unprotected. Now to bring people to build in the city we must give them good protection. If the City Council would but for one year give the new schoolhouses a rest and spend some money in other directions, it would please a great many people. New schoolhouses every year drain the Water Colors or Pastel. While this business was being transacted taxpayer's pocket and many feel it is almost time to cry a halt.

Give us decent roads and a good police To the Chairman of the Ward Five Republore is what we want. We need twelve mounted policemen, half for day and half In accordance with Sec. 3, Chap. 441 of the Acts of 1888, we, the undersigned Republican voters present at this caucus, request that the candidates for Councilman connected policemen, half for day and half for night work, and then the lawlessness seen upon many of our public streets will soon come to an end. AT LEAST SIX LIVES LOST.

Drunken Passengers Set Fire to a Mississippi River Boat.

MEMPHIS, Nov. 21. - The steamber Rosa Lee was burned to the water's edge at the wharf here. There were about thirty cabin passengers aboard, including three women. They, with about forty deck passengers and the officers and crew, were saved. It is thought, however, that six deck passengers lost their lives. They were drunk and asleep on the lower decl in the engine room, where the fire started. The steamer ran as a tri-weekly packet between Memphis and Ashport, 100 miles north of this city on the Mississippi river. She was valued at $70,000. Her cargo consisted of 397 bales of cotton and 1900 sacks of cotton seed. About 100 bales were saved in a damaged condition The men supposed to have been lost were laborers employed at the govern-ment works in Ashport Bend. Tom Bailey, the engineer on watch when the boat landed here, said that there were a colored woman and child who were deck passengers. Nothing has been seen of heard of them since. They, too, may hav lost their lives. The fire was probably started by sparks from the pipes of the ing articles about people she had never heard of, and she began to grow pale and was filled with a nervous horror of meeting anybody, and she imagined that she was the laughing stock of the town. Nearly a week had elapsed, and her sorrow was as heavy if not so hysteric as ever, when one day there was an en-thusiastic ring at the doorbell. There wasn't a servant in the house; she must either open the door herself or have her husband do it, or leave it unopened. She decided to adopt the husband plan. She wouldn't have opened it herself, for she was morally certain that she would be confronted by some heartless mocker who would shriek with laughter over her disastrous dinner, and so she called her husband. That brave man with a severe face went to the door and opened it, and fairly shook with rage and wonder. What manner of refined insult was Standing before him, smiling as blandly as though they had never grievously and wantonly wounded him to the quick, were the men and women he had invited to his Thanksgiving dinner! There was the doctor, fairly bubbling over with mirth and good humor; and the sweet singer, with a roll of music under his arm; and the editor of The Gazette, pompous in the knowledge that he, and mirth and reminded the doctor of about he only, was the author of that sublime article, "Whither Are We Drifting?" and their wives were with them, and the other men who had been invited were a conspiracy to humble and crush and wreck the life of Theophilus Wardwell.

For a moment he seemed disposed to slam the door in their faces, but he arrested the motion of his arm. Then it looked as though he would turn loose the simoom of his wrath, but the words died on his lips, and he ended by inviting them all to walk in, smiling sardonically, and "every one knew that some one had blundered." He led the procession into the parlor and then called his wife, who joined him in a maze of bewilderment. And when the guests were all seated, equally stupefied with wonder, Mr. Wardwell faced them and said, with magnificent sarcasm:

"Ah! And so you have come in response to my invitation? I regret to say that you have come too late to partake of my turkey or pie, but you have come in time to teach me a valuable lesson. After this, when I want my friends to call on me on New Year's, I'll ask them and the professor discoursed so admirato come on Christmas; if I desire to see them on the Fourth of July, I'll ask them to visit me on Easter Sunday, and the most interesting speaker who ever when I want a gathering on Thanksgiving day I'll specify George Washington's birthday as the date for the assem-

"This is Thursday, ladies and gentlemen. Well, last Friday Mrs. Wardwell prepared for you all, and we waited and have done the ringing but the foreman waited for your coming until our hearts of The Gazette, whose doom had been ached with disappointment, but we pronounced. He had come to call the should have been patient, I see; we were editor away on important business, and altogether too hasty. If we had only it was quite affecting to see that able waited six days longer, you would have man embrace his subordinate and say: been with us. A trifle like six days would have caused us no inconvenience whatever, but we were so thoughtless." caused Mr. Wardwell's dinner to be a

"You are correct in saying that I invited you to come on Thanksgiving day. Then why, may I ask, didn't you come on Thanksgiving day?"

"Why," responded the professor, in a dazed way, "this is Thanksgiving day!"

"Certainly it is," chorused the doctor, and the editor, and the musician; "this is Thursday, Nov. 26."

"No one questions that," cried Mr. Wardwell, with bitter irony, "and tomorrow is Friday, the 27th, and I have excellent reason to believe that the following day will be Saturday, the 28th—in fact, I shouldn't be surprised if Sungiving day? Here is The Gazette, with the governor's proclamation in cold type, and it reads 'Nov. 20.' Does the governor is it merely a vain ceremony-an empty formality?"

Before any one could speak a hollow groan was heard. It came in all its intensity from the lips of the editor of The Gazette. He was reclining upon a lounge, breathing with difficulty. The doctor rushed to his rescue with a case of surgical instruments, but the editor waved him away and moaned: "Oh, what a misfortune! A malison upon that bilious, blear eyed foreman of mine! To think that all this should come of allowing him to read a proof! Mr. Wardwell, and all of you," he said, rising to his feet, "we are the victims of a scrawny printer whom I intrusted with the governor's proclamation and the reading of the proof. He placed the figures '20' where '26' should have been. Mr. Wardwell made all the preparations on the 20th, and we, who probably never read the proclamation, arranged to visit him on the 26th. Mr. Wardwell. There was no turkey, nor was there a pumpkin pie, and consequently the bill of fare wouldn't interest you. But the lonely dinner of nearly a week before became a topic of a dozen of the funniest stories imagi-

The dinner lasted two hours, and when it was over there was heard a

"The past rises before me like a dream," as Bob Ingersoll said. We are back in the good old times before the war, in the middle section of the Wabash valley. The glorious, mellow, yellow, late autumnal days have come. Indian summer is past, it is true, but its aroma still lingers on the brown meadst me in devouring such remnants of ows and in the gloriously varicolored woods. At least one year in three we have "late springs and late falls," as the farmers say, and this is one of the years. anotion, "a bowl of water, with a crust | The frost is on the pumpkin, but lightly as yet, and the fodder is in the shock The flow of intellect, sir—the flow of though the cattle still browse a little and are fattening in the stalk fields, from which the yellow corn has just been "This is the time of year when every-

THE UNSUSPECTING GOBBLER. by weeks of lying in the cellar. And the small boy-how he does enjoy this season! These are the days when he "slips off at afternoon recess," gives the school house the "cold shake" and hurries to the south woods, there to gather the big green walnuts in piles; pounds the soft hulls off and picks out the nuts, pausing occasionally to crush one with a convenient stone for immediate consumption. His lips are stained; his hands are dyed and dull brown; he knows "it will never come off till it wears off," and that the chances are even that he will get whaled, but still he does it as he did it last year, and as he will do it again. We all did it.

It is the day before Thanksgivingglorious, golden, sunshiny and stimulating day-and the old farmyard is full of life. Red Pete, as we call last year's gobbler, is strutting about in the glory of freshly attained adult gobblerhood, as proud and important as if he were directing the proceedings. He is in a sense, though he little imagines the sense. "Our riot dooms him to bleed today," as Pope says, but not having our reason he can look on in the happiness of ignorance. The chopping block, staked fast for the convenience of cutting kindling, is before his eyes, and just nd the ax is on the grindstone, bu he little imagines that it all has any reference to him; that he is the central figure in the coming proceedings. He is lovely in life, and in death he will be divided, the preacher and the poor get-

The wife and mother takes stock of ducks and chickens, but talks of the social features. Will the boys get home from Asbury university? They will, for the "spondulix," as college boys in those days called the remittance, was sent in time, and even now the younger brother has gone to the country depot to fetch them home in the old farm wagon. Thanksgiving morning-the light breakfast is soon dispatched, for that is a small affair on such a day. There is a general brushing up, and all are off to the country church. The preacher and his wife return with the family, and about 1 o'clock the great event of the

All are there—the two boys from college, the hired man and one or two cousins, the oldest girl of the family and the rosy cheeked farmer she married a year or so before. The baby is laid on the bed in the nearest room, and there is always at least one little girl so fond of children that she volunteers to watch him. The happy group is seated, the preacher has his devotional say and actual business begins. Red Pete shines once more, in culinary beauty this time, but it is positively his last appearance on these shores. And then the long after-noon of social chat and innocent merriment, and the evening in which the young people take possession of the house! Such was Thanksgiving in the good old times, such for the most part it still is, and such may it long continue

Major Pikestaff (at the Thanksgiving reunion)-Well, my little man, do you know what you have to be thankful for? The Little Man-Yes, indeed, sir. 1 am thankful that there is some Jamaica

QUINCY. would? be grand juries generally their findings to the public? Not a bit of it; that's all conjecture. The failure to find a true bill is taken in another way, and that is that they are seeking to give the impression that someone else is being looked for in order to run down points on the Miss Borden end. This rase is probably as near to their bject as any one can tell of. The fact of the matter is that everything is conjectured the same as before. That "Wild-Eyed" Man End was pretty thoroughly digested months ago, and the Portuguese was accounted for. Unless there is something absolutely new in these clues, which is not probable, this talk is veritable rot.

The police have worked hard and long enough to tell just which clues were good and which were not. As Marshal Hilliard said: "Every clue has been worked for all

Boston, Nov. 23.-Political information of a startling nature, which will neces sarily send dismay to the hearts of Republicans and a feeling of astonishment o men of whatever party, has come to light in the official count completed yesterday afternoon at the state house on the vote for governor of the common-

It has cropped out from time to time, as result of the recount asked for by the Republican state central committee, that a most grievous blunder was committed in several cities and towns in the state whereby the voter, in marking for governor, placed his cross against the name of William H. Haile, the Republican candidate, and also against the name of Wolcott Hamlin, the Prohibition candidate, the latter's name immediately following that of Mr. Haile on the official ballot. It has been instanced in the press that in the lists of Chelsea 283 ballots were so marked, in Lawrence over 100, in Beverly 75, and so on in different proportions in other places in the state. The result of such marking necessarily threw out these ballots, and they counted for no one, as the Australian ballot law allows, of course, but one individual vote for governor, and where two such candidates are marked, the vote can be counted

There is no doubt that the peculiarity of the name, "Wolcott Hamlin," led thou-fered untold hardships. ands of voters to believe that, when they marked first for Mr. Haile and then for the name next following, "Wolcott" Hamlin, they were voting for the Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, Roger Wolcott, who in reality was eight names lower down on the ballot, under the appropriate head, "Lieutenant Governor."

The council finds that in all the counties of the state outside of Suffolk 19,186 votes for governor were returned worth-less. Suffolk county is not included because no returns of blanks were made, but it is estimated that, if the proportion ex-tended to this county, and was included, it would make a grand total of 23,000 votes which had to be thrown out and set down as blank for governor. To be more explicit, those who have exwhatever was placed against a name for governor—and the other two-thirds were governor—and the William H. #### A Plot that Failed.

There was a scheme on foot at the Demcratic convention last Monday evening to lown Dr. Joseph M. Sheahan for school ommittee at large and nominate Edward S. Huntington of Wollaston for that office. It is understood that the scheme originatel with a certain member of the school board who is very anxious that the doctor should not be on the board this year. The scheme was that the committee who were f candidates should be opposed to Dr. heahan, but it so happened that they were not all opposed, and there was a wrangle which was only settled when the Sheahan members of the committee threatened to defeat Mr. Hodges unless Dr. Sheahan was nominated.

So they agreed among themselves that, since their prudence and forethought had been so wonderfully blessed of God, they would send out four men hunting that they might rejoice together in a special manner after the fruit of their labors had been gathered. Ac cording to the historian, barley and Inlian corn were their only crops; the "peas were not worth gathering, for, as we feared, they were too late sown. This was under the good Governor Brad ford. The four men who went hunting brought in as much game as served the company for a week. The recreations of the day consisted of the exercises of their arms—Massasoit, the Indian chief, them for three days, during which time they were entertained and feasted by the colonists, the Indians killing and bringing to the feast five deer. This appointed to retire and bring in the list was in 1621 and was the beginning of Thanksgiving day in America.

The next New England Thanksgiving lay was in July, 1623, which had been appointed a day of fasting and prayer on account of drought. While the people were praying rain fell abundantly and the governor appointed it instead a day of thanksgiving. In June, 1632, Governor Winthrop, of the Massachusetts Bay colony, invited the governor of Plymouth colony to unite with him in a day of public thanksgiving because the action of the British privy council had been favorable to the colonies. In Massachusetts Bay colony old records show that days of thanksgiving were apcoran, a brother of the groom, acted as pointed in 1632, 1634, 1637, 1638 and 1639 and sometimes on more than one day in mention of one in 1651 and again in 1668. by Rev. Settlement of Differences Between Dunraven and the New York Yacht Club. NEW YORK, Nov. 23.-The New York Yacht club, after discussing Lord Dunraven's letter, sent him the following let-

If all reference to former and obsolete deeds is omitted, the proposition in your letter of the 7th of November is satisfactory, and we will recommend the New York Yacht club to

According to the terms of the letter and the acceptance of them, in all but one instance, it is evident that the New York Yacht club is desirous of having a race. The single point of difference is in the question of the "mutual consent" clause, which is almost identical in the three deeds of gift, and therefore, when all reference to the old deeds is stricken out of Dunraven's letter, there is really no change in it, the meaning being exactly the same, with the dates of 1857 and 1882

From a high source in the New York Yacht club it is learned that Dunraven has written a letter privately to a friend in this city in which he has expressed himself as being willing to accept the con-ditions which the New York Yacht club holds out, and that the letter published above is only an attempt to obtain as many concessions as possible. There seems now to be no doubt but that a race will be sailed during the summer of 1893. This is the conviction of the committee of the New York Yacht club, able; but its benefits in practice had which has in hand the matter of recommending the acceptance of such a challenge as Dunraven wishes to send.

TOOK FRENCH LEAVE.

Burglar Bradley Missing from Charlestown State Prison.

A Slick Fellow Who is Not Likely to Be Easily Captured.

Boston, Nov. 25.—Two life convicts country roads was adopted. A resolution valked forth from the Charlestown state recommending that road improvement b walked forth from the Charlestown state prison yesterday free men. Hardly had they passed through the portals of the big stone building which has for years been their habitation, than the discovery was made that another man, a brother convict, not provided with the necessary papers for permitting him the freedom of the outer world was missing

The much wanted man is the not orious James H. Bradley, alias William Maitland, who gained much notoriety only last July, when, with eight other "bad eggs," they worked their way to liberty through the slimy and filthy sewer leading from the prison yard to the Miller river, beyond the tracks of the northern

Bradley lingered but a few hours around the city, just long enough to Keep the Police Guessing as to his whereabouts, and then skipped for New York, where he got in with some of his pals again who harbored him for several months. One of these so-called friends, anxious to place himself on good terms with the police, and with a longing, probably, to capture the liberal reward which had been offered, gave the "tip" as to his place of secretion and in a very short time Bradley was again behind cold, Bradley attended the exercises in the chapel yesterday, and enjoyed the enter-tainment which was provided by an excellent company of professionals. This is what Officer Crane says, for he has a dis-tinct recollection of seeing the missing man sitting on a bench with his fellow convicts at one time during the morning. holiday games.

The First Known of His Absence was when the count was taken after the men had returned to their sells prior to eating their noonday meal. Word was immediately sent to Warden Lovering, who gave orders at once for a thorough search of all the buildings and shops on he premises, and an extra force of officers vas put upon the walls and in the yard. Not for one moment did the officers supthat Bradley had escaped, although they believed it possible for him to be secreted in the yard or some one of the buildings, where he would lie in wait for a good opportunity to get over the walls at

No evidences of his having gone over the wall were discovered, and as the walls were guarded by five men during the morning hours, the warden is not of the opinion that the convict escaped in that opinion that the convict escaped in that way remained in the scrap of exploded the gunpowder. Mr. confident that the fellow is within the confines of the institution, probably well and was totally blinded. It is provisioned for a siege of many hours' duration, or perhaps several days.

An extra force of police was retained on the wall all night as well as that in the yard, while the detail from station 15 kept close watch on all the surrounding streets, Bradley has behaved himself in an exemplary manner since his return to prison and nothing suspicious was noticed about his actions. He has been employed in one of the shops in charge of Officer Crane, who was the officer who discovered his

47. Paul's commission was to bear the name of the Lord not only before the children of Israel, but before the Gentiles (Acts ix, 15), and he quotes from Isa. xlix, 6, concerning Israel's Messiah, called the Servant of the Lord, "I will also give the for a light to the Gentiles, that thou may-est be my salvation unto the end of the earth." While the mystery of the church is not revealed in the Old Testament (Eph iii, 5, 6), the calling of the Gentile nations after Israel shall have been converted is an oft repeated fact; and yet Paul seems to gather from this passage something concerning his mission to the Gentiles.

48. The Gentiles gave heed to the me sage, and by receiving the word of the Lord they glorified it and were made glad, and as many as were ordained to eternal life believed. Not all are now given to Christ, but all who are given shall come (John vi, 37), and whosoever will may come (Rev. xxii, 17), sure that none will be cast out. Expected from the Jury in the Case of Lizzie Borden.

Jury Indictment.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Nov. 26.—The sudden determination of the grand jury to take a ten days' recess at a time when everybody was expecting a declaration in the Lizzie Borden case, has run the gamut of speculation. It was met by mercurial people and newspapers by the explanation that it meant not only a clinching of the evidence against the woman at whom the inquiry is directed, but an indictment with her of one or more accessories. It was accepted as barely possible that it might mean a little lack of confidence on the part of At-torney General Pillsbury, who had evinced such a lively interest in the matter that he appeared in the jury room himself. Today, even the most rabid of those who have prejudiced the case against the woman, and who have seen in the closed lips of all the officers of the government only awful secrets harbored for a hanging, now confess that the Indications Point to "No Bill." For four days this is doing fairly well in the matter of a rapid change. There is as little direct information to support this view as there was to support that of the original imaginative "three-indictment theory." No member of the grand jury has spoken upon the subject, and cer-tainly neither the attorney general nor the district attorney has done so.

Cold, unprejudiced reasoning says that the adjournment means that the evidence, which was all in, was not strong enough to warrant prompt action, that the officers of the government saw its effect and asked the adjournment. The same reasoning would indicate that the government is not likely at this late day to make important discoveries on a line where all its great force has been employed for so many weeks.

It is reason therefore which has evolved the idea that the state's case is not materially stronger than when presented before Judge Blaisdell and that the jury will on that probably find "no bill." It is argued that the government doubts its ability to convict before a petit jury on the evidence and that it is therefore

Not Anxious for an Indictment. Also that with an indictment and a subse quent acquittal upon trial the defendant would not be likely ever to be brought up on a new case for the second murder even if new evidence developed, while, if no indictment was found, the case simply stand over while the inquiry might

There has been no poll of the jury as vet, and what it will do is all conjecture. About Reporter Trickey.

Boston, Nov. 26.—It was reported in this city yesterday, says The Post, that Henry G, Trickey, the reporter identified with the Borden-McHenry fake, had been indicted for libel by the present grand jury in this city. It has been reported, also, that Mr. Trickey and Detective Mc-Henry had been for some time together in New York, each seeking to avoid legal proceedings—possibly being called upon to testify before the grand jury at Taunton. What little can be learned upon this point will be found in the dispatches below:

A Story from Providence. PROVIDENCE, Nov. 25.—An evening paper publishes the following: It is within probability that the "sequels" to the grand jury hearing in Lizzie Borden's case may include the indictment of a well known newspaper man on the charge of temporary with a sequels in the property of the sequence of the sequen pering with an official in the employ of the government. This is an upshot that people on the inside of the sensation have been speculating upon ever since a Boston daily came out with an alleged expose of the evidence. The whole of the "revelation" was found to be a fake, and soon after found to be a fake, and soon after its appearance, the prosecuting authorities at Fall River decided that the perpetrator should suffer. Accordingly, as it is rumored, a formal indictment of the author was approved of, and the purpose formed to ask the grand jury to bring a bill against him. Whether it is the grand jury whose sitting was recently interrupted or another which is to return the finding and sanction the reportant of the prosecution of the reportant of the prosecution of the reportant of the reporta is not received with much favor. The op-ponents call attention to the formulation of a bill by a similar commission in 1883 which consumed several months in prep aration by the most experienced and qual-ified tariff authorities of the house, and when completed was found to be gener ally defective. It was overhauled and modified in many respects, and even then was very imperfect and unsatisfactory. These parties think that it would be a great mistake to attempt a repetition of tariff reform through another commission sion. Their idea is that the bill should be prepared by the ways and means commit-tee in the usual way, and for that purpose they think that congress should be con-

Thou crownest the year with thy goodness, And thy paths drop fatness.

I will offer to thee the sacrifice of thanksgiving, And will call upon the name of the Lord. Yea, in the presence of all his people; in the courts of the Lord's house;

In the midst of thee, O Jerusalem. Thou shalt eat the labor of thy hands: Happy shalt thou be, and it shall be well with Thy wife shall be as a fruitful vine in the innermost parts of thy house; Thy children like olive plants about thy table. ou shalt see the good of Jerusalem all the days of thy life; Yea, thou shalt see thy children's children.

The eyes of all wait upon thee; Thou openest thy hand; And satisfiest the desire of every living thing.

Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem: Praise the Roid, O Zion.

Praise thy God, O Zion.

For he hath strengthened the bars of thy gates. He hath blessed thy children within thee; He maketh peace in thy borders; He filleth thee with the finest of the wheat.

Go your way, eat the fat and drink the sweet, and send portions unto him for whom nothing is prepared; for this day is wholy unto the Lord; neither be ye grieved, for the joy of the Lord is your strength. Let the people praise thee, O Lord; let all the people praise thee.

TWO THANKSGIVINGS

"We must be early at church today, Aunt Charlotte," said Dorothy. "I have not be late for anything."

"What a beautiful Thanksgiving day it is!" she continued, when she had left the table and put back the curtain from the window. "How fine the sleighing will be!" As she spoke, a jingling of bells was heard without, and a sleigh glided rapidly across the white lawn. "It is Bert Darricote, auntie," said Dorothy, looking out at the handsome young man, who sprang out of the sleigh at the steps. "I have come to take you to church.

Dorothy," called out Bert to her as she threw up the sash, letting in the crisp air, which blew her fair curls in sweet confusion about her fair, pretty face. "I know you would not for worlds miss the opportunity to exhibit your skill at manipulating the ivories today,' the young man continued, as he came and stood under the window and looked up into the bright face above him. "I am so very glad you came, Bert, said Aunt Charlotte coming up behind

Dorothy. "This child has been hurrying me all morning, and a housekeeper must needs look well to the ways of her household, particularly when her pastor and his wife are to take dinner with

"Just wait a moment, Bert," said Dorothy, "and I shall be ready. Do not keep auntie standing here talking to you, though. She is all impatience to explore the mysteries of cellar and closet to see if perchance she can discover some delicacy to tickle the palate of Brother Mallory today." She looked very beautiful to the young man when she came down to him.

"Isn't the road fine, and isn't the air crisp, and doesn't Selim travel well today, Bert?" asked Dorothy loquaciously when they were seated in the sleigh and were skimming over the smooth, hard packed snow

"What makes you so quiet, Bert?" she asked, astonished at the happy fellow's unwonted silence.

"Perhaps it is because I have so much to tell you, and I hardly know where to begin," answered Bert solemnly. "Do you know, Dorothy, I am twenty one years old tomorrow?" "Twenty-one? Yes, you are, and I am eighteen. And yet-how short a time it seems since we were little children; since we used to go coasting down Dobson's hill. Do you remember the time, Bids | Bert, when Tom Arnold asked me to try one trip down on his sled and the thing came all to pieces and I went tumbling down and sprained my ankle? Oh, how The right is reserved to reject any and furious you did get! Don't you know? You pummeled Tom's big head till you split your gloves and your knuckles, too, I believe, for they looked very red when you were dragging me home.'

"Do you remember all that?" said Bert. "I thought you must have forgotten it from the way you were smiling at Arnold the other night at choir prac-

"Why, Bert, how could he help the rled's coming to pieces?" asked Dorothy laughingly. "I see you are as unreasonable as ever."

"Well, it's a man's business to take care of a woman, even in little things, and when a fellow's even indirectly the cause of a girl's coming to grief in any way I think he deserves to be demolished," said Bert unreasonably. "But this is not what I wanted to say, Dorothy. As I told you, I am twenty-one now, and father has given me the junior partnership in the bank, and-and-you know how I love you-how I have always loved you, dear, and I want you to be my wife." The young fellow wound up abruptly, hastily, looking lovingly into the sweet face beside him.

The sleigh sped smoothly on, the horses' feet resounding upon the bridge they were just crossing. "Won't you speak to me, Dorothy?" Bert said, almost pleadingly. "You must know that I love you, and now I am able to take care of you, dear, if you will only trust yourself to me, no harm shall"-Bump! The runners of the sleigh struck a board at the end of the bridge, there was a cracking, a creaking, the horse bounded forward and Bert and hearts are full.

Dorothy tumbled over into the drift beyond the bridge.

"Are you hurt?" said Bert, scrambling to his feet, and extricating himself and Dorothy from the mass of rugs and soft

"Not in the least," she replied, "but how are we to get to church? Who will play the organ?"

"Can I help you out of your difficulties?" called a cherry voice behind them, and big Tom Arnold came up in his handsome sleigh.

"Oh, Tom," said Dorothy, "I am so glad to see you! I must be in church in time to play the organ today, and see PEOPLE'S COLUMN. what has befallen us!"

waste any more time, since Miss Daly must hurry." Dorothy looked at him. mutely from her seat in the sleigh; Arnold smiled beneath his fierce mustache, cracked his whip, and the horses sped forward, leaving Bert standing flushed and angry in the middle of the road. It was a very silent, gloomy ride, after all, that Dorothy had. Tom saw her distress, and like the good renow that he was said nothing to her. Her hands were trembling and her eyes were full of tears when he helped her out at church. She struck the first few chords doubt fully, but when the voices pealed forth shall vote to retain a good servant. clear and sweet the organ tones grew firmer and fuller.

During the sermon Dorothy did not take her eyes off the door, but Bert never evidently determined to place Mr. Hodges came. It was a very demure, a very sad hearted little maiden who went back home with Aunt Charlotte in the big old sleigh. When they reached the bridge, and she saw the overturned sleigh by the promised to play the organ, and I would roadside; when she thought of Bert is a fact. There are a few exceptions but praise. Social service Friday evening at of large denomination in the vendor's standing angry and alone, his sweet, earnest appeal to her still unanswered. her heart grew very heavy.

"But surely he will come," she kept saying to herself; but when the day was gone and she knelt down by her bedside with the Thanksgiving hymns still ringing in her ears, there were tears in her eves and sadness in her heart.

That was one Thanksgiving, and, oh. how sad a one! There were dreary days of hoping, of be lifted into municipal legislative promiwaiting, of disappointment to Dorothy nence. before another came. She had known Bert Darricote all her life, and it seemed to her she had always loved him. His bright, quick boyishness, his innate manliness, his very faults even were dear to and he had only lifted his head coldly. His heart was very heavy during the days and weeks and months after he silly jealousy blind his eyes.

The season of heartache was good for both of the young things. It softened, it strengthed them. They both felt vant? themselves growing-felt their feelings intensifying. "How like to last Thanksgiving today is, Dorothy!" said Aunt Charlotte, as they took their seats in the sleigh.

"Please God it will not be so sad a one," said Dorothy to herself. "Are you afraid to trust yourself in this old sleigh with me?" she continued to her aunt. "Oh, no," said Aunt Charlotte. "It seems safe enough."

The tramping of the horses' feet kep time to Dorothy's thoughts. She glanced at the tall stump upon the hillock just before they reached the little river. Yes, it looked lonely, desolate, like a white robed ghost-just as it had looked a year ago when she and Bert had sped by. The horses' hoofs beat a mournful strum strum upon the bridge, the sleigh glided rapidly down the last steep de cline, the left runner struck a projecting snag, and before they had time to think Dorothy and Aunt Charlotte were struggling to extricate themselves from the ove turned vehicle in the soft snow. A jingling of bells was heard behind them, and before Dorothy could realize it Bert Darricote was bending over her.

"Are you hurt, dear?" he asked very gently. "Oh, Bert," she said joyfully, taking his hand and rising to her feet.

The young man looked a moment in silence upon the sweet, young face upturned to his. "See where we are, Dorothy! Just me an answer now?" "Yes, Bert," was all she answered, but t was enough for him.—Patience Oriel.

English Houses.

THE SUNDAY HERALD.

Seeing that Braintree is just now the scene of extensive house-building operations, and a decided prospect of this satisfactory condition of things continuing we subjoin the following article in the belief that some practical truths may be learned by those who contemplate building residences among us, that will be of advantage. The writer of the article goes on to

"Country houses have an initial advantage over all town dwellings of the ordinary type, says London Spectator. The last are designed, in nine cases out of ten, by a builder or contractor, who intends them for other people. Country houses are, almost without exception built by their owners to suit themselvesl They are the expression, not only of the general feeling as to comfort and convenience, but also of the owner's taste or experience. Every country house can therefore be taken as a document illustrating the exact modification which individual good sense has made in the general type. In them, if anywhere, we should expect to find the nearest approach to perfect comfort, so far as structure can secure it. Next to warmth, which, with its concomitant of shelter from the which led men to build houses at all, space is the main condition of indoor satisfaction. The living rooms are on the ground or I wouldn't have bet," said the de- floor, deriving their supply of fresh air from the hall, which, as in the London house, gets its stock in turn from under the main door. But the greater space leaves ample room for .. thorough warming of the central air chamber. Yet in how few country houses is the hall properly warmed by stoves! With that provision omitted, the size of hall and staircase merely prevents the air from ever becoming properly warmed at all, and for weeks the passages and bedrooms remain at a temperature in which it would be unsafe to allow even cattle to sleep. A further capital defect in most country houses is the absence of bathrooms, either of hot water or hot air, and the impossibility of obtaining any there were a half dozen men after each sudden increase of temperature in case of chill or illness. There are many large and costly mansions less well provided in this

UNCLAIMED BANK ACCOUNTS. Boston Institutions Anxious to Find

Claimants for Snug Little Sums. Boston, Nov. 28.-According to a law of Massachusetts, savings banks are required to publish each year a list of such deposits as have not been called for during a period of twenty years preceding, giving the names of the depositors and crats, 148; making a Republican majority the accounts. One would think the work would not require much space in a news paper. And yet the fulfillment of this requirement in just two of the savings i stitutions in Boston occupies a column and a half in one of the evening papers, the names being set in very small type. In one bank there are 137 of these accounts, and in the other 239. The amounts average in the hundreds, but less than $1000. The smallest is $26 and the largest a little above $4000, and the total for these two institutions reaches the astonishing sum of $226,137.12. The banks advertise for information concerning any of these depositors, as all of them are unknown or their whereabouts are unknown to them.

Following is the list of the accounts, the amounts of which are over $3000, each a little fortune, lying unclaimed in a bank that is clamoring for some information

Concerning the owner:

John Williams, $3108.93; Catherine
Foley, $3388.75; John Foley, Jr., $3381.46;
Mary Foley, $3361.42; John Hasey, $3133.32; John Williamson, 3246.39; John Heard Some of the depositors are dead, and known to be and their neirs are called for. NOT A "SLEEPER" AFTER ALL.

QUAKER CITY FOLKS FRIGHTENED.

Many Cases of Insanity and Nervous Prostration Looked For.

Boston, Nov. 28 .- The great comes backed out and a sigh of relief was wafted heavenward from as many thankful breasts as there are million miles in the comet's tail. The earth was not a party to the scheme. Some sky sharps said it

A vast proportion of the inhabitants of this staid old earth have been in mortal agony for fear that this "spectre o the skies," as Dr. Holmes calls it, would really demolish our whole solar system. In part astronomers are to blame for this-for there is every reason to believe that men with a spark of thought for their fellow-creatures would not send out reports so sensational as to cause fear o such an unnecessary nature. The earth has passed and repassed comets by the score, and every one of them has either dropped to pieces or else slid off into space again.

If there was any fun to be seen last night at the upper edge of the forty-five mile limit of the earth's atmosphere, the man in the moon had the whole show to himself, for nature had wisely or unwisely drawn a curtain across, which completely hid from the view of earthly dwellers even a glimpse of the "babes of

If meteors shot into the air we breathed last night they must have stuck in that bank of black clouds which hung aloft like an omen of defeat.

How Philadelphians Took It. PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 28.—Great interest was manifested in the city last night of account of the promised appearance of the comet, and as the shades of evening began to gather hundreds of men, women and children gathered on the streets for the purpose of witnessing the expected heavenly wonder. Threatening clouds hung over the city, but the crowds maintained their position until long past the hour fixed by the astronomers for the collision when they were driven home by a driz-zling rain which began to fall. There were many who were afraid to venture from their homes and preferred to die by their own fireside if the expected death was to come. Three cases of insanity through fear of the destruction of the world were reported by the police, and prominent physicians who were seen prelicted that many cases of nervous prostra tion and possibly death would result from the intense strain upon the nervous systems of the weak and superstitious. Gothamites Not Worried. NEW YORK, Nov. 28.-The promised downfall of meteors was not discernible to the people of this city. The skies were overcast throughout the evening and night. Very little interest was taken aplieved to be the sole surviving representatives of Biela's comet.

CONTROLLED BY DESPERADOES

Political Affairs of a Missouri County Again in the Hands of Bald Knobbers. SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Nov. 28 .- At the recent election the Bald Knobbers, who have been keeping quiet since five of their ringleaders were hanged five years ago carried Taney county and are again control of affairs. They are already be coming arrogant and have served notice on several officers who helped to prosecute them that they must leave the country Lawlessness, which for a time was not so prevelent, has broken out again. Recently the only church in the county was burned and neighboring counties have been suffering from depredations by horse thieves. ## A LIFE IMPRISONMENT

Is the Fate Which Stares in the Face of Asa P. Potter.

COURT SUSTAINS NINETEEN COUNTS.

Maverick Bank President Will Be Tried by Jury in January.

Boston, Nov. 29.—Asa P. Potter will be tried by a jury on Jan. 24, 1893. Judge court, yesterday afternoon, held that all the counts in the indictments charging Potter with making false entries in the books of the bank, are good, and set the date named as the time for trial. The court quashed the counts charging Potter | in which he was engaged. with making false entries in the reports to the comptroller of the currency. There is another indictment against Potter which Judge Putnam held good several weeks ago. He will be tried on this at the same time.

A good many of the counts against Potter have been found insufficient, but there are enough left to send the defendant to jail for the rest of his life in case he is convicted on all, or any substantial portion of them.

There were thirty counts in the indictment. Eleven charged him with making false entries in the reports, so that it will be seen that the court sustains 19 and cannot be traced. Has he been drownel, uashes 11. Following are the

Counts Which the Court Sustains: Counts 1 and 2, charging Potter, as pres ident, with making a false entry in the note teller's cash book. GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER.

Four Capital Cases Disposed of in the Superior Court at Pittsfield, Mass. PITTSFIELD, Mass., Nov. 29.—Martino white hellebore for use in the garden. It Casina, at the special session of the superior court yesterday, was sentenced to four years in state prison for killing John Valier, his uncle, in Great Barrington, July 4. His short sentence is on account of the fact that he and his uncle had a deadly quarrel, and that he would have been killed if his uncle had not been.

Other prisoners in the dock were Charles Abraham, Isaac E. Benoit and Charles He also left a note saying that he should Edward Adams. The district attorney said that an agreement had been reached between the counsel of Abraham and Benoit and the state whereby there was to be an indefinite postponement of the murder of Abraham's wife, who was burned to death in bed. The attorney general agreed to a post-ponement because Mr. Couch has been unable, through a recent bereavement, to attend to the case. No date was set for the trial, and it is not likely to occur until well into next year.

Messrs. Joiner and Parkhurst, representing the colored man Adams, offered a plea of manslaughter, which was accepted by the commonwealth.

Adams stabbed a white man fatally at a dance in Lenoxville, Jan. 16, 1892. Mr. Hibbard recited the facts in the case to the court, and moved for sentence, urging that the penalty should be such as to discourage the light regard for human life in this county.

SHAREHOLDERS MADE HAPPY. Announcement of a 15 Per Cent. Dividend in the Lancaster Bank Case. Boston, Nov. 29.—Judge John W. Corcoran of Clinton makes a remarkable announcement in connection with his receivership of the famous Lancaster bank. He states that he is now ready to pay a stock dividend of 15 per cent. to all shareholders who paid in their stock assessments, and that there is a certainty for them of another dividend of 5 per cent. in a short time. The only difficulty in contemplating the matter at this time is the uncertainty as to some claims that have been made upon the corporation. Anyone familiar with banking history will easily recognize the remarkable significance of this announcement. It is probable that the success which has attended Judge Corcoran's closing up of the Putnam in the United States circuit Lancaster bank affairs has no financial parallel in this section of the country. The bank was declared insolvent in January of 1886, President MacNeal having absconded with most of the assets that remained after squandering a great deal of eash and notes to float private enterprises

His Long Absence is Causing Much Apprehension Among Friends.

CHELSEA, Masa., Nov. 29.-The last tid-Ings received from Captain J. W. Since then it is known that he did sail, wrecked on some island, or is he in captivity off Newfoundland, are the questions that are still agitating his friends, despite the fact that nothing has been heard of him for months.

Lawler was a skilful seaman, and the idea that he has been drowned is not believed by those that know the man. They claim that he may have been carriel out of the course of European steamers by a hurricane and then picked up by a whaler bound for some distant port, and that in

Eighty-Round Contest Between Greggains and Costello.

SPECTATORS BECAME VERY WEARY

Contestants Will Get $1250 Each for Their Work.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 .- Thirty-five hundred men, many of them from cities as far away as Boston, Buffalo and Philadelphia, flocked to Coney island last evening to see Alex Greggains and Martin (Buffalo) Costello fight to a finish. Everybody anticipated a brisk, hard, give and take set-to, and a decisive settlement, one way or the other, and this in twenty rounds or

But the crowd was disappointed. The contest dragged along, round after round until the eightieth, when the referee, act ing in accordance with an agreement reached half an hour earlier, announced that the purse would be divided and the affair called no contest. It was then o'clock, and not more than half of the original crowd were awake.

'i e Preliminary Contest was between the 112-pound men, Danny McBride and Con Donovan, both of New York, who pummelled each other for the major portion of a purse of $500. This was a hurricane fight. For the first round neither paused for an instant for a breathing spell. Donovan, who is shorter than his opponent, had a shade the best of it at long range, but in clinch they mixed it up, and the honors were comparatively

When time was called for the fifth round McBride flew at his man like a tiger, forcing him to the researd beating him on the face and neck until Dono-van fell back upon the ropes. His head swayed from side to side, his legs gave way and, bounding from rope to rope in his descent, he lay inert upon the floor effectually put to sleep. The time of the fifth round was but seventeen seconds.

There Was a Long Wait after Donovan was borne from the ring be fore the stars of the evening appeared. Costello's seconds were Billy Delaney of San Francisco, Jimmy Carroll of Brooklyn and Joe Choyinski, the conquerer of Godfrey. Greggains' seconds were Martin Murphy of San Francisco, Johnny Mur-phy, Howie Hodgkins and Mike Conroy of Boston. John P. Eckland was referee and Robert Stoll kept time for the Coney Island Athletic club.

The men each weighed 158 pounds at the ring side, and they foughtfor a purse of $2500, of which $500 went to the loser Costello was the favorite in the betting, $100 to $70 being offered before the men put up their hands. Both men were naked, save for a breach clout and leather fighting shoes and short hose. The referee called the men to the

Both Men Fought Vigorously was taken up by hearing the testimony of the husband, who, it is alleged, was ing to have any advantage over his opsix the electric lights burned blue, sput tered and went out, leaving the men to battle in semi-gloom. There were mut-terings of "Oh, fight, go on and fight." Greggains was eager to fight, and would not let the employes replenish the electric lights. When the fifty-sixth round arrived a couple of hundred men stretched out full length on the benches at either end of the building and went to sleep. Greggains was endeavoring to get Costello on the ropes. Costello jabbed his left into his man's stomach at the call of time. Such a slight thing as Costello's light jab in the other fellow's mouth set the waking portion of the crowd to cheering vocifer ously. Greggains led for the stomach at the outset of the sixty-second, and then they sparred drearily until Costello got home face. Half the crowd yelled "Draw,draw," while the other half shouted: "Fight is The electric lights went out and the battle Continued by Gaslight. Not a blow was struck during half the rounds at this stage of the game, and the crowd became sarcastic. Fred Burns, the official announcer, went into the ring in the seventy-fifth round and stated that the club would let the men go on for eighty rounds and decide no contest, and divide the $2500 between them. Greggans got in a feeble left-hander in the stomach and the gong rang. Much to the relief of all, the referee stepped into the ring after the eightieth, and made his welcome announcement Then the sleepy sports stretched and yawned, and fled out of the building.

HERESY TRIAL BEGUN.

Professor Briggs' Answer to the Charges Against Him.

HE CONDUCTS HIS OWN DEFENSE

And Points Out Many Alleged Cases of Inconsistency.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.-The trial of Rev. Charles A. Briggs, on a charge of heresy, began before the presbytery of New York in the Scotch Presby terian church on West Fourteenth street. Rev. John C. Bliss was selected as moderator, and only those members who attended the ecclesiastical court two weeks ago were permitted to serve as judges or jurors. Professor Briggs conducted his own defense, aided by Professor Brown of the Union Theological seminary and Rev. H. M.

The memorial sermon, which the pres-bytery objects to, was delivered by Dr. Briggs on Jan. 20, 1891, and was the inaugural address at the Union Theological seminary. The trouble which followed resulted in the withdrawal of the seminary from the general assembly. The institution supported Dr. Briggs and did not believe that his teachings were contrary to the standard Presbyterian doc-

After rollcall Dr. Briggs began to read his answer. He began by stating that he appeared before the presbytery of New York in compliance with a citation dated Nov. 9 last. He quoted the Book of Dis-The residents of Homestead received no a right to make such objections to the cipline to the effect that the defendant had urkeys from Mr. Carnegie on Thanksgiv- form of the charges or to any question ng day, as in former years. missal of the original charge in 1891. The second section of Dr. Briggs proby the law of the church are restricted to It is a bad year for the aspirations of substance. Following is the remainder of

I object to the amended charges that the nature of the original charges has been changed. The original charges called attention to several doctrines taught by me, which, as it was claimed, were in conflict with the standards. The only doctrine of the standards with which conflict was alleged, was the "cardinal doctrine," "that the ecriptures of the Old and New Testaments are the only infallible rule of faith and practice."

Next Sunday evening Quincy will be fallible rule of faith and practice." The amended charges allege that my teachings conflict with nine different doctrines of the Westminster standards. The original The show bills of the "Babes in the charges allege conflict with only one doctrine, which is included as one of the nine. But, so far as I am concerned, I shall waive objections

Let us consider the last charge first. This introduces a new charge, namely, that my teaching conflicts with the essential doctrin; "that the souls of believers are at their death at once made perfect in holiness." Inasmuch as the original second charge neglected to state what doctrine of the standards it was with which the doctrine of progressive senetic with which the doctrine of progressive sanctification after death came in conflict, and this amended charge may be regarded as such a statement, I waive my objection to it, and I consent to go to trial on the eighth of the present charges.

Second-Charges one and two agree in al leging conflict with the essential doctrine of the holy scriptures and of the standards "that holy scripture is most necessary and the rule of faith and practice."

The Original Charge was limited to conflict with "the cardinal doctrine that holy scripture is the rule of faith and practice." If these two charges had limited themselves to that essential doctrine they would be in proper form for trial, but they insert an additional essential doctrine rangely that the

First: The combination of two essential doc-trines in one charge is in violation of the law of the church, which requires that the charge should state but one offense. This charge states two offenses, and is therefore insufficient in form and legal effect. Second: It is not in the interest of justice that a defen-dant should be exposed to conviction for conadvantages to be derived from the road and urged the selectmen to grant the road all the rights and privileges asked for.

If a minority should be convinced that my teaching to in each of the road all the rights and privileges asked for. teaching is in conflict with the essential doc trine that "holy scripture is most necessary," and another minority composed of different persons should be convinced that my teaching is in conflict with the essential doctrine that "holy scripture is the rule of faith and practice," these two minorities might become a majority and vote me guilty, if the vote Why go to Boston when you have one of should be taken on the two charges together, the largest house furnishing stores in the when a majority of votes would acquit me if a vote were taken on each charge separately. It is my right to insist that this

New Charge Be Stricken Out. At the same time, I am willing to be tried on this charge if the presbytery so desires.

I have the same objection to charge three. Three offenses are alleged in this charge, namely, that my teachings are in conflict with the essential doctrine. First, That "holy scripture is the word of God written." Second: That "holy scripture is immediately inspired;" and third, that "holy scripture is the rule of faith and practice." Only the first of the three was in the original specification. The third was in the original charge, of which that specification was a part. But the second is an entirely new charge, and on that account transcends the nature of the original charge. I ask the presbytery, therefore, either' to obey the law of the charge, and throw out the new charge, because it transcends the nature of the original charge, or else make three charges out of this one charge, or else to rule that there shall be three different votes upon it as the law requires when there are three It, as the law requires when there are three different charges.

Charges five and six are open to more serious objection. They agree in alleging that my doctrines conflict with two essential doc-trines, namely: First: That "the holy scrip-ture evidences itself to be the word of God." ture evidences itself to be the word of God by the consent of all the parts," and, sec-ond, That "the infallible rule of interpret-ation is the scripture itself," both of which are new charges, and therefore of the original charge, which was solely that these teachings conflict with the cardinal doctrine that "holy scripture is the infallible rule of faith and practice." Therefore, in law you should either remove those charges, be-cause they change the nature of the original charge, or else reinsert in these charges the essential doctrine mentioned in the original charges remain to be considered, two grounds: First: These are new charges, which so change the general nature of the original charges that they cannot be legally allowed; and second, it is not in the interest of justice that such charges as these should be approved by the presbytery of New York.

Charge seven is also a new charge; new in the statement of the doctrine imputed to me, the statement of the doctrine imputed to me, and new in the statement of the essential doctrine with which my teaching is alleged to conflict. I have another objection to charges four and seven. I claim that it is not in the interest of justice that you should approve them. They charge me with teaching doctrines which I have expressly disclaimed. Charge seven charges me with "teaching that the processes of redemption extend to the world to come in the case of many who die in sin." The presecution impute this doctrine to me,

Dr. Briggs says: I ask the presbytery, in view of these dis-claimers, if it is just, if it is honorable, if it is in accordance with Christian courtesy and gentlemanly propriety, for the prosecution to make such charges against me? They put you infa dilemma; either you must with them challenge my veracity, or else you must per mit them to present proof that my explana-tions of my teachings are erroneous, and that their explanations must be accepted as true. If you wish to challenge my veracity, you should do it under a moral charge; you cannot and reject them from the list of charges. Dr. Briggs requests the presbytery to pass upon the preliminary objections in accordance with the Book of Discipline, which says: "The judicatory, upon the filing of such objections shall, or on its motion, may determine all such pre-

Rev. Dr. J. J. Lampe of the prosecuting ommittee answered Dr. Briggs, and reproved him for calling the prosecuting committee fickle for the numerous changes in the indictment, when he, by his objections, was the cause of all the alterations that have been made.

Dr. George M. Alexander then offered a resolution "that, in consideration of the objection raised by the accused, the committee be required to amend the amended charges and specifications by striking out charges number four and seven from the ton "that the objections of Dr. Briggs were not well taken and that the trial go on," but was withdrawn, and by request of the prosecuting committee the resolution of Dr. Alexander was laid over until this afternoon to give the committee time to read over the objections and see if it could consistently withdraw the two evening.

The cholera scare is therefore likely to impel forego their annual foreign traveling and sightseeing and 'do' their own country instead of undertaking the dangerous tour of Europe. If Americans can be made to realize that to leave their own country is to incur the danger of getting cholera bacilli into their systems, the aforesaid cholera scare will have served a good purpose and be a great gain to this country. I do not hesitate to say that the army of American travelers abroad each year spends at least $100,000,000. Steamship Lines Will Offer No Inducements to European Visitors. NEW YORK, Nov. 29 .- Inquiry at the office of the various steamship lines plytion that little is being done anticipating travel from Europe to our shores for the purpose of visiting the World's fair. The companies have been plunged into a sea of trouble by the quarantine troubles, and are now helplessly at the mercy of the national government. With the exception of the Cunard line none will sail new vessels; none will offer extra inducements to stimulate travel; there will be no reduction in rates; no new schedules; no innovations and no joint action affecting a uniformity in rates.

The practical blocking of immigration has made a great difference in the revenues received and with some companies there is great anxiety as to what side the balance will come; consequently no en-terprises are being entered upon in the way of building and refitting steamships for a purpose that may be barren in fruitear are. The congress will meet in Chi- ful results. New ships of better accom modations are not needed, it would seem, as Europeans are not accustomed to travel a great deal on ocean steamships, and if anybody is exacting it is the traveling are days in the year. Here we took Americans. If any of the crowned heads | breakfast. or princes are coming here they will in all probability come in ships of war.

Ocean steamship companies do not stimulate travel in the manner of railroad companies by cutting down rates as an inducement. Their problem is controlled by different factors, and one which is when travel is heaviest, fluctuating only when travel is light.

QUINCY be Again Dominated by the LIQUOR DEALERS and their READ, REFLECT AND ANSWER TO.

INTRODUCTION.

Quincy, Nov. 30, 1892.

To the Voters of Quincy: Is a change in the administration of the city affairs advisable? There are indications that a strong political effort will be made at the approaching election to overturn our present municipal gov-

In the interests of economy, and with a strong desire to have the business of the city conducted upon business-like principles, I advise every voter to oppose any radical change. To displace our capable and honest officials by the election of men who have been "weighed and found wanting" would be a dangerous experiment.

There are many perplexing problems confronting us at this time, such as the water supply, the improvement of the highways, and the license question,-all of which Mayor Fairbanks has carefully considered in his two years' experience.

Too much emphasis cannot be placed upon the importance of a large vote for No-License; but let us also remember that such action, in order to be effective, must be supplemented by the election of a mayor who will insist upon the enforcement of the law. I repeat that a change at this time would certainly be disastrous to the best interests of the city and would place additional burdens upon the tax-payers without any compensating benefits.

No city in the Commonwealth has more efficient and honest men in the offices of Mayor, Treasurer, Collector, City Clerk, Overseer of the Poor, Commissioner of Public Works, Auditor and City Solicitor, than has Quincy. Our municipal affairs have been administered with dignity and ability.

I fully realize the danger of extolling the virtues of candidates for official honor. I have suffered many defeats during my political career, but as I stated in a document written a few years ago, I was defeated not "because of my many vices, but on account of the few virtues I possess."

If those who desire to revolutionize the city would unearth any form of corruption practiced by the present officials, no man would be more willing to expose and condemn it than the writer.

It is enough to make a crocodile weep to read what so bigoted a partisan as Mr. Pattee has to say concerning rings" at City Hall, because this very gentleman's efforts seem even now to be directed toward the formation of a ring which, judging by the past, would bring discredit upon our city and grief to the law-abiding part of the community. The spectacle of a leading Democrat, in whose party the demoralizing liquor element formerly held sway in this city, now posing as a reformer, is slightly amusing.

I have always noticed that a corporal's guard of the advocates of the nominees of this party can, when filled with whiskey, make more political noise than an army of sober citizens. Their words should be estimated accordingly.

Who would be encouraged by the election of Mr. Hodges - those who have voted No-License and upheld good government, or the lawless element? This is a question which every voter should thoroughly consider before casting his ballot. Mr. Hodges is an enterprising man of admirable business qualifications, but his past record as a town official shows that his associates in politics were, in many instances, very objectionable to the better class of citizens.

Many will remember the difficulties to which his influence subjected me in my attempt to enforce the liquor law. In order to enlighten those who have reached manhood during the past twelve years, or who have become residents here within that time, I submit the documents annexed (covering only a part of the period), by which the voters can judge for themselves whether Mr. Hodges acted in the interest of the taxpayers and law-respecting citizens or in a manner to benefit the clique of political rounders who schemed and shouted for his election.

Who, I ask, is to be supported for mayor by the 835 persons that last year voted to grant licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquor in this city? Read the circulars sent herewith and answer through the columns of The Ledger. HENRY H. FAXON.

F. P. S.—The paragraph relating to the temperance question in Mr. Hodges' letter of acceptance is the embodiment of ingeniously twisted ambiguity.

PHILANTHROPIST FAXON.

DURING the time that Mr. Henry H. Faxon has served the town of Quincy as a special police officer to enforce the liquor laws, there have been many inquiries made as to whether he was intending at any time to charge the town for his services. To set the matter at rest, Mr. Faxon has sent the following letter to the selectmen:-

"TO THE HONORABLE BOARD OF SELECTMEN: Gentlemen,-For several years I have served the town as policeman, specially appointed to enforce the laws relating to the sale of intoxicating liquors. Appropriations have been made each year to pay for such duties. In order to relieve the town of any embarassment as regards my compensation, I will state that I have made no charge whatever. I did not accept the position, with its many perplexities, for a money consideration, but for a higher reward-that of benefiting the citizens in their business and social relations. I have also derived the satisfaction of knowing that the laws of prohibition can be carried out if officials are honest and earnest. Confident that my fellow-townsmen have fully realized the blessings resulting from the enforcement of the law, I trust that in the coming campaign they will not be indifferent in advancing every principle which pertains to good government.

Yours truly, Henry H. Faxon."

Quincy, Jan. 28, 1884. Mr. Faxon said that thus far he had contributed to the cause of prosecuting illegal liquor-selling in Quincy about $5,000 in money, in addition to unremitting toil and attention to the prosecution of cases. He has paid all his own counsel fees, and whenever he has been assisted by brother officers. has invariably compensated them for special duties performed. He wanted to try the experiment, and being perfectly satisfied with the result, is willing to bear the expense. -Quincy Patriot, Feb. 2, 1884.

A Partial Summing up of the Short-comings of the Quincy Board of Selectmen, as regards the License Law relative to the Sale of Intoxicating Liquors, and Matters Pertaining Thereto.

QUINCY.

CAN PUBLIC PAPERS BE WITHHELD FROM CITIZENS?

An interesting question has been raised within a few days in Quincy, the ultimate decision of which is of interest alike to all town officers and citizens generally. The circumstances are these:-

About one week ago the selectmen of Quincy revoked the liquor license of E. J. Costello, "for cause." Shortly afterwards petitions were circulated asking the selectmen to reconsider their decision, and allow Costello to continue in the sale of liquor as before. Mr. Henry H. Faxon, hearing of the resenting of the petitions, applied to the selectmen for permission to examine them. After some hesitation this request was granted. Mr. Faxon, after scanning the documents, was about to copy them, when he was prevented, and informed that he would not be allowed that privilege. Mr. Faxon claimed that he had a right to copy them, but the selectmen were firm in their refusal. Mr. Faxon immediately obtained the written legal opinion of John Quincy Adams, Esq., and another eminent lawyer, both of which gentlemen concurred in saying that he had a perfect right to examine and copy any such documents as the ones alluded to in the possession of the selectmen. This morning there was quite a lively discussion in the selectmen's room between Mr. Faxon and members of the board, the former presenting the legal opinions above mentioned, in support of his right to copy the petitions in question. The selectmen said they wanted to advise with some one relative to making publie the petitions. Mr. Faxon asked, "How long before you will give me your decision?"

THE CHAIRMAN, WM. A. HODGES,-

"As soon as we decide."

"When will you decide?" "I do not know. It may be within three hours." "Will it be within three days?"

"I presume so." Mr. Faxon, thinking that the three days might be extended until after town election, gave the selectmen the following article to insert in the warrant:-

"To see if the town will instruct the selectmen to preserve and keep on file open to the inspection of the voters of the town, all petitions, remonstrances, and papers of like nature received by them."

The outcome of the present controversy is awaited with interest.—Herald, Feb. 15, 1879.

The above article, in substance, having appeared, the writer thought that many of the citizens might desire to have the matter more fully set forth. He will therefore endeavor to briefly throw some additional light upon what appears to be a peculiar method of transacting business, especially as regards selectmen's duties to the citizen.

BUT TO THE POINT.

I presume that the recent disturbances in E. J. Costello's saloon, and his conviction in the lower court, are fresh in the minds of our citizens. As a result of the complaints and talk created as to the demoralizing effects of this resort upon the young men of the town, the pressure brought to bear upon the selectmen was so great that it caused them to revoke his license. After the revoking of the license, three petitions were presented to the fathers of the town, presumably from the believers in free rum, and also a letter from the rum-sellers' counsel, John L. Eldridge, asking them to reconsider the vote whereby the license of Costello was revoked. The writer, wishing to know the character of the petitioners, called upon the guardians of the town records and asked permission to examine the petitions. Then it was that the memory of one of the selectmen appeared to be a little foggy about having received any petitions. A few pleasant and encouraging remarks from the writer soon restored the memory of the forgetful official; and after several files of papers were looked over the prize was found, and appeared to be within the writer's grasp. But how quickly are some of our brightest anticipations blotted out! After a hasty look at the petitions, and while the writer was preparing to take notes from the same, the chairman of the servants of the town quietly, and in good order, took possession of the papers, and informed the disturber of the rum-sellers' peace that he could not take copies of the petitions. Remonstrance and the rights of a citizen were alike ignored, and the writer departed with a heavy heart, vanquished but not discouraged, to seek legal consolation and relief.

The advice of our honored townsman was sought and freely given, as will be seen by the following letter:-

Adams Building, 23 Court Street, Boston, Feb. 14, 1879.

H. H. FAXON, Esq.:-

Dear Sir: You have requested me to inform you whether you, as a citizen of Quincy, are entitled of right to access to, and inspection of, a petition addressed to the selectmen in their official capacity, praying for the reconsideration of a judgment by them, as license commissioners under the 99th chapter of the laws of 1875, revoking a license. Chapter 29, sec. 2, of the general statutes requires "selectmen in their respective towns to have books of public record, substantially bound, and other papers and documents, within their departments, duly filed and arranged conveniently for examination and reference." For whose convenience, examination and reference, may be seen by turning to the 10th section of the same chapter, where it is expressly stated: -

"Under the direction of the officers having the custody of town records and files, the same shall be open for public inspection and examination, and any person may take copies

You are, therefore, unquestionably entitled, if you wish, at a reasonable time, and in a proper manner, to have access to, and inspection of, all the public papers of the town, among which, it seems to me, that such a document as you describe must clearly be classed.

If the selectmen unreasonably refuse you such access, and a reasonable opportunity to take copies of any such papers, you have a clear remedy at law.

Very respectfully,

J. Q. Adams.

Thinking of the saying, "A prophet is never without honor save in his own country," I thought best to obtain talent from other directions; and having written to a distinguished lawyer, received the following communication:-

Boston, Feb. 14, 1879.

MR. HENRY H. FAXON: -

Dear Sir: A petition presented to selectmen of a town, and in their hands, concerning any matter of which they can take official cognizance, is a public record, to which any citizen of the town has a right of access, at reasonable times, and of which any citizen of the town has a right to take a copy. The selectmen have no right to destroy or secrete any such paper, or to withhold it from any citizen who may wish to examine it at reasonable times. Yours truly,

GEO. MARSTON. Armed with these legal columbiads, fully charged with sound advice, I thought at close range I could make the enemy surrender. But alas! The presence and influence of an ex-selectman and former permanent and prominent keeper of town records and funds, was, it is presumed, too much even for the above great guns, one of which, a few years ago, had been partially spiked after exploding a charge of law with admirable effect. Although the recreant ex-official alluded to was badly wounded by the law charge, and ordered by the Supreme Court to disgorge the town's property, there is an important record and about $1,024.75 still missing in the cemetery account, and $397.62 as set forth in the Auditors' account. Strange as it may appear to some, this same official vulture has been fluttering for a nomination and election to offices, that he may roost over the remains left after his famous cemetery raid from 1869 to 1872.

His zeal in the past ought to insure his triumphant election to some office as a fitting representative, leader and champion of the Quincy Democracy.

The above letters were presented and also read to the selectmen, who desired time, as stated in the interview, with the result set forth in the heading. I admired the prompt response, "within three days," which, as set forth below, is equivalent to saying:

"WE ARE A LAW UNTO OURSELVES!"

"WE ARE MONARCHS OF ALL WE SURVEY!" "WE ARE JUDGES OF OTHERS' THOUGHTS!" "WE RESPECT NO MAN'S OPINION WHEN OUR FRIENDS ARE IN DANGER."

The saying, "O that mine adversary had written a book," is not needed. The following letter will do:-

TOWN OF QUINCY, SELECTMEN'S OFFICE.

Quincy, Feb. 18, 1879. MR. HENRY H. FAXON:-

Sir: I am instructed by the Board of Selectmen to inform you that we respectfully decline to allow you to have, or copy, a petition submitted to the Board of Selectmen a few days since, and for the following reasons: First that no action has been taken; and, secondly, that we could not properly take action on the same, and do not consider the same a matter of record: and, furthermore, presuming that your intentions regarding the same would be only to stir up strife, and, by a public notice, endeavor to injure individuals signing such a petition, when such petition conflicts with your individual opinions.

Yours respectfully, (Signed) JOHN CHAMBERLIN. For, and in behalf of, the Selectmen of Quincy.

"Stir up strife?" What has been going on in many of the twenty-four licensed dramshops the past year? Fights without number, drunkenness, gambling in back-rooms, open bars, Sunday sales, and sales to minors and drunkards! $72,000 worth of disorder, sin, and strife peddled out to satisfy the ambition of twenty-four rum-sellers and a few aspirants for office! "Injure individuals signing such a petition!" They injured hemselves when they signed those petitions, and that is why the selectmen, as their friends, want to cover up their tracks. Why has all this sin been permitted to be carried on? For the paltry sum of $2,200 received for licenses!

A board of selectmen, or any member thereof, who has to resort to such arguments as those set forth in the above letter, in order to please a rum constituency, who stir up strife, is well along on the voyage up Salt River, or near the sticking point in the last litch.

I would respectfully ask the citizens of Juincy whether the present board of selectmen are not custodians of the town property, and bound by their oath of office to give every citizen and tax-payer his rights, or whether they are elected to office solely to protect the following licensed rum-sellers, their bondsmen and friends:-

tion extends, that they have not. Twenty-four licensed rum-shops is certainly equivalent to the taking of $72,000 out of the industries of the town, besides creating untold misery, pauperism, crime, and suffering in our midst.

Since the agitation of this matter pertaining to the official action of the selectmen of Quincy, I find that officials in other localities who have secured positions of trust, have become so inflated that they think they own what they were elected to protect, records included. They remind the writer of men who, having a few dollars of other people's money in their pockets, have conceived the airish idea that they are rich, and, in consequence, are profligate in expenditures, at the expense of those who intrusted them with their possessions. Such men always bring up against the stump of adversity, which is sure to be in the path of those who heed not the voice of reason and conscience.

TO THE CITIZENS OF QUINCY.

Shall the rum-sellers of Quincy and Boston, with a few aspirants for office who will do their dirty bidding, be allowed to control the town another year, which means debauchery, drunkenness, poverty, ruin, and increased taxation, or will the law-abiding voters rally and protect the interests of the town, by electing a Board of Selectmen who favor temperance, thereby promoting law, order and prosperity?

TO ADD $2651 TO THE TOWN AND STATE TREASURIES, THIRTY-TWO RUM SHOPS AND APOTHECARIES ARE LICENSED TO DISPENSE $100,000 WORTH OF DISORDER, WRETCHED. NESS AND POVERTY.

The following list gives the names of those who nave been granted licenses to manufacture drunkards, criminals and paupers I want it understood that I do not condemn any honest druggist who sells alcoholic liquors for medicinal purposes only, or his bondsmen; but those apothecaries who take out sixth-class licenses for $1, and then sell rum by the glass, meric the contempt of every decent citizen.

HOW THE BONDSMEN LOOK.

It will be seen that the sureties are, in many instances, Boston rumsellers, and one name appears upon eight bonds. Some of the bondsmen, if their debts were paid, would probably not have so much as a "fig-leaf" to cover their nakedness. Now I candidly ask the citizens of the town if they desire to have the licensed rumsellers of Quincy aided by Boston rumsellers and a few Democratic Yankees who wish to be selectmen, and if they think it wise, and for the best interest of the public, to allow another year of debauchery at the expense of the industries of the town.

From a purely business standpoint, the honest citizens should attend the caucuses and polls, and crush out the infernal traffic for every dollar expended for liquors as a beverage comes out of the landlord, grocer baker, tailor, butcher, and others who pur sue an honest calling.

THE RUMSELLERS OF BOSTON ARE A CURSE TO THE WHOLE STATE.

In order to obtain custom, and spread their nefarious business, they become bondsmen for nearly all the country dramsellers. In towns like Quincy it would be almost impossible for rumsellers to obtain sureties from the ranks of respectable men, because every man, who has the least claim to humanity, knows full well that calamity always follows in the wake of the traffic. Well did the Hon. Emory A. Storrs represent the trade from the platform of Tremont Temple, Oct. 14, 1880. On his asking the question, "What interest does the Democratic party represent?" a voice from the audience answered, "Rum!" Mr. Storrs, resuming, said,-

"That is not an interest; that is a calamity. They represent all the calamities. If a grasshopper plague eats up the crops in the West, then look out for an increase in the Democratic vote. If there is any pestilence, or famine, or other great misfortune, up goes the Democratic vote. They live on calamities, and they would feed on the deluge. When prosperity comes, in God's name what use have you got for the Democratic party? In every misfortune they have be-devilled our politics, and been associated with everything criminal in our country. Or if it ever was in favor of the right thing, it was at the wrong time. It was in favor of peace all through the war."

WHAT PARTY PERPETUATES AND UPHOLDS RUMSELLING?

The Democratic party, and a few rum Republicans, who vote with the Democrats when their beverage is in danger, are responsible for this era of debauchery in Quincy. The portrait of Hancock, their leader, adorned thousands of dram-shops all over the country. A Democratic flag without one end of the halyards attached to a rum-shop would be regarded as one of the lost arts!

Officials often are heard to say, "You cannot stop this evil." I admit that lying, bulldozing, or buying up witnesses is the composition of the fort behind which rumsellers entrench themselves if brought before the courts. A revenue officer well expressed it, when he said, "that rum was a lie from the moment it left the still." A few years ago, a prominent rumseller was brought before our court. Several witnesses were summoned, and every one testified that he had not drank, or if he had no money was paid. From the courtroom those witnesses went directly to a rum-shop near by, and boasted with the criminal rumseller about the lies they told to shield him, when upon the witnessstand.

There is a way, however, in which they can be brought to justice. Employ good, reliable detectives. That is the method which the United States officers adopt, and it is well known that, without detectives, those who sell rum would defy and cheat the government out of its dues. Through that method, adopted by the internal revenue department, six of the rumsellers of Quincy have been prosecuted, of whom three have had to pay their little bills into the United States treasury for selling rum or tobacco contrary to law, ,nile two plead guilty and are still on the enxious seat, and only one was discharged.

MEN NOT FIT FOR OFFICE.

Boards of selectmen, or any other officials, are not fit to be put into positions of trust if they say that the laws cannot be enforced, for these plastic creatures are like rubber dolls and bend any way the rum power wills. What would be thought of a general who said to his soldiers before a battle, "We cannot beat the enemy"? That bare admission would weaken the courage of every soldier under his command The laws can be enforced, if courage and honest effort are brought into requisition.

Voters cannot expect that the morals of a community will tend to be law-abiding, if those who violate the laws are allowed to wield political power, thus enabling them to select those officials who they well know will not harm them. Neither can much be expected from a scheming Yankee official, even if he gets elected, who just before election employs at l'rish doctor, for effect. He may have been cured of bodily disease, but his political disorder is incurable.

DO NOT ELECT WEAK MEN, THINKING THAT THEY WILL DO RIGHT IF YOU INSTRUCT THEM.

I presume the voters of Quincy are aware of that fact. Several times the selectmen have been instructed, in open town meeting, under an article in the warrant, not to grant licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquors. They have treated the voters with contempt by ignoring their demands. It is of no use to instruct or petition officials, who are wrong on moral questions, after they are elected, imagining that they will do right. Judges, officers of courts, jurors, selectmen, constables and all other officials who cater to the liquor interest for votes, are bound to serve the parties who created them, either by openly working to protect them or otherwise. If the rumsellers and criminals elect tools to carry out their wishes, the law-abiding citizens must not expect to be protected. Just laws never will be enforced by corrupt officials who depend upon criminals to back them up. If you appoint a rascal to be his own hangman he will probably die a natural death.

THE PARTY POLITICS OF RUMSELL. ERS AND THEIR FRIENDS.

It will be noticed that nearly all the rumsellers and their bondsmen are Democrats. A very few Republicans are mixed in to give respectability to the list.

It will not do for a man to train in the Democratic party if he has a conscience. Mr. Chamberlin tried to satisfy his by voting not to license the worst class of rum holes. What was the result? The party threw him overboard at the next election.

A few years ago, in writing up a slip setting forth a Democratic victory, I made the remark that "that party had reason to rejoice, as they had added one new creature to their fold in the shape of a selectman, whom his rum Republican friends tried in vain to force in caucus upon the Republican party, but did not succeed. Failing there, the tactics were changed, and he was made a subservient Democrat."

A correspondent of the Boston "Globe" took exceptions to the above criticism, and in a communication which appeared at that time, said, "This so-called creature is one of the respectable Republicans of Quincy, but the Democrats, desiring an honest, upright man, recognized no party, but firmly supported him as their nominee." I have often stated that it was hard finding competent men in the Democratic ranks to represent the town, but I never went so far as did the writer in the "Globe" in saying that, in order to secure one, they had got to take a renegade rum Repub-

RING TO PROTECT LEGALIZED TRAMP-MILLS.

When rumsellers organize to protect their infernal traffic, it is high time for those who wish to advance the best interests of the town to rise in opposition. The advocates of rum never sleep; when all other business ceases, in the dead hours of the night, the harvest of the devil, within dram-shops, is at its height. Let our best citizens : cise the same vigilance as the rumseller and his sympathizing friends, and the latter would soon have to depart for more genial climes.

POOR-HOUSE PROBLEM.

Some of the Democratic selectmen are very much afraid of paupers being saddled upon the town; but just before election they hunt up every tramp and get him naturalized, no matter what his condition, and thus help add many permanent paupers that the town cannot shake off, under any circumstances. It is well for those of the Democratic faith who hanker for official honors to have a vein of sympathy for their friends, as they usually practise drinking the beverage which inspires within them Democratic principles, and results in forcing many of those who vote for them to seek shelter in some place of refuge, when infirmities, old age and poverty overtake them. Just in proportion as pauper-mills are licensed, shall we have to enlarge our alms-house. Seventy-two persons have been assisted by the town within a few years, whose poverty could be traced, directly or indirectly, to the use of intoxicating liquors; and at the present time, persons are being assisted, on their representations of extreme poverty, who can find money to patronize rum-shops and beerwagons.

The law, as it now stands, giving selectmen power to grant licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquors, is productive of untold harm. The rumseller knows that the more corrupt the officials are, the more rum he can sell and the less restraint.

It has been said that the screen law cannot be enforced. It has been enforced in the city of Cambridge, and the following letter from Mayor Hall conclusively proves that the result has been of great benefit: -

CITY OF CAMBRIDGE. MAYOR'S OFFICE, Dec. 6, 1880. Dear Sir,- I believe our city is one of the few where the "SCREEN LAW" has been faithfully enforced.

One of the reasons why I regret that my private business interests have compelled me to decline being a candidate another year is, that I would like to test the law still further. But I have reason to believe that next year's board of aldermen will continue it. Whether it is to be so or not, I desire to leave with you my testimony as to the benefits of the

After frequent consultations with our chief of police, I find two important results accomplished:

The Sunday traffic is stopped so far as we can know. If carried on, it is beyond where any officer can see it.

The sale to minors is almost done away with. Occasionally one is found, a complaint made, and the license revoked.

I consider these two points a material gain for the temperance cause; and I am convinced that every good citizen must look at it in this light.

I am satisfied also that the correct plan is each year to make sure of every good point gained, and from these press on to others.

I believe for the present in a license law, but I would have it so plain that its condition can be clearly understood, and then I would have it enforced to the letter.

It is my earnest desire to promote the temperance cause, and adopt all such good laws as may lead to the ultimate suppression of intemperance,—the direct foe of mankind. Yours truly,

JAS. M. W. HALL. HENRY H. FAXON, Esq.

LAW IGNORED.

If the selectmen of Quincy had enforced the screen law, some of the principal evils, referred to by Mayor Hall, would have been remedied. But they well knew that letting light into a dram-shop would disturb the rumsellers under their charge, the same as it did in Cambridge, where the rum fraternity admitted that it decreased their business fifty per cent. Then, by removing the screens, thousands of rascalities perpetrated behind them are stopped. A man goes into a saloon with a hundred dollars, more or less, and spends one dollar. That is not what many of the rumsellers are after. That small sum gets the customer drunk, and then the bar-tender, or some "pal," plays poker, billiards, sippio, shakes dice, or adopts some method to cheat, or steal direct, the balance of money the victim may have.

I contend that any man who has so far lost his self-respect as to encourage by law the sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage, should never receive the votes of lawabiding citizens, because those who sell rum usually defy all law, taking it for granted, if we judge them by their actions, that license means free rum.

A WORD TO OUR ADOPTED CITIZENS.

How the Irish voters can go to the polls in nearly a solid body, and vote for license, and thus sanction and perpetuate an infernal traffic, is a problem which I cannot understand. The use of intoxicating liquors has been the great curse of their race. Their favorite argument that license promotes temperance, falls to the ground, when the records of the courts are summed up, as they show that a large proportion of the drunkards and criminals, who daily appear to answer for their shortcomings, are foreigners, and these largely of Irish descent. Both the influence and the votes, of those who represent them in the halls of legislation, are almost invariably upon the side of free rum. With such a policy they never will be leaders and upholders of good government. In towns like Quincy, where they hold the balance of power in the Democratic party, the Irish are catered to by the Yankee politicians who want to be selectmen and by the rumsellers who ply them, with rum, free, about election time. Take the Irish out of the Democratic party of Quincy and the balance, who want the offices and control the organization, would get lost in trying to find themselves! For a number of years past, our adopted citizens have been restive and have clamored for a chance to share the honors of political positions. But that will not do. Many times have I heard those who have catered to the naturalized citizens for their votes to help legalize the rum traffic, say, "We want no part of them upon our ticket."

Knowing that the burden of taxation is largely augmented by the iniquitous traffic, I, for one, shall make a vigorous protest against any board of selectmen who will countenance the sale and use of intoxicating liquors as a beverage.

A BRIEF REVIEW of the difficulties encountered by the Quincy Policeman who was displaced by the Board of Selectmen for doing his duty.

A number of articles having appeared in the columns of the papers recently, bearing upon my actions as special police officer to enforce the liquor law in Quincy, and as they contain many statements which I know to be false, I claim the privilege of giving to the public, through the same medium, a brief history of my short, but I may say successful career, as a public servant. At the time of the annual March town meeting this year, I caused to be inserted in the warrant the following: "To see if the town will appoint, or instruct the Selectmen to appoint, special police officers to enforce all laws bearing upon the sale of intoxicating liquors, and appropriate money therefor." The article came up for consideration at an adjourned meeting held March 28th, and I then stated that when I caused it to be inserted in the warrant, I was in hopes that we should have a change in the majority of the Board of Selectmen; but as unfortunately we had not succeeded in bringing it about, I was no longer in favor of making the contemplated appointments and appropriation, because the Board, as constituted, would not try to enforce the liquor laws. Thereupon, the Chairman of the Board became quite excited, and a motion having been made to instruct the Selectmen to appoint me as a special police officer for the purpose contemplated, with an appropriation of $500, Mr. Hodges, the aforesaid gentleman, immediately arose, and said that if that motion passed, and the matter came before the Board, he should vote for Mr. Faxon. The result was that the motion was passed at once by a very large majority. At that time I had no idea of accepting the position even if it were offered to me, for I knew that a majority of the Selectmen had been elected for the special purpose of licensing rumsellers and protecting their interests. Further-more, nearly all the constables and regular police officers of the town had no sympathy with the enforcement of the liquor law, and I could plainly see that to carry out what I desired would be undertaking a pretty big contract. Almost immediately after the meeting, however, many of our citizens who had become disgusted with the way in which the licensed rum business had been conducted in Quincy during the past few years, earnestly advised me to accept the appointment. Still, I waited until April 15th, and no action in the matter having been taken by the Selectmen, although in about twenty-four hours after their own election they had appointed as members of the police a number of their friends, who had been unsuccessful candidates for constables at the March meeting, I then wrote to them as follows:

Quincy, April 15, 1881.

TO THE HON. BOARD OF SELECTMEN: GENTLEMEN: - At the adjourned town meeting held the 28th ult., the town, by nearly a unanimous vote, instructed the Selectmen to appoint the undersigned special police officer "to enforce the laws relative to the sale of intoxicating liquors, and appropriating $500 therefor." Will you please consider the matter at an early date and submit your decision to

Yours truly,
HENRY H. FAXON.

The very next day, April 16th, I received a written notice of my appointment, which I concluded to accept, although it took me a short time to reconnoitre the situation, and I deemed it best not to commence active operations until May 1st. In the mean time, to guard against contingencies, the Selectmen had taken good care, during the last week in April, to grant a large number of licenses so as to have everything in readiness for the new policeman.

As a Specimen

of the advice and assistance which I received from the Honorable Board of Selectmen when I tried to consult with them, I may here say, that May 2d, seeing lying on their table an application for a license in which the description of the premises of the licensee appeared very vague, I suggested to the Chairman, Mr. Hodges, that it would help me very much in the performance of my duty if he would have the premises, in which the business was to be carried on, described fully and clearly, when he informed me in language more forcible than polite that he did not want any advice from me, as the Selectmen intended to run their part of the business without any interference. I have tried to consult with Mr. Hodges several times, but he has always maintained that I, and not the Selectmen, was appointed to take charge of the enforcement of the

I am sorry to say in this connection, that both Mr. Hodges and Mr. Eaton have thrown all the obstacles they could in the way of the enforcement of the law. Places have been licensed in back rooms and basements, where it was nearly impossible for an officer to get any view of the premises without being seen before he could discover anything. Parties have been licensed whose reputations were bad even for rumsellers: and the law requiring the paraphernalia and accommodations, necessary to obtain common victuallers' and innholders' licenses. was virtually ignored, as were many other restrictions which should have been looked after before the licenses were granted. What, however, could have been expected better from those two members of the present Board, who were elected mostly through the influence of rumsellers, who knew from their former record that their business of making drunkards would not be interfered of enforcing the law were obnoxious to the Selectmen, I have not the least reason to doubt, as they were elected by the rumsellers expressly not to interfere with their business, while I was appointed by the vote of the law-abiding citizens, because they were satisfied that I would do my duty. It is not to be wondered at that there should have been some friction between the representatives of such factions. I expected it, and prepared myself for it. What use would it have been for me to accept the position, if I was to be controlled by men whom I knew did not sympathize with me in the duties I was called upon to perform, and must receive orders from them The licensed rumsellers say that my methods were "unusual, and differed widely from those practised by any officer on record. I grant it, for I did not propose to work from the rumsellers' standpoint in order to please them. If, therefore, they imagined that I should inform them of what I intended to do, and when I proposed to make a raid, they certainly were mistaken in the man. I had often heard officers complaining in the past that it was useless to make seizures or complaints, because, when ever they attempted it, the rumsellers always seemed to be prepared; and I made up my mind to keep my own counsel, and try to contrive some way to get at them unawares. Such methods might be unusual, but how could I do otherwise?

That My Methods

About "That Sign."

Great stress has been laid also on the fact that I brought an innholder before the court because he did not display a sign denoting his business; but if the Selectmen had done their duty they would have informed him, and every sham victualler who only took out such licenses to cheat the public, of all the requirements of their licenses, so that they might at least comply with them. It is truly refreshing to hear liquor dealers plead ignorance of a law which has been in the statute-book for years, although it must be said for the rumsellers of Quincy that they have from the first shown a spirit of defiance to all laws. So far as the case alluded to is concerned, however, the party referred to certainly ought to have had ample time to study up the law concerning his business while he was confined in jail for rumselling.

In the discharge of my duties as an officer I have tried to enforce

The Screen Law,

because the liquor business from a rumseller's cannot be carried on wit screens. It is a fact that many a time, when in the dead hours of the night I have paid an official visit to some rumseller, whose place was full of half-drunken loafers, they invariably tried to get behind each other so as not to be noticed and recognized, huddling to gether like a lot of pigs on a cold day, when every one wants to get the middle place. In making this allusion for comparison I mean no disrespect to the pigs. All sorts of devices were used, and all kinds of stories told, in order to get up some kind of a screen behind which minors and heads of families who frequent rum-shops, together with bummers and drunkards, could hide themselves. Even flowers and vines, those choicest of God's blessings, were grown in the windows, an insult to nature, in order that unscrupulous bar-tenders might rob their drunken customers without detection from the outside. I am fully satisfied, that wherever licenses are granted, the screen law, if honestly enforced, would stop more than sixty per cent. of the evils of rumselling. It was quite laughable, by the way, to hear the Quincy rumsellers say that they were looking to the action of the Boston authorities regarding the taking down of their screens, while I was specially appointed to enforce the laws relating to the liquor traffic; for I looked upon the Boston method of enforcement as not up to the times so far as Quincy was concerned, and I think I fully demonstrated that fact to all who were brought into court.

About "Detectives,"

I do not see how those who sold rum could find any fault with me, for they certainly knew my views on the subject. Time and again, in town meetings, when the liquor question was under discussion, or in circulars issued when occasion required, I have stated my decided convictions that the only way to catch and convict lying rumsellers was to employ detectives. The Revenue Department of the United States has come to the same conclusion, and its officers in charge are well aware that the rumsellers would defy and cheat the govern ment out of half its dues, were it not for fear of its detective agents. When you go fishing for the DEVIL you need not be too partie uiar about the net you use, if you only catch him; and so when I started, under instructions from the voters of Quincy, to set a net for the unscrupulous rumsellers, his principal agents, I took the one which I deemed to be the best adapted for the purpose. It was the universal sentiment of those who heard the men employed when they testified on the stand, that their testimony was straightforward, and that no attempt was m any case. A "minors" were is simply amus that there was age, and he wa size; so much trusting him, i ing informed of attempt was made to conceal the truth in any case. As to the statement that the 'minors" were "great strapping fellows," it is simply amusing when the fact is known that there was only one man not of lawful age, and he was rather under the average size; so much so that one rumseller, mistrusting him, inquired his age, and upon being informed of it refused to sell to him.

About "Spying,"

I have no denial to make, and that I used a powerful field-glass is perfectly correct. The truth is that I had, not unfrequently, to fight the Devil at long range, when I could in no way get nearer, and I found that in such cases I could use a good field-glass to great advantage. Many a time, when the rumsellers thought that that cussed Faxon was nowhere near, I have seen them shaking dice on the bar with their customers for the drinks, and have watched the whiskey and lager going down their thirsty throats. The same is true of

"That Disguise,"

in which I am said to have appeared. Desiring to see for myself and to know how the business of rumselling is conducted, and whether the men employed acted fairly, I concluded to make a tour of inspection with them, and so, procuring a wig, pair of spectacles, dandy hat, and a long beard which exactly matched my own, with false eye brows, a standing collar and a mouth full of candy to disguise my voice, we started out, and the expedition proved highly satisfactory. My companions did not slop over, but took very small drinks, or purchased by the bottle, and returned perfectly sober and clearheaded. Another amusing incident of the campaign was the claim made by the licensed rumsellers, that they should be let alone be-

"Bought and Paid for their Licenses in Good Faith."

Had Officer Faxon carried out the purpose for which he was appointed, they said, they would have been the gainers; for unlicensed dealers, whom he should have prosecuted, were taking away their business. Why in the world did not those virtuous rumsellers give me points against some of those unlicensed dealers, that I might prosecute and convict them? Decidedly, the argument is too thin for any one who knows anything. The truth is that very little liquor is sold in Quincy by unlicensed dealers, and their customers are usually a class of bummers who do not know how to tell the truth except by accident. Hence the difficulty of convicting them. I did, however, by the aid of my faithful detectives, manage to secure convictions in three cases against unlicensed par-

The Cry of "Persecution."

Mr. Hodges, the chairman of the Board of Selectmen, once spoke to me about a fellow who had received a fourth-class license in a subterranean den, saying that I had better look after him. Of course I attended to the matter at once, although in order to do so I had to act as a spotter, the only way I could see into his place being through a cellar window with three small panes of glass. I distinctly saw him retailing beverages which his license strictly forbade. I was within five feet of him at the time, and saw lim help his customers to any kind of liquor they called for, taking the money and returning the change; and yet this very same individual came into court with a bloated bummer as his witness, and swore that no forbidden liquor was sold by the glass that day. To talk about catching such fellows without detectives is all nonsense, and yet if any are oyed, our Selectmen call it persecution. Whenever an earnest effort is made to convict rumsellers they raise an outcry

About "Wiles and Snares,"

but if any one can Beat a gin-mill proprietor in "ways that are dark and tricks that are vain," I have failed to find him. The idea of putting tags on jugs to represent imagi-nary customers, and having a bogus orderbook, is worthy of such geniuses, although it did not save the principal rum-peddler in Quincy. I wonder, by the way, whether his bogus invoice-book was made out on that Sunday when a certain ex-selectman was present. Surely, after his brilliant exploits in handling town funds and making permanent investments, this ex-official ought to be capable of advising a man how to sell rum and escape Faxon. At the trial of this rumseller's agent, they tried to prove, by the testimony of the driver and of a bloated chum of his who did not know enough to tell a decent lie, that the liquors sold were ordered the Saturday before by the detective. Evidence was produced, however, showing that at the time mentioned the purchasers were at work painting, a mile and a quarter away from the place where the rum-peddler said he took the order from them.

The rumsellers of Quincy and their counsel have been loud in their denunciations of

in order to obtain evidence against them, while they have been debauching thousands them-selves, and they actually have among their number a minor, located at West Quincy, who is licensed by this same virtuous Board of Selectmen to peddle rum to debauch both young and old. As to this virtuous lawyer, their counsel, who has probably forgotten about the Paige case, he is defending these destroyers of homes, for a fee which must be the measure of the extent of his virtues. Decidedly, between having recourse to such a lawyer for defence, or falling into the clutches of the law, there cannot be much choice, and those rumsellers must be in a pretty tight place who are left to that alternative. As to enticing a minor to drink by employing him, the outcry against it, however well meant, is of the same nature as the frequent warning from some of my friends, that I may have to suffer some injury on account of waging warfare against rumsellers. There is about as much chance of it as there is of the minor employed becoming a drunkard through my instrumentality. All such talk is childish in the presence of the interests involved; for what is my property, my life even, yea, what are individuals, when the destinies of thousands living now and of millions yet unborn, are at stake? I find that the most of those who fear that detectives will become drunkards, are of a class who always appear to care more for the rumsellers' interest than they do for those who are being ruined by rum. So far as the liquor dealers are concerned, why are they so horror stricken when minors are used to testify against them, when they know full well that the law expressly forbids their selling to minors? Did they not violate the law, no complaint would be made.

It was somewhat remarkable during the trials of the cases of the rumsellers brought into court, that one or both of our Democratic Selectmen were almost constant in attendance, encouraging the law-breakers, and putting obstructions in the way of right and order. One of them, Mr. Hodges, remarked to me once, for instance, pointing to my witnesses, "You ought to have their pictures taken and hung up in the rogues' gallery," whereupon I could but think how much more appropriate it would be to have in their place the portraits of our two Democratic Selectmen, with this inscription above them: The defenders of a trade which makes rogues. The least said of our Selectmen the better, and their frantic action in deposing me reminds me of the mule who kicked at the lamp-post. Nothing was damaged but the mule's own heels.

In Conclusion

it is proper for me to add to this imperfect review of my career as a special police officer to enforce the liquor law, that for various reasons I am much pleased with my experience. I only accepted the position in order to carry out a principle which I believed in, viz.: that when a license law is engrafted in the statutes of a state it should be honestly enforced. I am now more than ever convinced, therefore, that with honest officials who are bound to do their duty, sixty per cent. of the woe and misery, which are now the result of the traffic, can be stopped, and whenever I hear the authorities of any city or town in the Commonwealth saying that the liquor law cannot be enforced, I know that they are cowards and unfit to fill the positions into which, in most instances, they have forced themselves. In Quincy, during the short term of my service as spe cial officer, out of thirty writs issued, nineteen different rumsellers were complained of; a pretty good showing, especially as before moving against any of them I took pains to send every licensed dealer in the town a copy of the Screen-law, that none might plead ignorance for not living up to its require ments. Had the Selectmen only given me a hint that I was not active enough, or too partial, I could have put in from seventy-five to one hundred more complaints which I had booked. I thought best, however, not to blockade the court room during dogdays, although, as it was, and the judge and clerk made the state ment more than once that twelve cases at a time might fairly be considered an allopathic dose. I am satisfied that the people of Quincy, at least, will want no better evidence that I have done my duty than the complaints of the rumsellers that my methods of enforcing the liquor law did not suit them. It is easy to criticise public officials, or worse still to damn them with faint praise, and it is humiliating for me to state, as an other result of my experience as a special police officer, that I have received more real encouragement from men who do not pretend to be temperate, than from the generality of those who compose the temperance party. It is sad to think that because we differ about methods we cannot bid each other hearty God-speed, while rumsellers and all who sympathize with them are united. and striving to profit by every advantage which they can obtain. Let us learn from our foes, and although our present law may not be all we desire, let us enforce it to the letter, and compel every rumseller to live up to it. We can all do this to a certain extent, and for my part can truly say, that, believing as I do, that the entire rum traffic is based on lies, I am resolved to fight it everywhere, and especially in Quincy, my place of residence. Although I may no longer have official authority, I am bound to make it hot for the rumsellers in the future, even hotter than I have in the past.

I Made it Pretty Sultry,

In any town controlled by men and ruled by officials who care more for the interests of rum-sellers than for the welfare of the people, crime, pauperism, and high taxation must prevail, and its morals degenerate.

The following is a list of the licensed rumsellers of Quincy, with their bondsmen, most of whom are the undertow of the Democratic Party, whose convention resolutions would be incomplete unless they contained an endorsement of the liquor traffic.

THE CUNNING OF RUMSELLERS, AND HOW THEY MANAGE TO CONTROL POLITICIANS AND TOWN OFFICIALS.

it is very important to those interested in the rum-trade, that their business should not be interfered with; and one is astonished to notice, at times, with what subtle cunning they wind their webs around those men, who aspire to political positions, and who are perfectly unscrupulous as to the methods they resort to, if only they can obtain office, the summit of their ambition. Rumsellers seldom forget a promise made to them, and whenever they give their votes and influence to any one, they manage, somehow, to own him, body and soul; and the politician who owes his position to them, soon finds himself the slave of Satan and his followers, who always accomplish their ends by deceit and ruin. Thus, in Quincy, I have often seen rumsellers in close communion with our town officials, probably making terms with them for their votes and support, and so corrupting the very element which ought to be the purest Such conduct, however, on the part of men who dishonor the positions they fill, is sure to react upon and defeat them, in the

OUR SELECTMEN AND THE LICENSE QUESTION.-QUEER TESTIMONY GIVEN IN RUM CASES BY SELF-CONVICTED TOWN OFFICIALS.

The more our selectmen flounder about, with the license question, the deeper they get into the mud of uncertainty. Their efforts to bolster up rum, "the sum of all villainies," by the pretense of a license law, have proved a lamentable failure, benefitting none, except the few dram-sellers they were bound to serve. And yet, owing, as they do, their positions to the rum-oligarchy, by which they were elected to office, our selectmen have the cheek to say to the citizens of Quincy, that granting licenses to sell rum promotes temperance. The methods and tricks resorted to by the rumsellers to defeat the laws affecting their business, cannot be enumerated, and when they are protected by town officials, it is hard to obtain convictions. Indeed, it is difficult to tell, sometimes, who appear the most anxious to render the law a dead letter, practically - the rumsellers, or the authorities. Thus, the testimony given at the trials of Quincy rumsellers, by some of our officials who seemed anxious only to protect them, was sufficient to convict the selectmen, as well as the rumsellers, reminding one of the Scripture-saying, "Out of thine own mouth will I judge thee, thou wicked servant." One of our town fathers, for instance, wishing to prove that a certain prominent rumseller kept a decent place, testified that he spoke from his own personal knowledge, as he often called there, to collect ice bills. Perhaps the frequent calls of the rumseller upon that official, and the repeated interviews between them, were for the purpose of paying those, - or other debts of gratitude!

A PET SCHEME TO REDUCE THE EVILS

WORKS, IN QUINCY. One of the arguments, which the advocates of license frequently advance, in favor of their pet scheme, "to reduce the evils of intemperance," (?) is, that under the license law, purer liquors are sold Wishing to test the matter while I held the position of special police officer, appointed by the selectmen of Quincy "to enforce the laws regulating the sale of intoxicating liquors," I applied to the honorable board for authority to take samples of liquors, for the purpose of having them analyzed. In order to save their minds from any legal strain, I presented them with a form similar to that used by the Board of Police Commissioners, in Boston, conferring that power upon the officers, intrusted by them with the enforcement-would it not be more according to truth to say non-enforcement? - of the liquor law in that city. In answer to my application, I received the following note, which explains itself: -

QUINCY, June 11, 1881.

Mr. H. H. FAXON: Sir,-The Board of Selectmen, at their meeting, held this day, considered your request for further powers as special constable, and decline to grant the same.

Respectfully yours, A. SAMPSON, Secretary.

It will thus be seen, that these zealeus guardians of our town's welfare, and earnest advocates of a license law, "because it reduces the evils of intemperance," did not even care enough for the welfare of the drinkers, to see that they had pure liquors The fact is, that the welfare of the drinkers is only a secondary consideration with our selectmen who seem to care only for the sellers, if we are to judge them by their actions, which speak louder than words. We are told in Holy Writ, that the Lord, on a certain occasion, put words in the mouth of the animal which Balaam, the prophet, was riding, to rebuke him in his wrong course; but our selectmen do not seem likely to ever have the benefit of such miraculously inspired counsel, being influenced by a power very different, both in its origin and manifestations.

THE POLICE NEEDED TO RENDER EFFEC-TIVE THE LAWS RELATING TO THE SALE OF INTOXICATING LIQUORS.

Another favorite argument of the advocates of license, and one upon which they are continually harping, is the assertion that prohibition is a failure; while, as a matter of fact, it is not the law, be it prohibition or license, which is a failure, but its execution; when the authorities, whose duty it should be to enforce all laws upon the statute books, close their eyes to the violation of restrictive liquor laws. We are constantly hearing about the need of an increased police force, both in cities and towns, but so long as mayors and selectmen are controlled by the rum power, no increase of police will amount to anything, except to add to the number of tools in the hands of the dram-sellers, to manipulate caucuses and drum up tramp-voters, whose poll-taxes have been paid by those who have; an interest in perpetuating sin in office. Not until the police, in both cities and towns, are appointed by some agency outside the local influence of the dramshops and the power of the rum-traffic, shall we have the laws regulating the sale of intoxicating drinks enforced; especially in those cities and towns where the friends of rum control both the nominations and the elections.

RUM AS THE CAUSE OF POVERTY AND CRIME. - FACTS AND FIGURES FOR QUINCY VOTERS TO CONSIDER.

It is a fact, and it is no use to try to disguise it, that rum is the cause, direct or indirect, of most of the poverty and crime in the world. Careful investigations, made by charitable associations, not only in Quincy, but in other towns and cities, plainly show that more than three-fourths of all the cases which have had to be relieved, were brought to their condition of wretchedness by the use of intoxicating drinks. The daily papers teem with the harrowing details of brutal and fiendish deeds, inspired and committed under the influence of rum. Our own town of Quincy has expended - I give the exact figures -$11,350.11 for the support of her poor during the past year, besides $10,214.08 for a new alms-house. It is no wonder that the burden should make the tax payers groan, especially when they realize that in addition to all this, over $150,000 have been spent for that blue ruin, which has well been called "distilled damnation," retailed by about fifty licensed and unlicensed dealers, including that purchased by expressmen on orders. This accursed stuff entails untold misery upon hundreds of our citizens, while the miserable wretches who sold the villainous beverage, which makes paupers and necessitates alms-houses, paid to the town only $3,302 for the privilege, and one-fourth of that comparatively paltry amount goes into the treasury of the Commonwealth.

WHY OUR TOWN OFFICIALS DO NOT INQUIRE INTO THE CAUSES OF PAUPERISM, AND WHY THEY REFUSE TO AID IN CON-VICTING RUMSELLERS.

Some of our people have expressed considerable astonishment that the fathers of the town should have turned the cold shoulder upon the recent effort to organize our associated charities in Quincy, as in other places, but the figures just given furnish the true explanation of their course. They dare not help any movement which would lead to an investigation into the causes of pauperism and wretchedness, as it might open the eyes of the people by showing them how strong drink is at the bottom of it all; and that would hurt the rumsellers, and perhaps compel some of those who hanker after offices, to take back seats. That such is the case their actions appear to prove beyond a doubt. Had our selectmen only encouraged the courts, and aided in convicting the rumsellers, instead of appearing in their interest, as they did, every dramshop in the town might have been closed long ago. But such never was their design, and they have proved themselves the guardians, not of the law, but of the rumsellers.

Whenever private citizens talk to them about enforcing the laws, they fall back upon their dignity, and answer that any private citizen can do it just as well as they, while they are aware all the time that it is impossible for even special officers to restrain crime, when the powers that be help the criminal. However earnestly one may feel, he is apt to become disgusted after being snubbed a few times, especially when he finds opposition where he had the right to expect aid.

THE MCTLEY CROWD ALWAYS ON HAND WHEN LIQUOR CASES ARE IN COURT. GOOD PEOPLE SHOULD ATTEND, TO ENCOURAGE THOSE WHO TRY TO ENFORCE THE LAW.

Whenever a rum case comes before the court, the room is usually filled with a crowd of bloated loafers, whose breath is worse than the stench of a brewery - the result of the second fermentation of the beer and rot-gut with which their stomachs are filled. Among this motley crowd may usually be seen the politicians who pull wires in Democratic caucuses - the same men who at the polls peddle votes for their favorite candidates, with tickets marked "Good for a Drink," to influence those who need the Democratic stimulant which holds the party together, whatever it may have to do with the standing of its individual members. I am very sorry to say that few earnest temperance men take pains to attend those trials, although their presence would cheer the judge who has to lay down the law, and the officers who try to enforce it. The fanatics, who can only entertain one idea at a time, never are present; but usually remain outside, finding fault with the court and all its officers, for not doing things according to their narrow views, while they themselves seldom attend caucuses and conventions, but abuse those who do go and so try to control political action that the suppression of the great curse of mankind may be brought about.

THE SCREEN LAW, AND WHY RUMSEL-LERS OBJECT TO IT.

My short experience as a police officer has taught me, among other things, that if licenses are to be granted, the screen law is one of the best statutes ever enacted; provided upright men are elected as officials. who will care more for protecting good citizens than securing rumsellers' influence and votes. The case is very different, however, with a board of selectmen who license underground dens, or a spot seven feet square, covered by obstructions, in the center of a high-toned grocery store; or, again, some back room, so protected on all sides, that no officer can look in without being seen. It is just what the rumsellers want; and their claim that they need to have their blinds closed in order to keep out the sun, although it may seem innocent to those unacquainted with their methods, is simply a plea for the privilege of keeping the sunlight of happiness from a thousand homes, through their death-dealing business. Theirs is a work of darkness, and it is no wonder that it should seek to hide itself behind blinds and screens. Well do the proprietors of dram-shops know this, and about the first thing a rumseller does, in starting business, is to try to secure from observation his methods of running his paupermill. I was often amused, when visiting the rum-shops as an officer, to hear the proprietors begging that they might be allowed to close their shutters, for their own protection. They seemed sorely troubled lest some one should steal their stock, consisting usually of only a few dollars' worth of Jersey lightning; while the truth was, that its quality insured its safety, for it would have proved as sure death to the thief who partook, as a loaded pistol discharged at his head. The rumseller's neighbors are, in reality, more in danger than he, from the depredations of the crowd of drunken bummers he turns out of his den, after all their money has passed from their pockets into his till.

A certain rumseller I once visited, was very anxious to have his blinds closed lest his windows should be broken, while he evidently feared trouble more from his customers inside, than from those outside, for the very shutters he was so desirous to keep closed were inside the windows, and could be no protection against glass-breaking from the outside. As a general thing, besides their front bar-room, where they sell their poisons, rumsellers are very careful to secure a back-room, in which to keep their boozy customers out of sight, while by playing billiards, sippio, poker, or some other game. they secure what loose cash they may have left in their pockets.

RUMSELLERS GROW RICH BY IMPOVER-ISHING THEIR CUSTOMERS .- A CON-TRAST BETWEEN THEM AND THEIR VICTIMS.

No man engages in the liquor business save from the love of gain. He wants money, and must have it, no matter who suffers from it, and when he has once obtained it he seems to take a special delight in flaunting the tokens of his success in the faces of his victims. Thus, the rumseller's wife may have a piano in her parlor to entertain her friends, and on winter days she usually wears a seal-skin sacque to protect her from the cold; while the wives of her husband's customers, impoverished by the traffic which pays for those luxuries, have to stand at the wash-tub, making music on the scrubbing-board, and, when cold weather comes, they and their unfortunate children shiver, half clad, in the wintry

Every luxury enjoyed by the rumseller and his family comes out of those who patronize his bar; hence, while he takes his comfort napping in his easy-chair, or riding in his top buggy, drawn by a clipped horse with a gold-mounted harness, his customers make music with their wood-saws, or trudge along on foot, with bare toes sticking out of their worn-out boots or shoes. Of the two, however, other things being equal, the poor wretch in rags is often the better man, with more brains and better abilities than the vampire who is fattening upon his life's blood. It does not require much of a man to make a rumseller, and every lazy bummer who thinks that the world owes him a living, which he is bound to get, though he may have only a small amount of wit or ability usually has enough to start a dramshop or tend a bar. Intelligence and principle are not among the requirements needed in the rum business.

DEMORALIZING EFFECTS OF THE RUM TRAFFIC,-A SPECIMEN OF TWEEDISM.

It is no wonder that a business of such a nature as the rum traffic, and conducted by such men as those who engage in it, should nave a demoralizing effect upon the entire community; or that our ancient town of Quincy, which is historical for being the natal spot and resting-place of two chief magistrates of this nation which they served with honor and fidelity, should become famous in these latter days for having produced an official whose bookkeeping propensities might well have rivalled the great Tweed himself, had he had a larger field to work in. As a specimen of the unblushing cheek with which he braved the matter out, it is enough to say that when asked to explain his shortcomings in a town-meeting, he boldly stood upon the platform, frankly acknowledged that he had taken a part of the amount which was claimed from him, and said he should do so again were he elected to the same office. The result was that, although he was not a candidate, he received 296 votes,-a bad showing for the moral sensibilities of those who thus indorsed his wrong-doing, so willfully per-

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY AS AN UPHOLDER OF RUMSELLING.

In the case just mentioned, those who voted for an unfaithful official, although he made no profession of reform or improvement, were mostly Democrats. My views of political parties and measures are so well known that I need not speak of them here. It is my firm belief, however, that the power which fosters and perpetuates the rum-traffic centers in the Democratic party. This power seeks that party as instinctively as geese turn toward the South, in autumn. Every sucker which shoots from the parent stem, the dram-shop, is sure to grow up in the faith of his fathers. Hence, when the Democracy, as a party, takes every occasion to declare itself against all sumptuary laws, as it calls them, meaning by it all laws in any way restrictang the sale of liquors, -it merely carries out the wishes of its members whose leaders congregate in the rumshops to manipulate politics. It is for that reason that the Police Commissioners of Boston, for instance, allow rumsellers to screen their business, in violation of the law, because the rum business controls the politics of that city, making law a farce and a cheat. Those officials prefer to wink at sin rather than to put it down.

What is true of Boston is true also of cities in general; and thus the rum power centers in the cities, and in the large suburban towns, three-fourths of all their representatives in the halls of legislation fighting and voting against all measures to restrict

A WARNING TO OUR ADOPTED

CITIZENS. During the past ten years I have frequently spoken of our adopted citizens as being responsible for the sale and use of intoxicating liquors in Quincy; I am sorry to say that I have seen no reason to change my mind yet. Both the criminals brought before the courts, and the patrons of the rum-shops, are still largely composed of those of foreign birth or parentage, and yet our adopted citizens let the curse go on. More amazing, even, they support the Democratic party, headed by aspiring Yankees. who occasionally tickle their pride by putting their names upon ballots, while they tickle themselves by scratching them off before they cast their votes! In my summing up of town affairs last year, I spoke quite plainly about this matter, warning our adopted citizens that the professions of their would-be friends were not sincere. The event has proved that I was right, for although the names of nine men of foreign birth were on the Democratic ticket, NOT ONE of them was elected. One of the most prominent Democrats in town said to me. speaking of this, - and, as facts show, he gave expression to the feelings of his party - "I did not vote for an Irishman, and I do not intend to." I have received considerable abuse, first and last, for speaking plainly about our naturalized citizens, while those who have humbugged them, although pretending to pet them, have secured both their approval and their votes. I do not care for this, however,-"Truth is mighty, and must prevail," and the day will come, when the eyes of our adopted fellowcitizens will be opened, so that they may see who their true friends are, and no longer allow themselves to be used by rumsellers and wily politicians, to carry out their selfish schemes.

IN CONCLUSION.

I have only to say that although the plain statement of facts I have just made may seem too outspoken to do all the good desired, still, I may be allowed to indulge the hope that, like a plow in stubborn soil, it will uproot some of the standing evils which afflict our town. At least, when, in the future, the burdens from the sin of rumselling have become too heavy to bear, it shall not be said that I did not raise a warning voice.

Quincy, March 3, 1882.

CUINCY, MASS., TOWN MEETINGS

The Adjourned Annual and a Special.

$1,000 for the Enforcement of the Liquor Laws.

ART. 12. To see if the town will instruct the Selectmen to appoint special police offi-cers to enforce all laws bearing upon the sale of intoxicating liquors, and appropriate money therefor.

The committee recommended $1,000. W. G. A. Pattee asked what was the necessity of increasing the appropriation of last year, when it was but $500.

Henry H. Faxon replied to Mr. Pattee as follows: "I expected opposition from the Judas Iscariot who betrays the homes of Quincy into the hands of the rum-power for thirty pieces of silver or a mess of political pottage. This is a battle for the mothers and children against the saloons; and were it not for the lawyers who co-operate with the rum-sellers and their lying patrons, the contest would have ended long ago. As far as I am concerned it is immaterial whether you make an appropriation or not; but in the event of my death, or disability, funds will be needed for those who shall continue this work. It is not to be expected that there are many blessed with an abundance of this world's goods, who will rise and battle against the worst class of scoundrels that infests and curses the state and the nation. Three years' enforcement of the law has saved the town not less than $350,000, and has established peace, plenty, and thrift in many a home where strife and poverty existed, and would now exist, had you not put the seal of condemnation upon the iniquitous traffic. The gentleman objects to raising the paltry sum of $1,000 to put down this g.gantic curse! Let us notice the cost for police in other towns and cities most of which contain about the same population as Quincy:-

		Population in 1880.	Expenses in 1884 or appropria tions for 1885
Nahant		808	$2,000.00
Hyde Park .		. 7,090	2,500.00
Peabody			6,725.00
Marlboro		. 10,126	3,197.19
Quincy		. 10,529	587.00
Weymouth			2,800.00
Woburn		. 10,938	5,734.80
Chicopee		. 11,325	7,269.00
Waltham		. 11,711	8,460.00
Northampton		. 12,172	3,000.00
Fitchburg		. 12,429	10,998.42
New Bedford		26,845	44,000.00

The reduction in the amount expended for the support of the poor, must convince every one of the importance of having honest officials to enforce the law of prohibition. The report of the committee in the care of town poor for the year 1882, shows that $15,415.07 (including $2,500 in bills left over in 1881 and 1882) were expended, while this year the amount is only $5,533.50. Not only is the town relieved by this advent of sobriety, but also boards of charities and individuals. There have been fewer calls upon me, by needy persons, during the past year than for any similar period in the last ten years. Stop the abuses arising from the use of intoxicating liquors, and almshouses will be things of the past. With all these facts staring us in the face, this legal gentleman is striving to make you believe that $1,000 need not be raised; while at the same time he is devoting his energies for pay, to protect those who defy the law, and is also seeking to elect officials who favor license laws which he knows they will not enforce." He refused to give up the floor to Mr. Pattee during his remarks, and went on to praise the police force, saving it was one of the best organized in any of the towns of the State

Mr. Pattee said he understood that there was a cat in the meal (Faxon said, "Let her out"); and Mr. Pattee went on to say that he understood an ex-officer of Weymouth was desirous of coming here to enforce the liquor laws, and that if the additional $500 was voted he would come. He said he supposed Mr. Faxon had received praise for his temperance efforts, closing the only hotel Quincy had, prosecuting those who tried to conform to the law, etc. He moved $500 as an amendment to the recommendation.

Mr. Faxon again replied. He did not propose to have a rum-shop under the disguise of a hotel. He believed a hotel could be run without selling rum, and had offered a man $500 to help him out if he did not succeed. He did not propose to get an out-of-town officer, as his brother officers were always ready to help him.

The amendent was defeated, and the following vote passed:-That the Selectmen be instructed to appoint special officers to enforce all laws bearing on the sale of intoxicating liquors in this town; and that $1,000 be appropriated for that purpose. - Quincy Patriot, March 28, 1885.

The preceding documents relate to the condition of Quincy in the early days of the Temperance Reform.

H. H. FAXON AGAINST GRANTING LICENSES.

ART. 17 of the warrant read as follows:-"To see if the town will instruct the Selectmen not to issue any licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage during the ensuing year."

At the Adjourned Annual Town Meeting when the above Article was taken up, Mr. Faxon said: "I do not propose to give you a temperance lecture, but desire to consider this matter from a business standpoint. I have the names of seventy-three persons who have been helped by the town, in which liquor has been the direct or indirect cause of their poverty. I hope the town will take a vote, and that the selectmen will heed it. I believe this is the only town in the Commonwealth where the selectmen have ignored the vote of the town meeting on this question. Out of the seventy-three who have been helped by the town, eighteen owe me for rent. I can call to mind two parties whom the town helped during the past year. One took the bag of flour which was given him by the selectmen and sold it for rum; the other was given an order for sugar, and after receiving it he carried it to a rum-shop, and perhaps his rum was sweetened with the very sugar he bought it with. In too many instances if you give the poor anything, they will sell it for rum. This traffic entails untold misery upon us, and we do not only find the pauper money to buy his rum, but sibility rests upon them, and not upon us. "$1,000 will support all the poor of the town out of the almshouse if no rum is sold; and if the town does not want to pay that amount, I will draw my check for $1,000 if you will only stop this accursed traffic. We hear it said, 'You cannot put down the traffic.' You can put down the traffic if you put on a force of officers who are not afraid to do their duty.

I would have made it hot for some of the rum-sellers if I had been appointed. The selectmen knew that I meant business, and that is the reason they did not appoint me. The selectmen who stand up and say they cannot stop this business are cowards, and not fit to be selectmen.

ADJOURNED MEETING.

A Shrewd Move by the No-License Voters. Henry H. Faxon Elected Constable and Agent.

[From the Quincy Patriot, March 27, 1886)

THEOPHILUS KING moved to take up Article 2 of the warrant, to choose town officers, and proceed to the election of an additional constable, there being a serious question whether the Selectmen would reappoint Officer Faxon to enforce the liquor laws.

W. G. A. Pattee raised a point of order that the town having voted to elect fourteen constables, that vote should be reconsidered

Edwin W. Marsh did not think the point well taken, and gave instances where it was voted to have committees, of three, five, or ten and afterward had added an additional

The Moderator thought Mr. Pattee's point well taken.

On a motion of Mr. King, it was voted to reconsider the vote whereby the town had voted to choose fourteen constables.

It was then voted to proceed to the election of an additional constable. The Selectmen were appointed tellers to receive, sort, and count the ballots.

Voted to close the polls at 1.35 P. M. The result of the ballot was as follows:-Whole number of votes cast,

Henry H. Faxon had 115 Theophilus King

And Mr. Faxon was declared elected.

ART. 12. To see if the town will instruct the Selectmen to appoint Police Officers to enforce all laws bearing upon the sale of in-toxicating liquors, and appropriate $1,000

The Committee recommended,-That the Selectmen are hereby instructed to appoint a suitable number of police officers to enforce within the town all laws bearing upon the sale of intoxicating liquors, and the sum of one thousand dollars is hereby appropriated to pay for such service.

Charles H. Porter moved as a substitute: That the town appropriate $1,000 for the enforcement of the laws relating to the sale of intoxicating liquors, and Henry H. Faxon is hereby declared to be the agent of the town for the enforcement of said law under said

George Cahill wished to hear from the Committee on Warrant.

W. G. A. Pattee thought it unfair of one of the members of that Committee to move such a motion without having given intimation of such to the Committee.

Theophilus King favored Mr. Porter's substitute, and seconded the motion.

George Cahill opposed.

W. G. A. Pattee said if no member of the Committee would stand by their report that he would. If the substitute motion passed, it would be a direct fling at the officers the town has chosen, - as much as to say they were incompetent. It was an injustice. Could not Mr. Hodges, Mr. Field. and Mr. Eaton be trusted? It was bad faith for a member of the Committee to make such a motion.

James E. Tirrell said the Selectmen were servants of the town, and were to carry out the vote of the people. It would not be a fling at them to pass the substitute. The Committee on Warrant had no power. It simply recommended. It was the will of the people to have Mr. Faxon reappointed.

Charles H. Porter thought the committee could act individually, and under the emergency that had arisen he would be justified in so doing. He wanted to cast a direct vote in favor of Mr. Faxon, and he would be proud to do so. The squirming of the liquor interests under the proposition was because Officer Faxon had been faithful and honest.

Henry H. Faxon said he had not intended to take part in the discussion of this article, but being drawn into it he would say:-

Mr. Moderator: This motion is made in the interests of harmony. The past action of a majority of the present Board of Selectmen has fully demonstrated to me that their views regarding the sale of intexicating liquors differ widely from mine. The vote at the recent election of 1017 No to 258 Yes, unequivocally demonstrated that the voters are satisfied with the results of the enforcement of the law. I am willing to continue the work as a police officer or as a private citizen, just as you shall elect. I prefer to be a police officer, but if I am to be continually hampered in the performance of my duties by the Board of Selectmen, I would rather wage war as a private citizen.

I do not court controversy with these gentlemen, but they began hostilities at the start by laying the matter of my reappointment on the table. Such an act I protest against. It is simply a political reminder that an attempt will be made to keep me "on the table," against the expressed wish of the 1017 who voted no license. Let it be distinctly understood that I am working i the interest of political parties, only so far as to elect officials who will protect the families of the town against a marauding band of rum-sellers and their political tools.

I hope that the motion will pass, and thus aid me in the good work which has proved of such vital importance to the people of Quincy. It is a shame, Mr. Moderator and fellow-citizens, that any move should have been made in the election of officials, whereby the continuance of the good work which I feel that I have rendered you in past years should be jeopardized. Men must be judged by their actions in the past, and not by what they promise to do in the future.

I do not propose to kneel before any Board of Selectmen and beg for an appointment, but considering the services I have rendered, I certainly deserve fair treatment from every citizen whethas the welfare of the people at heart. Were it not for the wives and mothers who have called upon me and implored me to continue my warfare against the giant evil which was depriving them of the comforts, and often of the necessities of life, I would have given up the work long

I have a sensitive place in my make-up, and it requires all of my nerve to keep it in subjection when I find that the voters of the town weaken rather than strengthen my position in the great struggle for right. If the voters of the town ever permit its affairs to again pass into the hands of officials who have heeded the appeals of the rum-sellers instead of those of the law-abiding citizens, then again will poverty increase, debts accumulate, criminals have full play, and every interest tending to elevate the town be blotted out by corruption.

Mr. Moderator and friends, in traveling over the great highway of life, I have made many sacrifices for others; but I shall feel more than repaid if I can but think that I have helped set aloft some beacon light of right to guide and cheer those who shall come after me.

George Cahill thought the motion was an unprecedented one, and was undoing the action of the annual meeting. The substitute of Mr. Porter was put and carried by a large majority.

Mr. Cahill moved that the recommendation of the committee as amended be indefinitely postponed. Patrick McDonnell hoped the meeting would vote for law and order, and agents to enforce it. The recommendation as amended passed by a large majority.

He pluckily stayed at his post and reversed his engine, but the momentum was so great that the heavy freight could not stop, and, with a deafening crash, it struck the "Flyer." Engineer Niles fell amid the wreck, a heroic martyr to duty, and was so badly injured that he cannot

The engine's cab was torn off, but the boiler was not injured. The tender was thrown on top of the wreck. The next car to the tender was thrown from the track into a ditch, the car next to this was telescoped, and the car following this was thrown diagonally across the track. All the cars were badly smashed. The dining car at the rear of the passenger train was detached from the train. It chanced to have no occupants, and a terrible loss of life was therefore avoided. As the car received the full force of the shock, it was not only smashed into splinters, but was burned as well. No passengers were injured.

District Attorney Allen will in a few days confer with the court in relation to again summoning the jury. Lawyer Hyde, counsel for Mr. Potter, with Mr. Allen, conferred with Justice Putnam in the judges' lobby in reference to preparing the exceptions of Potter to the decision of his honor on the indictment charging Potter with making false entries in the books of the bank. These exceptions, when put into shape, will be argued and passed upon by the United States supreme court. The pendency of the exceptions will not retard or defer a trial before a jury on the merits of the sustained counts of the indictment. No sentence, however, could be imposed upon Potter if he should be found guilty, with the exceptions still remaining on the docket.

Favorable Wash Day. Editors of the Daily Ledger:

Ferhaps there is no day in which the majority of housekeepers take such an interest as in Monday. It is true, that in these changing years, many have taken other days for the week's washing, but so many unite even yet upon Monday that fair weather is earnestly desired on that day, though it storms all the rest of the week. Again it is so natural to forget all the blessings we enjoy, that there will be no end of complaining among the class referred to, as the winter season brings its share of stormy Mondays. For these reasons, it is desired to call attention to the fact, that there has been a very long the fact, that there has been a very long the fact, that there has been a very long the fact, that there has been a very long the fact, that there has been a very long the fact, that there has been a very long the fact, that there has been a very long the fact, that there has been a very long the fact, that there has been a very long the fact, that there has been a very long the fact, that there has been a very long the fact of the fact, that there has been a very long the fact, that there has been a very long the fact of the fact, that there has been a very long the fact of the the fact, that there has been a very long no demand. line of pleasant Mondays, broken only by November 28.

Its position has been accurately measured by Professor Schae-perle, with a meridian circle, and by Professor Barnard with a twelve-inch telescope. The latter has also secured a good photograph of the comet. Mr. May Meet with Opposition from Campbell has observed its spectrum visually and photographically with the great equatorial.

The observations show that in many respects it is the most remarkable comet of recent years. On Nov. 8 its diameter was one-sixth of that of the moon. It was so schemes are being discussed by the Demo-eratic leaders as they drop in here for the raising of the increased revenue required ball, called the coma, was a nucleus slightly elongated. Diverging from this, in the direction of the sun, was a dense fanlike structure which could be traced up to the edge of the coma, and it was visible even to the edge when the bright coma was just outside the teleopposition, as has the scheme for a gradu- scope. This structure was the tail, which give a continuous spectrum, but underlying this there is certainly a trace of the green band, in which observations differ from others reported.

The apparent size has increased until now it is two-thirds the districter of the moon. It is quite diffused and appears like an ordinary comet. Though it has grown larger it has also grown fainter and is barely visible to the unassisted eye. Computers agree that it is not Biela's comet and that it is neither close to nor approaching the earth

A FORTUNE FOUND IN SOAP.

How a Brakeman Discovered a Swede's Hoarded Gold.

Mr. Runey, in conversation with a number of travelers, told the following story, which he says actually occurred in his presence while en route on a Great Northern freight train near Morris, Minn.: I boarded a freight train at Hancock, (he began) en route to Breckenridge. There were about forty hobos on board the box cars. I arranged with three brakemen to make the rounds and see if they couldn't be made to put up for their ride. I acted the part of the conductor, while the trainmen followed out my instructions. We went from one car to another until we had visited all but one. Few failed to comply with our request, but showed hostility, and would doubtless have taken the advantage of our small number had I not provided myself with a gun, which protruded in full view from my coat pocket. The last car we visited was partially loaded with lime, and between the barrels we found two Swedes who handled the American language in the most humorous manner. We informed them they would necessarily have to pay for their ride or get off at the next station, to which the spokesman replied: "Vwe don't gat no muny. Vwe bane com from Nort Docota, und vork purty hard and gats no muny."

"Where do you want to go?" asked brakeman. "Vwe vant tu go to Mainopolis."

"You are headed in the wrong direct ion," returned the brakeman. "Val, vwe go tu Brekenridge und vwe den go ast. Vwe no mane dare ho ba gude faller und let us rade." The brakeman was not satisfied with the Swedes' statements that they were moneyless, so they were searched. While the searching was going on one of the Swedes said again:

"Vwe don't gate nu muny. Sopuse wwe ly 'bout laddle ting like date?" The brakeman, being satisfied that there was no money on their persons. was about to withdraw from the car when he discovered a small bundle in the corner of the car tied up with a handkerchief. The bundle was examined. A pair of old socks and several rags were tightly wrapped around a piece of soap about three by six inches in size. The brakeman said he guessed he would take the soap anyway, as he could use it himself. Here the Swedes made a robust protest, saying, "No. wwe don't vant you tu take dote sope.'

he brakeman. "Vwe vant da sope for vash wid bafur we gate in Mainopolis." "What do you expect to do in Minne polis?" said the brakeman.

"What good is the soap to you?" asked

"Vwe tank vwe ville gate leddle vork tu du dare, as a ba prutty gude toun." The brakeman then said he would do the fair thing and only take half the soap, to which the Swedes begged earnestly for him to leave the soap. The brakeman took the cake over his knee and broke it through the center, and lo to the amazement of all, a twenty dollar gold piece rolled out. By this time the Swedes were nearly wild, and their ejaculations were side splitting in the extreme. The soap was then cut into bits and $200 in gold coin, consisting of twenties, tens and fives, taken out. The Swedes had adopted this strange method of safely disguising their possessions; but, as misfortune had it, their novel idea failed. It is needless to say that the brakeman appropriated one of the shining pieces for his own use, to the heartrending dismay of the sons of Sweden, Argus.

Dress Goods from Spirit Land. "A conductor on the International and Great Northern once told me a queer story," remarked Ezra Morgan at the duplicated. his run was from Galveston to Willis, Tex. He said that shortly after his marriage he made a compact with his wife that whichever died first should appear to the other. She only lived about a year, and shortly after her demise, while he was sitting reading one evening, she walked up to him and laid her hand on his shoulder. She talked with him a few minutes as freely as though in the flesh; then, picking up a pair of shears that laid on the table, said: 'After I am WINDOW SHADES The Brockton Shutter Worker gone you may doubt that I appeared to you. ### APOLLO IN BRONZE.

Ninette Brown was a young lady of decidedly romantic tendencies.

She had been named Nancy, but as she entered upon her sweet sixteenth year she decided to call herself Nannette, and finally abbreviated it to Ni-

Her mother called her Ninette when she could remember to do so, but her father insisted upon plain Nancy.

Her father also favored George Smith, a young farmer, as one of Ninette's suitors. George was a tall, strong, industrious fellow, with plenty of common sense and not a particle of romance about him. Because of his lack of the latter Ninette treated him in a way which sometimes made his heartache.

"I shall never marry George Smith. I look higher than a farmer," she said to her father one evening when he was ex-

Mrs. Elkins in cashier had grabbed a pistol in the bank reply wrote: "We are going to a seashore resort very soon. If you will go with us and take charge of little Sadie we may be able to find a situation for you after the summer season if you still desire it.

Ninette at last gained her father's consent to go. He said he "had been pestered long enough." The journey was made. The Elkins family were established in a suite at "The Golden," situated on a way down coast of Maine Ninette would have been quite lonely

"How do you know but he is already married?" asked Mary, who was seldom practical.

"I don't believe he is. I watched to try and see who came from the room. But you know Mrs. Elkins does not allow us to keep our doors open, so I don't have a very good chance.

"If you hear him again just let me know, will you? I will come to listen if

That night no melodious sounds issued from the room, but on the following evening the grand voice broke forth and Ninette and Mary listened with breathless attention.

"I just wish I knew who has that room," exclaimed Mary, "but I don't dare ask anybody. It would cost me my place if Mrs. Elkins knew that I was prying around anything or anybody."

"We must watch all the time. I feel sure he is my hero!" and foolish Ninette thought of the unknown singer while she basted Miss Sadie's ruffles. Day after day passed, and Ninette fed her romance upon the snatches of song which came from the room of her hero. One morning Ninette was passing through the corridor. The door of her hero's room opened and she saw a form pass out. She could not see his face, but he was tall, admirably proportioned and carried himself gracefully. Ninette

"Oh, I've seen him! I've seen him!" she whispered excitedly to Mary.

"Yes, I do!" said Ninette, half crying, "and I wish, George Smith, you would go away and not bother me any more!' And she turned resolutely from him. George turned toward her. He had great courage and perseverance, and said between his set lips: "I will not go away. I will stay here and watch over you. If the man is all right, well and good; if not, I will not let you come to harm." And he hurried away to a pile of rocks and seated himself to think the matter over.

Nearly a week passed. George re mained at the Golden and occasionally s'pose you expect to get one o' them 'ere joined Ninette on the beach. One would have thought he had forgotten he ever loved Ninette. He was simply kind and helpful, and Ninette began to enjoy his society now that he was apparently no longer her lover.

It was nearly time for their departure. Ninette and George were looking over some shells together. George heard Ninette catch her breath in a short gasp. She confided this desire by letter to He looked down at her quickly. Her face was flushing and paling by turns.

Following the direction of her glance, he saw a man standing on a rock at a little distance from them. His tall, fine form was clearly outlined as he stood there, looking away over the ocean. "Ninette-tell me-is that the man?"

Ninette blushed. George needed no other answer. "Looks well as he stands there!

wish he would turn around so I could see his face.' So did Ninette. Instead of turning around he swung himself down the rocks and was hidden from view. George arose and looked over the edge. Ninette sat still, but watched

George anxiously. "He is coming out this way, and I think he will come out by this opening. There is no other place for him to pass

George dropped back into the niche where he had been sitting, and Ninette awaited the appearance of her Apollo. A little movement near her caused Ninette to turn her head. She saw Mr. Lewis, a gentleman who owned a fine cottage near the hotel. "Excuse me, but I am looking for Miss Sadie while Mrs. Elkins was enjoy- Marcus Marshall. I saw him dissappear here somewhere. Have you seen him? "I don't know the gentleman," said

George; "do you, Ninette?" "No, but I haven't seen any one near here for half an hour."

At this moment the hero emerged from an opening in the rocks. Ninette and George heard Mr. Lewis

"There he is now!" and turned back

Was this her hero? Her Apollo? George's face was blank with amaze ment. Ninette felt like skrieking. He was dark-yes, it must be admitted, very dark. He was a mulatto.

He was Marcus Marshall, the fine looking conductor of the famous Marshall minstrels, staying at the Golden. Ninette arose hastily, and George likewise. As they hurried away they heard

Mr. Lewis saying: "By the way, Marshall, I want to engage your services for my swell dinner next Thursday."

The rest was lost in the rapidly increasing distance between them. Ninette hurried into her room with Miss Sadie, and George wisely concluded to keep out of her way that day.

Next morning he went down on the beach. Ninette had to go with Miss

George marched straight up to Ninette and took her hand and looked into her tear swollen eyes.
"Now, my dear Ninette, let the past be forgotten. Your Apollo is in bronze and no good to you. You are safe enough now. I am going home today, and when you come back home next week I am going to ask you the same question I asked you the first day I came here," and George turned and hastened away.
